Insists Allegiance Pledge Must Go.

Britain Has Troubles

On the heels of the Irish Free State's defiance of the British government yesterday on the question of the oath to the king, more trouble faced Britain in India last night. The All-India Moslem conference, representing 70,000,000 Mohammedans, decided to boycott the round table conference on Indian independence because the Moslem demands have not been met. The Moslems threatened "direct action" at the end of June.

LONDON, March 22.—The dispute over taking an oath of allegiance to the British king, which has slowly been brewing between the Irish Free State and Great Britain since Eamon de Valera was elected president of the Free State two weeks ago, flared into the open today when De Valera flatly defied the British government.

J. H. THOMAS.

The defi was in the form of an official statement, made by John W. Dulanty, high commissioner of the Free State in London, to J. H. Thomas, British secretary for dominions. The statement declared that not only has the Free State the right to modify its constitution by removing the oath to the king, which is provided for in the Irish-British treaty of 1921, but that the result of the recent Free State election constituted a mandate from the electors to do so.

Holds Oath Not Mandatory.

Mr. Dulanty's statement was in reply to a request of the dominions secretary for "correct information" as to the intentions of the De Valera government.

Mr. Dulanty's statement said:

"The Irish Free State government holds that the oath is not mandatory in the treaty and that it has an absolute right to modify the constitution as the people desire. Furthermore, it is their view that, the constitution being the people's constitution, anything affecting it belongs to internal sovereignty and is purely a domestic matter.

Says People Want Abolition.

"But, besides these legal and constitutional considerations, there is another and paramount consideration, more than sufficient in itself to make the government's decision final and irrevocable. The people declared their will without ambiguity. Abolition of the oath was the principal and paramount issue for the electors.

"The oath has been the cause of strife and dissension in the Irish Free State since the signing of the treaty. The people, and not merely those who supported the present government, regarded it as a relic of medievalism, a test imposed from the outside under threats of an immediate and terrible war.

"The new government has no desire whatever to be on unfriendly relations with Great Britain. Quite to the contrary. But the British government must realize that real peace in Ireland is impossible so long as the full and free representation of the people in their parliament is rendered impossible by a test of this character.

Wants Friendly Relations.

"The minister and his government have the most sincere desire that relations between the two countries should be allowed to develop along formal lines and that normal relations between the two islands naturally be close and friendly.

"But there can be no normal relations between us as long as one side insists on imposing an oath, a conscience test, which has no parallel in treaty relationships between states.

"And even if the British government held the view that the oath was mandatory in the treaty, it must recognize that such a test is an imposition on the conscience of the people and is completely out of place in the political agreement between the two countries."

Britain Is Stunned.

HOUSE BOOSTS ESTATE TAX TO RECORD HEIGHTS

Maximum Levy Put at 45 Per Cent.

The senate refused to approve the 124 million dollar appropriations bill carrying funds for governmental departments and sent it back to committee with the demand that at least 10 per cent be shaved from the various items.

A move to leave out entirely the $11,000,000 prohibition item in the justice department budget was voted down without a roll call, but an item of $100,000 for entertainment of foreign posts of the diplomatic corps was scathingly denounced by Norris of Nebraska and Couzens of Michigan as "enough to keep the diplomatic corps drunk for a year."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Smashing its way to another victory over a demoralized Democratic leadership, the bipartisan house majority, headed by Representative F. H. La Guardia [Radical Rep., N. Y.] today approved the Ramseyer amendment to the billion dollar revenue bill boosting the federal tax on the estates of the wealthy to a maximum of 45 per cent.

REP. CHAS. CRISP.
[Harris & Ewing.]

At the same time the revolting group paved the way for what appears like certain defeat for the manufacturers' sales tax, the backbone of the revenue bill and the provision on which the ways and means committee hoped to furnish sufficient revenue to balance the budget. The house agreed to take up the sales tax ahead of other provisions in the bill and a vote is due Thursday. The Ramseyer amendment was adopted by a vote of 190 to 149.

"Soak Rich" Campaign.

Sponsors of the Ramseyer amendment, the latest plank in the bipartisan majority's "soak the rich" campaign estimated today that it will bring in half a billion dollars of revenue in normal years. The present estate tax law nets the government $30,000,000 annually after the states receive their shares.

As the new Ramseyer amendment will not be become effective so far as revenue is concerned for at least a year after it is enacted into law, if finally approved by congress, it is not expected it will add as much as 100 millions to the government's revenues during the fiscal year, 1933, when treasury officials are most anxious to raise additional funds.

The Ramseyer amendment imposes a supertax upon the present tax, which consists of the difference between the existing tax and a graduated scale of taxes ascending as high as 45 per cent on the part of net estates in excess of $10,000,000.

Tax Ranges from 1 to 45 Per Cent.

The 1926 federal estate law which is now effective imposes a tax graduated from 1 to 20 per cent on all estates in excess of $100,000, the maximum applying to $10,000,000 estates. The Ramseyer amendment imposes a tax of from 1 to 45 per cent upon all estates in excess of $50,000, the maximum of 45 per cent applying on the estates in excess of $10,000,000. To obtain the so-called supertax, all of which goes to the federal treasury, the two taxes are applied separately. The difference between the two is the supertax.

Under existing law states are entitled to a credit of 80 per cent of the 1926 estate tax, leaving the government but 20 per cent. An attempt to allow the states to participate in the revenue accruing from the Ramseyer estate tax schedule was defeated. Considerable confusion existed today regarding the exact amount which would be collected under the Ramseyer amendment, its opponents asserting it would not yield nearly as large a figure as predicted by Mr. Ramseyer.

Apparently, many members were under the impression when they voted for the Ramseyer amendment that its 45 per cent maximum was in addition to the 20 per cent in the present law, or a total of 65 per cent. Later, Ramseyer explained his rates exceeded those recommended by the ways and means committee by only 5 per cent.

Engage in Stormy Session.

As was the case last Friday and Saturday when the bipartisan majority

Find $30,000 Bank Fraud of Woman Clerk

The story of a resourceful divorcée who admits swindling a bank out of $30,000 by an unusual scheme will be told to the grand jury today. She is Mrs. Agnes Steen, former manager of checking accounts and bookkeeper for the Parkway State bank, 1950 North Clark street, from which she abstracted the funds.

The woman has made a full confession, according to officials of the bank, and Assistant State's Attorney William A. Rittenhouse will be asked to present the matter to the grand jury and seek an indictment today. The entire loss to the bank is covered by insurance and will be paid by the American Surety company, according to officials of that concern.

Mother of Two Children.

Mrs. Steen is about 35 years old, the mother of two children. She is divorced from a clerk in another bank. In appearance she is of the average bookkeeper type, medium in height and weight, brown hair and dark eyes, but in efficiency she is described as much above the average.

Mrs. Steen worked for the bank for about four years and her confessed defalcations extended over a period of a year and a half. She opened a checking account in another bank and then drew checks on the Parkway State bank, where she had no account.

These checks would be deposited to her credit in the other bank and when they returned to the Parkway State bank from the clearing house she would destroy them, according to her confession. Being in charge of the checking accounts she was able to escape detection by juggling the amounts of the destroyed checks among the accounts of the various depositors of the bank, according to investigators.

Innocent Man Accused.

Mrs. Steen is said to have realized about five weeks ago that she was in danger of being caught, so she attempted to forestall trouble by going to one of the bank's directors and accusing an innocent man. This man is said to have coöperated with the bank officials and insurance investigators in clearing up the matter and when he confronted Mrs. Steen she changed her story, admitting that she had taken the money.

Investigators said they had no means of determining how many checks Mrs. Steen put through, for she destroyed them, and they had not had time to consult the records of the other bank and the clearing house in the light of her story. Examination of the Parkway State bank's accounts, however, indicate that her story is correct as to the total peculations, that the loss will not exceed $20,000, according to the bank officials.

Dr. Daniel A. Orth is president of the Parkway State bank and Dr. Nelson M. Percy is vice president. Albert C. Svoboda is cashier.

LONDON, March 22.—Simultaneously with a Washington report that the United States anticipates a deficit of $2,500,000,000 and with France expecting a deficit of $125,000,000, it was annnounced today that Britain is likely to show a surplus of $50,000,000.

With eight days to go to end the financial year, income taxpayers have already subscribed $25,000,000 in excess of the revised budget estimate and surtax payers are only $12,400,000 short. Customs and excise revenues are about $50,000,000 in excess of last year's. Altogether $1,386,920,000 has been paid in income taxes thus far.

Mrs. Pearsons Wins Suit for Recognition

Mrs. Elizabeth Schmitt Pearsons, who was never given social recognition by her socially prominent husband, former Mayor Harry Putnam Pearsons of Evanston, last night won a complete victory in a suit for separate maintenance.

Judge Harry B. Miller, at the end of the trial, ruled that Mr. Pearsons must pay his wife permanent alimony of $40 a week. Also she is permitted to retain her dower interest in his property, estimated by himself at $90,000, and is granted $1,500 for attorney's fees.

Mr. Pearsons who is an attorney and bank director, had added dignity to the office of mayor, which he held five times, by wearing a plug hat and spats. He was married once before to the socially prominent Frances Keyes, who divorced him and married Addison Stillwell, president of a lumber company.

Wed to Save Her Reputation.

During the trial Mr. Pearsons testified that he had married Mrs. Pearsons only to save her reputation after pre-marital intimacies.

She told him, he said, that she was expecting a child shortly before they were married in June, 1928, and that she intended to undergo an operation to prevent the birth. But she pleaded, he added, that her heart was weak and she might die in the hospital and leave her name with the blot of shame upon it.

His gallantry, the former mayor said, led him to marry her secretly at Ottawa, Ill., with the understanding that if she recovered from the operation a divorce would be obtained.

"No announcement was ever to be made of the marriage," he added.

Went to Louisville.

It was shown in the testimony that in April, 1928, Mr. Pearsons and the woman who, he said, was his mistress, went on a trip to Louisville and registered as "H. Pearsons and wife" in Indiana hotels, both going and coming.

Mrs. Pearsons, however, contradicted the part of his testimony about the operation and the agreement. She asserted that the marriage occurred after ardent wooing by the 59 year old ex-mayor and that after the ceremony she was informed by him that his father was very ill and for that reason he preferred to make no announcement.

Pre-Nuptial Agreement.

There was, however, a pre-nuptial agreement on money matters, drawn in legal form, and this became an important factor in the separate maintenance suit. The couple never lived together, but Mrs. Pearsons established herself in a flat in Evanston, and, according to her statements, she and her husband made frequent visits to their respective homes. Finally, denied admittance to his home at 1816 Chicago avenue, Evanston, she broke in and was arrested.

In discussing the evidence Judge Miller said that it was apparent the courtship had been sincere, ardent and honorable and that "the marriage was consummated with sincere intentions on both sides."

Their Love Cooled.

"After the wedding," he added, "something happened, best known to the defendant, which caused the ardor and love between them to cool.

"The pre-nuptial agreement referred to is material to both sides, especially in deciding the intentions of the defendant. If this man had married this woman merely to play with, or to save her name, as he testified, the marriage ceremony itself would have been enough. The fact that the agreement provided her with ample means in the event of his death proves to me that the marriage was sincere."

The courtroom was crowded during the final arguments by Attorneys Frank Cantwell, representing the wife, and Lloyd Whitman, representing Mr. Pearsons. Both charged witnesses for the opposing sides with perjury.

3 Students Are Shot in Campus War

Columbia, Mo., March 22.—[Special.]—A comic campus plot to shave the heads of two law school students at the University of Missouri turned to tragedy tonight. One of the intended victims drew a pistol and fired on his assailants, who are students of the university college of engineering, wounding three.

Most seriously hurt is D. Frank Luckey of Columbia, captain elect of the university wrestling team. A bullet from the gun of a law student, Burtis Frederick of Union Star, Mo., struck him in the abdomen, inflicting a critical wound. The others injured are Jerry Cebe of St. Louis and Charles Love of Jefferson City, each of whom was shot in the right leg.

Kidnap Queen of Ball.

Frederick was one of a group of law students who kidnaped Miss Louise Butterfield of Kansas City Saturday night and prevented her from appearing at the engineering college's St. Pat ball, for which she had been elected queen.

This aroused the anger of the engineers and it is said that more than a dozen of them waylaid Frederick and a friend, Max A. Patten of Columbia, as they left a house near the campus. Patten was seized and taken away in an automobile. Frederick fired into the ground in the hope of frightening his assailants. They tried to beat him, however, and he shot Love.

Chased by Engineers.

Frederick then fled, but the engineers followed him. Turning back, he opened fire again and Luckey was struck. Love, whose wound was little more than a scratch, and several others overtook Frederick and subdued him after he had wounded Cebe.

ALABAMA, WITH 220 FATALITIES, IS HARDEST HIT

Call Out Troops to Halt Looting.

Birmingham, Ala., March 22.—[Special.]—The mounting death toll in a series of tornadoes which yesterday swept five southern states had reached 275 dead as slowly reëstablished communication from the stricken areas brought in reports of casualties. At least a thousand were injured. Property damage was close to two million dollars.

Alabama bore the brunt of the destruction and loss of life, with lesser losses in Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, and South Carolina. Latest reports give the following total of deaths:

Alabama	220
Georgia	34
Tennessee	17
Kentucky	2
South Carolina	2

At least half a dozen tornadoes were responsible for the havoc. One Alabama town, Marion, was struck by one storm and two hours later a second again swept destruction through its wreckage. At Clanton two men who were injured were taken to Thorsby, 5 miles away, for treatment. Shortly after their arrival a second twister swept through that town, but they were spared further injury.

Deals Wholesale Death.

First force of the twisting winds was felt at Marion, where 18 are dead as the result of the dual visitation of the storm. Nearby at Northport 29 are dead and the town is in ruins.

The same storm, circling back, or another twister, struck next in the southern part of the state. Demopolis, Faunsdale, and Linden bore the brunt of the elements there. Then the winds tore into the northeast section, hitting Lomax with 4 dead, Columbiana with 16, and Thorsby with 12. In Sylacauga 20 were dead, scores injured, and more than 100 buildings destroyed. Marble Valley near by was swept clear of buildings, but there were no deaths there. Twenty-one were killed at Cullman.

At about the same time twisters were roaring through northern Georgia. At Dalton, Macedonia, Athens, Rome, and Cartersville and vicinity more than a score of lives were lost. Other communities reported one or two deaths apiece.

Loss of life was less as the fringes of the storm from Alabama swept into Tennessee and Kentucky, and the Georgia twisters rushed on into South Carolina.

Troops Halt Looting.

The question of relief for the homeless and protection of damaged property from looting began to share attention with the care of the injured and the search for the dead as the day wore on.

The Red Cross was organizing in Alabama and had assurances of assistance from national headquarters in Washington. Gov. B. M. Miller, in a proclamation, called upon residents of the state for contributions.

"There will be great suffering unless there is quick and generous aid," the governor said.

Sylacauga authorities reported to the governor that they were unable to stop looting there. Adjutant General Harley Moon ordered out the howitzer company of the 167th infantry, Alabama National Guard, whose home station is Sylacauga, to do police duty. National Guard troops were also patrolling Northport, hardest hit of the Alabama towns.

Tuscaloosa Escapes Twister.

Tuscaloosa escaped the force of the storm, a twister passing along the outskirts and damaging the country club where one person was injured so seriously he may die, but it was bearing a large burden of the relief work. Its hospitals and the University of Alabama gymnasium were filled with injured from Northport and other nearby communities. Medical students were aiding physicians and nurses in caring for the sufferers. Physicians and nurses were being mobilized throughout the state and being hastened to points of need.

One of the heaviest tolls of the storm was taken in a livery stable in Northport where six persons who had taken refuge there were killed. Several others in the stable were injured. The proprietor, R. B. Ray, was killed by a falling beam, but Wilbur Snyder, whose hand he was shaking at the time, was uninjured.

There were many strange stories told by survivors. At Dalton, Ga., a man was blown into a tree, a splinter of timber forced through his arm, and he hung there until daylight when rescuers found him. At Cassville, Ga., a man was found dead with a baby three weeks old, alive and unhurt, in his arms.

Dog Guards Shoes.

One dog guarded an automobile in the wreckage of a garage, fighting off all who came near him, but seemingly too dazed to move otherwise. Another at Athens, Ga., guarded four pairs of shoes while his mistress lay dead fifty yards away.

Tragedy settled heavily on the family of J. M. Queen, who lives on the Montgomery highway near Thorsby. The house was blown down. The wreckage caught fire and burned to death a small child. Mrs. Queen died in a hospital from her injuries and Queen and a young daughter are in a hospital here.

A baby was blown from its mother's arms at Cleveland, Tenn., after the family had fled its home as the wind demolished it. The child was tumbled along the ground into an open well, where it drowned.

Herbert L. Kindred and P. J. Haire, pilots of an American Airways plane, brought first news of the graveness of the storm to Birmingham. They narrowly escaped disaster, but, although the tri-motor plane was buffeted about by the winds, succeeded in reaching here. They passed over Northport a few minutes after the tornado struck there and saw how extensive has been the damage.

Cold Weather Arrives.

Cold weather settled down on the storm wrecked areas tonight, adding to the suffering of those not able to find protection, but the skies were clear and a bright moon aided those still searching wreckage for dead and injured.

Each community had provided a hurriedly set up relief organization and throughout Monday night and today and into tonight the work went on. Stores, courthouses, churches, and any other available places were transformed quickly into first aid stations.

Forest Fires Fanned.

Doctors and nurses from Birmingham and Montgomery were among the first to reach the storm areas and several ambulances from Birmingham were transporting patients.

In North Carolina, the tag end of the storm, which blew with gale velocity, was fanning forest fires to renewed fury today and flames were sweeping through thousands of acres of timber. Fire fighters were unable to cope with the advance. The flames have reached and entered the Fort Bragg military reservation.

Rides Tin Roof to Death.

Bisbee, Ariz., March 22.—(AP)—An aerial ride with a tin roof in a windstorm that ended in the death of one rancher and injury of another is described in reports received here from Cochise, Ariz.

J. S. Jackson, rancher, and his father-in-law, J. T. Pile, lashed the sheet tin roof of their adobe home to a bed with ropes when the wind began tugging at the structure.

A terrific gust shortly afterward lifted the roof with the bed dangling to it. Sitting on the bed, the men were carried several hundred yards and dropped in a field. The falling roof killed Jackson. Pile escaped with serious injuries.

Auto Thief, Jail Breaker, Gets 2½ Years in U. S. Cell

Howard Miller, 29 years old, found guilty of stealing an automobile in Buffalo, N. Y., and driving it to South Bend, Ind., was sentenced to two and a half years in the Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge Thomas Slick in Hammond yesterday. Miller once served a prison sentence in Illinois for robbery. Fourteen months ago, after his arrest in South Bend, he broke jail and fled to Detroit. He was captured and returned to Hammond for trial.

HOOVER FRIEND HINTS REVISION OF BRITISH DEBT

(Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.)

LONDON, March 22.—Henry J. Haskell, editor of the Kansas City Star and a friend of President Hoover, who is now in London, has written a letter to the London Times in which he says that after the American elections Washington, D. C., may agree with London on some revision of the British debt settlement with America to meet the temporarily impaired capacity of this country to pay.

Mr. Haskell's letter, which will be published in the London Times tomorrow, was provoked by David Lloyd George's new book on war debts in which the author attacks both Andrew Mellon and Stanley Baldwin for the American settlement.

"It may well prove that conditions have so changed for the worse in the last decade that a settlement that was fair in 1923 may be excessively onerous today," Mr. Haskell's letter says. "Possibly, after the American elections Washington may agree with London on some revision of the British settlement to meet the temporarily impaired capacity to pay. But I may point out incidentally that general cancellation of interallied debts would not cancel debts of more than ten billion dollars still owing to the United States. Somebody must pay these outstanding bonds. Cancellation would merely transfer the burden of payment from European to American taxpayers."

PILOT FAINTS AND 'HELPLESS' NOVICE LANDS HIS PLANE

San Diego, Cal., March 22.—(AP)—A marine corporal, who was a novice in the air, brought a training plane safely to earth today when the pilot fainted at an altitude of 5,000 feet.

Corporal H. N. Torner was a passenger with Staff Sergeant Orla S. Hofer. Hofer became ill, fainted and fell forward against the controls.

Torner watched the plane begin its crazy descent, then crawled out of his cockpit, pulled the unconscious sergeant away from the controls, and took command. He brought the plane out of a spin and landed it safely, if awkwardly.

SUN AND SHOVELS REMOVE DRIFTS; SPRING ON WAY

But Chicago May Get Bit of Snow Today.

A light snow may fall today, but otherwise the winter storm is over in the Chicago district, Weather Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted yesterday. He predicted partly cloudy and slightly warmer for Thursday and spring may make a tardy appearance by the end of the week.

The heavy snowfall, totaling 8.9 inches in depth, which struck the city and the middle west Sunday night, ended shortly after midnight yesterday. The fight to keep traffic moving despite the drifts was successful. No serious delays or tie-ups were reported by the surface lines. Almost all the work of clearing the traffic streets was done by private concerns, the city having no money to hire extra snow shovelers. Twenty plows, operated by regular employés, were kept working all night by the city.

Snow Starts to Melt.

Throughout the gales of Monday the temperature remained not far below the freezing mark. Yesterday the mercury rose to 32 degrees at noon and 33 degrees at 3 p. m., and Chicago sloshed about through melting heaps of snow.

The storm caused suspension of traffic on the outer drive, both south and north, but park employés were working yesterday to open them for use today. Railroad trains were entering Chicago slightly late, but on-time service was resumed late yesterday. Hundreds of extra men were employed by the railroads to keep the lines open.

Only a few main highways were blocked by snow, according to the Chicago Motor club, and reports received by the club indicated that these would all be open today.

Mayor Makes Appeal.

Mayor Cermak issued an appeal to property owners and tenants to clean the sidewalks in front of their homes or places of business.

Stanley Pachynski, 54 years old, president of the Continental Shoe company, died in his home at 713 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, after he had been stricken with a heart attack while shoveling snow off the sidewalk in front of his home.

The middle west was struggling out of the snow drifts yesterday, but the storm will be only a memory today, according to indications. Wrecked telephone poles, damaged sheds and barns were left as relics of the gale.

REPORT BIG DAMAGE DONE BY SERIES OF STORMS IN INDIANA

Indianapolis, Ind., March 22.—[Special.]—Communications were crippled and wide property damage was reported throughout central and southern Indiana today as a result of a series of miniature tornadoes and severe windstorms which swept across the state last night.

The heaviest damage was at Evansville, where a tornado partially wrecked a furniture factory, causing damage estimated at $500,000, and damaged a school and a number of other buildings.

One man, C. E. Ward, a farmer living near Jasonville, was killed by lightning, and three other deaths were traced indirectly to the storm.

At Hamilton, O., five persons were taken to hospitals and a score of others received minor injuries when a tornado wrecked a number of houses.

The tornadoes were accompanied by a number of freak incidents and miraculous escapes. Robert Galloway, a farmer living in Lawrence county, reported that the tornado struck his farm as he was feeding ten hogs, and picked him and the hogs up and carried them 200 yards without injury. He is a veteran of two previous tornadoes.

At Stone City the wind twisted the door of an airplane hangar open, swept a plane belonging to Gordon Henderson into the open and wrecked it, but did not damage the hangar.

At Scottsburg, in southern Pike county, Mrs. Emma McKinney, a widow, saw the tornado approaching. She ran out of her house. Just as she left the door the wind tore the building from its foundations. She dropped to the ground and the house was carried over head and smashed on the ground some distance away, without hurting her.

At Robinson, Ill., four workmen finished a new bandstand in the city park just in time for the tornado to smash it to kindling. An amphitheater in the park was also wrecked.

E. J. DENEMARK IS APPOINTED BRIDEWELL HEAD

Mayor Cermak announced yesterday that he will submit to the council meeting today the appointment of Edward J. Denemark, commissioner of compensation, to be superintendent of the bridewell. The superintendent's job pays $5,000 a year and maintenance. The mayor's son-in-law, State Senator Richey V. Graham, is now holding the job, without salary. He is also chairman of the board of bridewell inspectors. He recently informed Mayor Cermak that the duties of superintendent have become too heavy for him to handle, and suggested that a superintendent be appointed.

Joseph Voss, Democratic committeeman in the 50th ward, treasurer of the forest preserve district, is to be appointed commissioner of compensation soon to succeed Mr. Denemark, it was reported.

Galpin Explains His Break with Crowe at Custer Rally

Homer K. Galpin, former chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, stole the show last night at Omer N. Custer's Chicago "coming out" party at 1432 West Madison street, in the 27th ward. Mr. Galpin made a speech that somehow took the fire from what Candidate Custer, gubernatorial aspirant, had to say, for Galpin disclosed the reason for his break with Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney.

The revelation came in the interim between speeches by State's Attorney John A. Swanson, whom Crowe opposes with the candidacy of Judge Michael Feinberg, and Mr. Custer. Nothing had been said by any of the Emmerson organization candidates, who had been introduced by Galpin, to indicate that Crowe and Galpin had once been close friends, but the chairman of the meeting took it upon himself to tell the story.

Galpin Explains Break.

"Many of you might wonder why I am no longer associated with Mr. Crowe," said Galpin, and the crowd grew quiet. "It's easy to explain," he added slowly.

"After the primary election in 1928 [in which Swanson defeated Crowe], I was at my summer home in Wisconsin when I had a phone call from Crowe asking me to meet him at a hotel in Milwaukee. I accepted the invitation.

"At the meeting Crowe asked me to support Al Smith and the entire Democratic ticket. I said to him, 'Bob Crowe, you owe everything you've got, and I don't know if you have a nickel or a million, to the Republican party. I'm going out and get just as many votes as I can for the Republicans,' and I did."

This declaration, coming just after Swanson had received loud applause, was also met with cheers.

When he introduced the state's attorney, Galpin took another pot shot at Crowe, reminding the audience that Crowe's law firm, Crowe, Gorman & Savage, had profited by a $48,000 receivership fee in a bank case in the face of Feinberg's championing of the cause of unfortunate bank depositors.

Swanson Traces His Career.

Mr. Swanson traced his personal history from his first job, as a boy of 14, "not far from this meeting hall," to his successive offices, judge of the Municipal court, of the Superior court, and finally state's attorney.

As to Judge Feinberg's campaign, Mr. Swanson charged that "whatever he's doing he's doing for the sake of publicity.

"When I stopped being a judge, I stopped, for I was running for office," Swanson said. "I didn't further my own ambitions because I was on the bench. He might feel that he could send me to jail for what I am saying tonight as contempt of court, but I don't think he'll do it. I won't further my own ambitions by persecuting somebody."

Mr. Custer, who carries the Emmerson banner in the primary campaign, made fun of the various claims of candidates opposing him who make claims of being able to bring the state back to prosperity. He said nothing about the prohibition issue, in which he is classed as a dry, although he was speaking in a dripping wet ward, famous for its speakeasies and flophouses.

"One of my opponents [Len Small] says a vote for him is a vote for prosperity," said Custer. "If he's holding that up as an election pledge and is bartering with us, I say what kind of a fellow is he? Another says a vote for him is a slap at the depression. If I were he I'd slug it and be done with it."

If elected, Custer said, he will do all in his power to cut the tax bills and he emphasized that he would put in a system of economy "that will be felt in the pocketbooks of all who pay taxes." He reiterated his pledge that he will not become a candidate for reelection if elected.

Other Candidates Heard.

Other speakers were State Senator Harry G. Wright of De Kalb, candidate for auditor and Custer's campaign manager; Judge Edward Casey of the Municipal court, running for reelection, and Judge Robert E. Gentzel, candidate for attorney general.

Tonight Custer will speak at the Lincoln Turner hall, 1019 Diversey parkway, and State's Attorney Swanson at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium, Ashland boulevard and Van Buren street, and at 7724 South Halsted street.

Germany Forbids Hitler to Broadcast His Speeches

BERLIN, March 22.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's demand for facilities to broadcast his campaign speeches as did President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Bruening during the recent presidential campaign was refused today. The authorities reminded him the government does not permit broadcasting political speeches for the second presidential ballot.

BRUNDAGE WARS ON GANG CONTROL OF COUNTY G. O. P.

Charges Capone Plot to Seize Machinery.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general and now a candidate for governor, asserted yesterday that Al Capone is attempting to get control of the Republican party in Cook county.

E. J. BRUNDAGE.

He made the charge to his ward and district leaders at a meeting in the Hotel La Salle headquarters called so that he might outline to them the kind of battle he intends to press during the last three weeks of the campaign. He told his lieutenants that he wanted them particularly to take his message back to their forces and instruct them to make the fight along the lines he laid down.

Mr. Brundage explained that he was leaving for downstate where his demand will be for economy in government, lower taxation, and the repeal of prohibition, and for that reason he wanted to launch immediately his fight against "the racketeering of the Republican party" upon which he will center his efforts in the Cook county battle in its final stages. He said he would amplify and detail his charges as the campaign progresses.

Tells Capone's Purpose.

The former attorney general asserted that the immediate purpose of the Capone gang is to get control of the Republican county committee which nominates the party's candidates for the bench. The end in view, he said, was to enable the gangsters to name the men who may be called upon to try them. He said that the present state administration is lending itself to this purpose by turning its patronage over to certain ward committeemen subservient to Capone.

"What has a governor to do about this?" he asked at this point. "Prevent his patronage from being used as a part of the system. If Gov. Emmerson does not know what use is being made of the public employment under his control, it is time that he make some inquiries. A governor from Chicago, familiar with local conditions, would have understood the situation.

"If I were governor the troops would be used to rid Chicago of the gangsters if they could not be gotten rid of in any other manner."

In starting his talk, Brundage said that unless Chicago wakes up it will find itself in the hands of a Camorra "dominating its government."

Prohibition Carries Blame.

"This gangdom," he continued, "is the result of the prohibition laws. Regardless of other phases of the question, we must admit these laws have produced organized crime on a basis never before imagined possible in our American life.

"Under skillful hands a syndicate of criminals has grown until it threatens to take political control of our city. It has almost got it now. Vice of every form is within its organized grasp. The leaders of some labor organizations are subservient.

"This business corporation will not discontinue because Capone, its chief, has been sent to prison. Others will take his place and the business of electing aldermen, legislators, and ward committeemen will continue. It gives them power, the influence and the protection necessary to keep going.

"The danger to Chicago can be ended in one election if law abiding citizens will arouse themselves and vote. If they continue to remain indifferent the picture I have presented will become a full reality. A few finishing touches and it will be complete."

Tells Power of Committee.

Going into his charge that "politicians, both officeholders and outsiders are working with this syndicate," Brundage said:

"Under a foolish law the county committee, sitting as a convention, nominates the judges of our Circuit and Superior courts. What the Capone syndicate is aiming for in the primaries is the election of its candidates for ward committeemen.

"If it gets a majority the criminal syndicate will be able to name the judicial candidates—select the men to try them if decency ever brings them to trial.

"Gangsters, not shabby bums, but slick, well clad fellows, travel from one ward to another getting their names on the registration books under the guidance of local politicians.

"Thousands of such gangsters registered and voted in last spring's primaries. In the 27th ward, the home of Custer's Chicago campaign manager, Holmer Galpin, the city hall candidate received in the primaries 1,032 more votes than he got on election day.

"It is quite significant that in this field and in this atmosphere Mr. Custer tonight opens his appeal for Chicago support."

Horner and Igoe Meet.

There was some jesting about a "love feast" between two candidates for the Democratic governorship nomination, Judge Henry Horner and Michael L. Igoe, met at the speakers' table at the City club at noon. They even consented to shake hands while their photographs were being taken, and each, in his speech, said that he offered no criticism of the personality, record or qualifications of the other.

To avoid disappointing his audience, Judge Horner arose from a sick bed to make his talk. A cold gave him a high fever on Monday, caused the loss of his voice and put him under a physician's care.

In his speech the Probate judge stressed particularly the need for revising the state banking and securities laws to prevent a repetition of the experiences of the people of Illinois during the last two years. He also emphasized his promise that, if elected, he will not conduct the governor's office as the center of a political machine.

Judge Horner also said that, unlike some candidates, he had not pussyfooted on the prohibition question in dry territory downstate.

In following him, Representative Igoe said that he had omitted talking about prohibition because his written as well as his spoken record on the question is so well known. Then he confined the rest of his speech to taxation, hammering at his point that all property must be taxed equally under the constitution.

"To my mind," he said, "that is the most important question in Illinois today. It soars above all others. Some governor is going to be elected who will have the intelligence, who will have the nerve to enforce the revenue laws against all owners of property alike."

At a dinner in the Palmer house last night, William H. Malone, Republican candidate for governor, urged that some of his opponents be pensioned off as superannuates.

Bruce Campbell, Democratic candidate for the governorship, told a Joliet audience last night that the Democratic vote downstate this year will be from two to three times as large as it ever has been.

"And I shall receive 70 per cent of it," he added

MISS RAMBEAU LOSES $40,000 LOVE THEFT SUIT

Jury Decides Case in Just Thirty Minutes.

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—After less than 30 minutes' deliberating this afternoon a jury in the Supreme court returned a verdict of $40,000 damages against Marjorie Rambeau, the actress, for alienating the affections of the former husband of Mrs. Mabel Manton. The case was tried before Justice Phoenix Ingraham.

MARJORIE RAMBEAU. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

Miss Rambeau, who recently married Francis A. Gudger, was not present at the trial, which was completed in less than three hours. She submitted a deposition for her defense, stating that she did not have sufficient money to make the trip east from Hollywood, where she is now engaged in making a motion picture. The same case was tried two years ago and resulted in the disagreement of the jury.

Sued for $100,000.

Mrs. Manton was formerly the wife of Kevitt Manton, an actor. They were divorced in 1927 and Mr. Manton died last July. The plaintiff charged Miss Rambeau with having tampered with her husband's affections during the season of 1924-'25 when Manton and the actress were playing opposite each other in "The Valley of Contentment." She sued for $100,000.

The plaintiff took the witness stand today and testified that in the spring of 1925 she found her husband and Miss Rambeau scantily clad in the Hotel Endicott in this city. Later, she said, she found a note which she said Miss Rambeau had written to her husband. It read: "Darling, I love you. Nothing can keep us apart. Your pal in crime, Marjorie R."

"Rehearsing," She Claims.

Miss Rambeau, in her answer to the suit, said that she and the actor were only rehearsing lines in a new play at the time they were surprised in the hotel room.

Miss Rambeau formerly made frequent appearances on the metropolitan stage, but in recent years she has been acting in motion pictures in Hollywood. Alonzo Duke, who said he was a friend of the Manton family, testified that Mr. and Mrs. Manton were happily married until Mr. Manton and Miss Rambeau appeared in the play.

FALLING WALL INJURES FIREMAN.

Fireman Arthur Johnson was seriously injured by a falling wall and twenty-five persons were driven out into the snow early yesterday when fire swept three store-apartment buildings in East Chicago and caused $100,000 damage.

That's Where War Rages for Party Control.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

As usual, the west side, where party lines are about as unknown as prohibition and the Volstead act, is the stage for some of the most bitter battles over ward committeemen, particularly among the Republicans. The river wards, the home of privileges and rackets, are the region where the job of committeeman is exalted to the highest. Two little words whisper why—patronage and protection.

Here the arts of vote trading and swapping—with the committeeship generally serving as the basis of exchange—have reached a high development. Here the archaeologists suppose the double cross was first invented.

Morris Eller Drops Out.

In the "bloody 20th," Morris Eller, former city collector under the old city hall régime, is dropping out as Republican ward committeeman. The backroom lads say more bluntly that he was "pushed out" by Ald William V. Pacelli, also of the old city hall, who himself a few years back was pushed out of a job as ward superintendent for being "on too many pay rolls."

Ald. Pacelli, who is aligned with Harding-Emmerson, is supporting Custer and Swanson. He has three opponents but no fight worthwhile. His opponents are Michael Francisco, Grande B. Peckens, and James Defily. The Deneen candidate, Michael Centanno, withdrew.

For the Democrats, Committeeman A. J. Prignano is without opposition. He used to be an anti-machine alderman in the old régime and he came into politics as a protege of the late Dennis J. Egan, municipal court bailiff. Four years ago Pacelli pushed Prignano out as alderman.

The ward regarded as the jungle of Chicago politics. It abounds in alky cookers and moonshine makers, to say nothing of the fabricators of genuine imported Scotch made in the local cellars. It is the shadow of Capone.

George F. Barrett in Race.

In the 21st ward, George F. Barret, former judge, is running to succeed his brother, the late Charles V. Barrett, member of the board of review, who was leader of a party faction. His chief opponent is James Curran, state representative and present Republican committeeman of the old 26th ward. He was formerly superintendent of the Bridewell. Mr. Barrett is listed for Custer and Swanson; Mr. Curran, for Custer and Feinberg.

Other Republican candidates are James F. Glennen, Victor T. Schultz, S. F. Struhart, Frank C. Freid, and James E. Loftus.

As to the Democrats, Congressman A. J. Sabath, who has been committeeman for years, is opposed by Edward Skarda, a state representative; Stanley T. Kusper, and John J. Pecka. The congressman's brother, Rudolph Sabath, withdrew to promote family harmony.

Steinmeyer for Custer.

Harry A. Steinmeyer is running for reëlection as Republican committeeman in the 22d. He is superintendent of the institution for the blind and is lined up with Custer and Feinberg. Among his opponents is August W. Miller, who was committeeman for years, and is a former sanitary trustee recently acquitted in the "whoopee era" trial. He is with Small.

Other candidates are Rudolph Mulac, auditor of the forest preserve and former alderman; Fred W. Menshing, Anthony L. Golusinski, Otto J. Steidinger, Edward J. Schultz, Frank Svoboda, Henry A. Cohen, and Andrew Kellinger.

Ald. John Toman, rated as having perhaps the best organized ward machinery in the city, is without opposition for Democratic committeeman in the 23d.

William Lass, Republican committeeman, has among his opponents Charles Vavrik, whom he beat last time. Lass, who has a west parks job, is with Custer and Feinberg. Vavrik is with Small. Others are Fred Belsan, Winfield J. Held, an ex-alderman; George Budarek, Charles J. Jaros, Frank M. Dolezal, Herbert Jochim, and Carl Sieber.

G. O. P. Battle in 24th.

A hot struggle is engaging Republicans in the 24th. Committeeman Paul W. Rothenberg, a follower of the late Charles V. Barrett, has for his chief opponent Emanuel Eller, former judge and son of Morris Eller. Rothenberg, who is a former deputy coroner, is a division superintendent on the west parks, and he is with Custer and Swanson. Eller is with Small. The ward is echoing with complaints of intimidation and strong arm tactics, and the battling is intense. Other candidates are Louis Pollack, Sidney Goldstein, and Louis Cohen.

On the Democratic end Committeeman Moe Rosenberg has two opponents, Ray Quinn and I. G. Marmon of the Igoe camp.

Ald James B. Bowler, running for reëlection as Democratic committeeman in the 25th, has three opponents, Peter J. Becker, James O'Leary, and James R. Griffin.

On the Republican side James J. Savage, brother of Joseph P. Savage, member of the board of education, who was elected committeeman but retired, is opposed by William Parrillo, endorsed by the Deneen group. Savage is listed as for Carlstrom and Feinberg; Parillo for Custer and Swanson.

A Duel in the 31st.

James Vignola, employed on the west parks, present committeeman of the old 31st, has one contender in the 26th ward Republican primaries, Nicholas Collins of the Deneen camp. Vignola used to be on the board of local improvements under the old city hall administration. He is with Custer and Swanson.

On the Democratic side, Joseph Przybylo, present committeeman, has ten opponents. Medard A. Kunz is the Igoe candidate. Others are John Szymaszek, Stanley Helka, Peter Kosla, Alexander J. Sobota, Joseph J. Martinus, Peter Wojciechowski, Dante Cortesi, Roman A. Kapelanski, and Ted Szymanski.

Homer K. Galpin's old ward, the 27th, has the usual scrimmage, out of which the Galpin men have been accustomed to emerge as victors. Committeeman William M. Garrison, a protégé of Galpin, who is managing the Custer campaign, is one of the division superintendents of the west park board, and he is with Custer and Swanson. Under the old city hall administration he was in the department of supplies. Running against him are Anthony D'Ambrosia, Michael Missagia, Pugh F. Lindzie, Hugh L. Lindsay, Louigi Misiani Pasqualino, and Felix J. Jarnowsky.

Among the Democrats, Committeeman John J. Touhy, sanitary trustee, is without opposition.

Nash Versus Purcelli.

Pat A. Nash, Democratic county chairman, is opposed for committeeman in the 28th by Ernest C. Purcelli, who is supporting Igoe for governor, and by Harry L. Dunn.

For the Republicans, Alexander N. Todd, present committeeman, has for chief adversary Joseph A. Porcaro, an attaché of the state's attorney's office who has the Deneen indorsement. Todd is with Custer and Feinberg. Porcaro is with Custer and Swanson. Others are Charles E. Jensby, Charles E. Millhouser, Harold J. Evans, Isadore Finkelstein, Charles Cavanaugh, Leo R. Loughran.

A sweet mixup is in the 29th. Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, is not running for reëlection as committeeman. His candidate for the succession is Samuel O. Shaffer. Joseph R. Orrico, an assistant state's attorney, has the Deneen backing. Shaffer is following Crowe for Carlstrom for governor and Feinberg for state's attorney, while Orrico is for Custer for governor and Swanson for state's attorney. George E. Nye, a Galpin man who used to be boiler inspector at the city hall, withdrew from the race and is supporting Custer and Swanson. Other candidates are Meyer Kaplan, Jacob Bass and Sidney Friedman.

On the Democratic end, Martin J. O'Brien, former managing chairman and ex-controller of the Dever administration, is opposed by William P. Clarke.

Candidate Guest of Business Men

Wayland Brooks, candidate for Republican nomination for state treasurer; Raymond Gray, past president of Howard Street Business Men's association, and Morey Rosenthal, secretary of the Howard Street Business Men's association, at dinner given for Mr. Brooks at the Limehouse chop suey cafe at 1561 Howard street.

Notes of the Primary Campaign

Attorney General Carlstrom will take his governorship fight to Rockford this evening and to Peoria tomorrow.

Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor, will go back downstate next week, appearing at Champaign, Urbana, and Bloomington on Monday, Pekin and Peoria on Tuesday, Joliet on Thursday, and in La Salle county on Friday.

Newton Jenkins has announced his indorsement for the Republican nomination for United States senator by the 21 railroad brotherhoods. The same brotherhoods are fighting the confirmation of Judge Wilkerson to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, an appointment sponsored by United States Senator Glenn.

H. M. Peters, manager of the Democratic "victory drive" in Illinois, has announced that steps will be taken to organize the Minute Men of the Democratic national committee in this state. The new organization is to act as an advisory body for the national committee.

The 9th Ward Republican club, Fred L. Hills, president, has indorsed John E. Northup for the attorney generalship.

Marine post of the American Legion has announced its indorsement of C. Wayland Brooks for the state treasurership.

The Norwegian Women's Democratic club entertained the officers and other members of the Illinois Women's Democratic club at the Hotel Sherman yesterday. John C. Martin, regular candidate for state treasurer, was the principal speaker.

The Chicagoans club, a Len Small organization, has indorsed Dr. Joseph C. Ross, Republican, for the nomination for coroner.

SENATE DEMANDS KNIFE FOR FUNDS OF DEPARTMENTS

O. K. Millions for Drys, Cut Foreign Service.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]Senate "ten per centers" today by a vote of 50 to 29, recommended the 124 million dollar appropriations bill for the state, justice, commerce, and labor departments back to the committee on appropriations for a mandatory 10 per cent cut, with a resultant 12 million dollar saving.

SEN. McKELLAR.

Senator McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] is the big chief of the fast growing band of "ten per centers." His Democratic followers on the vote today include the following senators:

Bailey, Bankhead, Barkley, Black, Bratton, Bulkley, Bulow, Brynes, Caraway, Coolidge, Copeland, Costigan, Dill, Fletcher, George, Glass, Gore, Harrison, Hawes, Hull, King, Logan, Long, McGill, Morrison, Neely, Robinson [Ark.], Sheppard, Trammell, Tydings, Walsh [Mass.], Wheeler.

From across the aisle he won the following Republican recruits: Bingham, Blaine, Borah, Capper, Couzens, Glenn, Hatfield, Herbert, Howell, Kean, Keys, Metcalf, Moses, Thomas [Ida.], Vandenberg, Walcott, and the Farmer-Labor senator, Shipstead.

Slaps Department Heads.

This group agreed with Minority Leader Robinson that "a crisis has come in our legislative program." And they seemed to indorse his argument that "acquiescence in the theory that department heads know better than the senate how much they need for their departments has made government grow so expensive recently."

Opposition to the motion was led by Senator Jones, regular Republican from Washington, who, as chairman of the appropriations committee framing the bill, fought for it, and the radical Republicans Blaine of Wisconsin and Norris of Nebraska.

Senator Blaine wanted to use the knife where he said it was most needed—on the prohibition enforcement section of the justice department. He offered an amendment to strike out the entire $11,000,000 item, leaving only $250,000 for some expenses incurred by the attorney general when prohibition enforcement was shifted to his shoulders.

"It is ridiculous," Senator Blaine declared, "to take money from the poor in a sales tax and hand it over to prohibition spies, nefarious creatures who go about trying to see that some one does not take a drink."

His Sarcasm Wasted.

The amendment was voted down without a roll call and the $11,000,000 stayed in the original bill.

Senator Norris wanted the appropriations for state department foreign posts cut.

"Many of these state department officials and diplomats," he charged, "have nothing to do except dress up and go to dinner and wear fine clothes. We could rid ourselves of thousands of them with no harm and some benefit."

He was particularly irked at the $100,000 item for "representation allowances" in the foreign service. When it was explained to him that that meant "official entertainment" he raised his fist and shook it in the air as he shouted:

"There's enough whisky in that $100,000 to make our whole diplomatic corps drunk."

Cut the item 10 per cent and there will still be enough, he persisted "to get a lot drunk."

DETROIT FACES FINANCIAL CRISIS, COUNCIL IS TOLD

Detroit, Mich., March 22.—[Special.]—Detroit faces another financial crisis and today Controller Roosevelt informed the council that unless it takes certain drastic measures the city will be forced to omit its $1,700,000 pay roll for board of education employés due Thursday.

Roosevelt added there will be a net cash deficit of $4,056,000 at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, unless tax collections pick up.

He submitted a resolution which would put the council on record as favoring a tax sale of all city bids July 6, as a measure of making up the deficit through tax collections and the sale.

As an alternative Roosevelt said it would be necessary to make up $4,056,000 in payless pay days for city employés.

He added that Ralph Stone, chairman of the citizen's finance committee, has indicated that as local representative of the New York banks he would not approve a loan of $1,700,000 which the city needs by Thursday, or an additional $1,900,000 loan needed later, unless the $4,056,000 slash is made, or an equivalent is collected in taxes.

The council substituted a resolution introduced Monday by Councilman Lodge which sets a definite policy regarding an ending of reduction of penalty charges on city taxes and omits the tax sales for the Roosevelt resolution, which includes the tax sale.

CHICAGOAN TALKS TO LINDBERGH ON NEW BABY CLEW

Caldwell Departs Later on Secret Errand.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Trenton, N. J., March 22.—[Special.]—H. Wallace Caldwell, Chicago business man who brought important information to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh concerning the search for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, paid his third visit to the Hopewell home this afternoon.

Mr. Caldwell conferred there with Col. Lindbergh, members of the family and the New Jersey authorities concerning a mission which took him to New York City last night. The Chicago man, who is said to be representing a middle western group seeking to trap the abductors and at the same time strike at the root of the kidnaping racket, left Trenton late today for an unannounced destination.

Departs in Secret.

THE TRIBUNE reporter was eating lunch with Mr. Caldwell today when Trenton reporters discovered the Chicagoan had returned to town. Mr. Caldwell, after telling them he was here to deliver important information to the Lindberghs, left in the company of a state trooper for the Hopewell estate.

His departure was marked with the same secrecy which surrounded his first entrance into the case on March 17. Mr. Caldwell's baggage was removed from the checkroom of his hotel while police watched the side entrance.

Mr. Caldwell, in today's interview with the writer, intimated that his trip to New York had not been entirely successful, but revealed that the lead which he and his fellow Chicago workers were following was still "hot" and appeared to be the most constructive turned up since March 1 when the baby was stolen from his crib in the Lindbergh home.

Not Trailing "Fanciful Tip."

"I cannot answer your question about my Chicago aids other than to say that I am not directly connected with the Secret Six organization. I suggest that you ask the most likely persons to be interested in the Lindbergh baby search in Chicago what I am doing here."

Mr. Caldwell, before leaving Trenton, said he still expected to obtain results and that the information he had was still of major importance.

"There are dozens of fanciful tips and clews being brought to the attention of the authorities," said Mr. Caldwell, "but this is not one of them. It is sound, I believe sounder than any of the others. We will follow it to the end."

Mr. Caldwell was asked whether his trip to New York was connected with the raid in the Bronx when an attempt to capture Harry Fleischer, member of the Detroit Purple gang, failed.

"I cannot tell you what I did in New York. If I talked it would be dangerous."

With that settled, Mr. Caldwell called the state house and left the hotel a few minutes later with a trooper.

Queens county detectives today began a search of houses at Maspeth for a baby said to resemble the Lindbergh child. The search resulted from an anonymous letter to Col. Schwarzkopf advising that a man "either German or Polish" had left a child with a woman living near the cemetery.

Raid Bronx Apartment.

Further details were not disclosed, but it was understood the letter gave a specific address which proved difficult to find because of the many changes of street names and house numbers in that district.

The Queens search came on the heels of a raid by thirty detectives on an apartment in the Bronx, where, police had been informed, Harry Fleisher, member of the Detroit "Purple gang," was in hiding. Walter Cohn was taken into custody, but succeeded in convincing the police they were in error. Police, however, did not immediately release him, desiring first to question Samuel Handell, who had rented the apartment.

HOUSE BOOSTS ESTATES TAX TO RECORD HEIGHTS

Increases Maximum Levy to 45 Per Cent.

bowled over the constituted house leadership, boosting surtaxes and otherwise adding to the tax burdens of the wealthy today's session was stormy.

On numerous occasions the Democratic leaders taunted the La Guardia revolters with attempting to conscript wealth and with driving the country toward communism. For the most part, however, the radical led group had things pretty much their own way with little real opposition from elected leadership.

The house agreed unanimously to take up the estate tax title of the billion dollar revenue bill and then the manufacturers sales tax provision. This course of procedure, proposed by Representative Charles R. Crisp [Dem. Ga.], acting chairman of the ways and means committee, was taken to bring about a showdown immediately on the controversial sections of the bill. The understanding was that the sales tax was to be taken up as soon as the estate tax problem had been settled, so that the uncontroverted sections might be considered in light of whatever action might be taken on these two provisions.

Crisp Stands by His Guns.

At the outset of the session Mr. Crisp took the floor to reiterate his stand on the sales tax, expressed at the climax of Saturday's dramatic session. Again the ways and means committee chairman declared that he was merely doing his duty as he saw it and that he had no criticism for those who opposed him.

"I sense the temper of this house as well as any one else," he declared, "but I believe it is to the interest of the country that these controversial matters be speedily disposed of. I am confident that every member of this house knows how he is going to vote on these matters and I know that long and acrimonious debate will not change that vote. The sooner the real controversial matters in this bill are disposed of the better it will be for the country."

Hope to Pacify Sales Tax Foes.

Acting Chairman Crisp in an apparent effort to insert as early as possible the exemptions with which the committee hoped to pacify opponents of the sales levy submitted the amendment exempting the so-called "necessaries of life" in connection with the first paragraph of the sale tax section.

Representative La Guardia immediately made the point of order that the amendment was not germane to that section and should have been submitted in connection with the following section in which the other exempt articles were enumerated. His contention was backed up by Representative Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.] and Clarence Cannon [Dem., Mo.].

Tumult followed the chair's ruling against the point of order. The house, however, backed up the ruling. The bi-partisan strategists had hoped to eliminate the pacifying amendments thus making it easier for them to defeat the sales tax when the vote comes Thursday.

The Ramseyer amendment was adopted after the house had rejected an even more radical estates tax boost.

Text of Amendment.

The text of the Ramseyer amendment follows:

"A—In addition to the estate tax imposed by section 301 [A] of the revenue act of 1926, there is hereby imposed upon the transfer of the net estate of every decedent dying after the enactment of this act, whether a resident or nonresident of the United States, an additional tax equal to the excess of . . .

"1. The amount of a tentative tax computed under subsection [B] of this section, over . . .

"2. The amount of the tax imposed by section 301 [A] of the revenue act of 1926, computed without regard to the provisions of this title.

"B—The tentative tax referred to in subsection [A] [1] of this section shall equal the sum of the following percentages of the value of the net estate:

"Upon net estates not in excess of $10,000, 1 per cent.

"$100 upon net estates of $10,000; and upon net estates inexcess of $10,000 and not in excess of $20,000, 2 per cent in addition of such excess.

"$300 upon net estates of $20,000; and upon net estates in excess of $20,000 and not in excess of $30,000, 3 per cent in addition of such excess.

"$600 upon net estates of $30,000; and upon net estates in excess of $30,000 and not in excess of $40,000, 4 per cent in addition of such excess.

"$1,000 upon net estates of $40,000, and upon net estates in excess of $40,000 and not in excess of $50,000, 5 per cent in addition of such excess.

"$1,500 upon net estates of $50,000, and upon net estates in excess of $50,000 and not in excess of $100,000, 7 per cent in addition of such excess.

INCOME TAX RECEIPTS IN MARCH $167,437,684 —SHOW DROP OVER '31

Washington, D. C., March 22.—(AP)—Further declines in income tax receipts were shown today in the treasury statement for March 19, when $15,009,609 was collected against $16,206,279 for the comparative date of last year.

The receipts brought those for the month to $167,437,684 as compared with $299,435,575 for the same number of days last March. For the fiscal year income tax collections amounted to $825,559,026 as compared with $1,470,866,599 for the same period of the preceding year.

The government's deficit on March 19 was $1,801,789,879.

Wet Senators Make Move to Force Repeal Action Through Dry Controlled Committee

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Senate wets today launched a move to force senate drys in control of the judiciary committee to report to the senate a prohibition repeal or resubmission resolution pending before the committee.

Senator Tydings [Md.] announced this afternoon that 24 senators had signed the petition and smiled jubilantly as the clerk read out the names.

The Republicans number 13 and are as follows: Senator Bingham, wet leader on the Republican side; Majority Leader Watson and Senators Oddie, Metcalf, Barbour, Walcott, Moses, Kean, Couzens, Carey, Hebert, Keyes, and Glenn.

The Democrats led off with Senator Tydings and include Senators Broussard, Copeland, Wheeler, Pittman, Wagner, Walsh [Mass.], Hawes, Bulkley, Coolidge, and Long.

Action on March 30.

The petition is to be left with the clerk of the senate until March 30 for others who wish to sign. At that date, Senator Tydings said, he will make a formal motion asking the judiciary committee to report out a resolution for repeal of the 18th amendment.

As soon as Senator Tydings had given this notice, Senator Norris [radical Rep., Neb.], very dry chairman of the judiciary committee, announced that he wanted to be fair and would be glad to have the motion made immediately. Senator Tydings said he'd prefer to wait for absentee senators to have a chance to sign the petition. In the discussion that followed Senator Borah, a dry intoned not too solemnly, "O, let him make the motion April 1."

Text of Petition.

The petition reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned members of the United States senate, realizing the widespread interest and divergent opinions concerning resolutions dealing with the repeal and modification of the 18th amendment which are now pending before your committee do respectfully petition said committee to report said resolutions to the senate of the United States in order that a vote may be had upon the same by the membership thereof."

According to statistics prepared by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment 34 senators have declared in their campaigns either in favor of repeal or resubmission. Fourteen of that list have not as yet signed the petition, but some of them are out of town or home ill. The fourteen are the Republican Senators Schall, Cutting, Frazier, McNary, Dale, Blaine, La Follette; the Democratic senators Lewis, King, Dill, Kendrick, Fletcher, and Logan; and the Farmer-Labor senator Shipstead.

Four New Names on List.

The four new names added to the petition and not appearing in the earlier statistics are the Republicans Watson, Moses, and Keyes, and the Democrat Long.

Of the 34 senators on the list of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment the following are designated by that association as having favored resubmission and not appeal: Senators Carey, Couzens, Dale, Fletcher, Frazier, Kendrick, King, Logan, McNary, Schall, and Shipstead.

HELD ON LIQUOR CHARGE.

Albert Osmelko, 507 11th street, Gary, was held on prohibition violation charges yesterday. Dry agents found five gallons of alcohol in his car at 155th and State streets, Calumet City, on Monday night.

What a figure...but what a skin!!

By Julia Foster★

Delightful, I thought. The perfection of slender shapeliness. Suddenly, all admiration vanished. I saw her skin! So much beauty wasted by failure to heed a few words of expert advice! Tragic!

Why "tragic"? Because there are so many cases just like hers. Because no one needs to have an unsightly skin. You don't. Your complexion can be kept lovely, youthful.

Beauty experts tell how: Simply, twice a day, apply to face and throat a generous lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Work well into the pores with your hands. Then rinse thoroughly with warm water, and finish with a cold rinse. Hot water should never touch your face. After this, in the morning, your make-up. At night, if your skin is dry, follow with oil or tissue cream.

Notice that, for this foundation cleansing, more than 20,000 beauty experts have specified Palmolive. There must be a reason for that. There is! It is given you in full in the panel at the right, headed: "Beauty In a Test Tube". Please read every word of it!

Bathe nervousness away!

Here's a marvelous way to relax, to rest, to soothe weary nerves. And it's also a beauty treatment. It was told to me by a beauty specialist.

Shave up a whole cake of Palmolive—it's very inexpensive, you know. Then melt it by boiling in 4 cups of water and pour the solution into your tub. Step in, and for a minute or two, just relax. Then massage every inch of your body, every pore, with rich lather from another cake of Palmolive. When you get out, you'll find fatigue, nervousness, gone. You'll find your skin softer, smoother, thanks to this olive and palm oil care. You'll find yourself ready to get up, go places, do things!

And remember by all means the importance of that twice-a-day facial treatment with Palmolive to keep your complexion soft, supple, youthful. Try it for ten days, and see.

BEAUTY IN A TEST TUBE

But can you get enough olive oil in soap? How much, actually, goes into Palmolive? Here is the exact amount of olive oil that goes into every ten-cent cake of Palmolive—in this test tube at the right. To this generous olive oil content can be directly traced Palmolive's great complexion benefits. It is the only large-selling soap made of vegetable oils exclusively. The only one using olive oil as a base. Other ingredients are simply oils from palm trees necessary to produce a richer, creamier, more workable lather. The color is the natural green of olive and palm oils—no artificial coloring.

More than 20,000 of the world's beauty experts have for years urged Palmolive Soap in preference to all others. Heed their advice!

RADIO! Myndall Cain brings you "Fashions in Loveliness" week days except Saturday, at 1:30 P. M. Tune in station WMAQ and NBC network.

PAYLESS PLIGHT OF TEACHERS IS TOLD IN FIGURES

Survey Shows 6,315 in Desperate Straits.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Chicago Principals' club presented yesterday the "critical financial plight" of 6,315 public school teachers who have received only two and a half months' pay in cash since last April. The club's data is a summary of the answers to a questionnaire, to which about 43 per cent of the teachers responded.

The summary shows that these 6,315 teachers have unpaid bills of $3,316,608, have borrowed $3,472,047, and have suspended payments on $14,052,486 worth of property, life insurance, homes, and household goods. The financial loss of the teachers through bank failures, depreciated assets, illness, and other causes is placed at $15,543,776.

"Typical of All Teachers."

In its statement, signed by President Irvin A. Wilson, the club expresses its opinion that the condition of the 6,315 teachers is typical of that of the entire teaching staff, and that the situation of all the teachers would be shown by doubling the figures presented.

A small ray of sunshine came with the announcement that the teachers will get half a month's pay in cash today. In addition, several State street stores announced they will accept tax anticipation warrants in settlement of overdue accounts.

The Principals' club emphasized the suspension of payments by the teachers as highly important. The following table shows the property on which payments have been suspended, the number of teachers, and the amount of property involved:

Property—	Teachers.	Amount.
Life insurance	2,278	$7,800,567
Purchase of homes	759	5,197,693
Household goods	1,167	532,547
Other purchases	6,296	521,679
Total		$14,052,486

Regarding the failure to pay life insurance the bulletin of the club, sent to all the public schools, said that this "will mean certain future poverty and distress for hundreds of dependents of these teachers." This is referred to as "the most tragic and most dangerous condition revealed by the entire questionnaire."

Of the 6,315 teachers, 3,175 said that 10,015 persons are wholly dependent upon them. The entire number of teachers who responded to the questions said there are 10,323 persons who are partly dependent on them.

3,177 Lose in Bank Closings.

Through bank failures 3,177 teachers suffered a loss of $2,367,003. A total of 2,869 reported financial losses through illness, 4,297 said that their assets have depreciated $11,568,252, and from other causes 6,296 reported losses of $987,228.

The unpaid bills of the teachers were summarized as follows:

Item.	Teachers.	Amount.
Rent	3,488	$1,142,607
Clothing	4,137	64,772
Food	2,256	486,249
Fuel	1,034	161,381
Gas and electricity	1,015	16,410
Telephone	1,181	25,021
Physician	2,670	216,792
Dentist	3,359	155,124
Other accounts	940	1,108,249
Total		$3,316,608

"More distressing still," said the bulletin, "is the amount of money borrowed from various sources for immediate needs. Three and a half million dollars stands against half of the teachers, for which they must pay interest. The loan sharks will reap a harvest from the 800 teachers who will pay them at a rate as high as 42 per cent a year on $232,641. Add to this the interest at 6 per cent on the rest of the borrowed money and this half of the teachers to date are paying far above $200,000 a year in interest.

How Long? Club Asks.

"The urgent question to the public is how long will the teachers be permitted to carry this terrific community burden. The teachers are now at the end of the trail. What will you do about it?"

Borrowed on—	Teachers.	Amount.
Insurance policies	2,328	$1,128,405
Homes	284	254,342
Furniture	155	49,847
Personal notes	2,742	1,343,344
Loan shark terms	805	232,641
Other resources	1,638	463,468
Total		$3,472,047

The club reported that 2,767 teachers are living in homes "where unemployment is also a problem." In these homes there are 3,058 unemployed persons.

Leaders of teachers' organizations yesterday deferred action on plans looking toward the acceptance of financial relief from New York teachers. Following a conference with Assistant Superintendent Rose A. Pesta it was agreed that nothing be done until the organizations ascertain the attitude of the rank and file of teachers.

CAUGHT IN POLICE NET

Confess Many Crimes

The alleged bandit gang of four men and two women captured early yesterday in the lobby of the Mira Mar hotel at 6218 Woodlawn avenue have committed robberies "all the way from New York to Chicago," Capt. William Russell of the Grand Crossing station asserted last night. The prisoners are held at that station for showups before holdup victims.

George Schaia, 22 years old, of New York, who was shot in the chest by Policeman Richard Sheehy when the gang was captured, was reported to be in a serious condtion last night at the Bridewell hospital.

According to the police, the suspects have confessed to taking $700 in two robberies on Monday night. One holdup was staged in the Walgreen drug store at 55th street and Dorchester avenue. The loot, amounting to $200, was found in a company envelope in possession of the gang. The other robbery was at the Cooper-Carlton pharmacy, 53d street and Hyde Park boulevard, where $500 was taken. They were identified by the manager of the Walgreen store and also by the manager of another Walgreen store at 7100 Jeffery avenue, who said they robbed him of $18 on Monday night.

The gang has confessed to nearly twenty robberies in New York and Chicago, police said. Those held are: Fred Schaia, leader of the gang and brother of the wounded man; John Durant, Champaign, Ill.; Robert Clauson, Anna Turner, and Grace Scaorse. The last three are from New York.

Loop Store to Pay Tax Bill of $374,272 in Full Today

Payment in full of its 1930 real estate tax bill will be made today by The Fair department store, according to an announcement yesterday. The tax bill totals $374,272 and will be paid by D. F. Kelly, president of the store, with $178,977 in cash and $195,295 in tax warrants.

EDW. J. McCABE.

The Fair paid its 1930 personal property tax of $35,016 several days ago. The real estate tax bill represents the taxes on the downtown building, the Milwaukee avenue branch, and four delivery stations. Actual payment of the bill will be made by J. E. Kozoyed, representing Mr. Kelly, according to Edward J. McCabe, assistant county treasurer. Payment of the bill sets an example for other large taxpayers, Mr. McCabe said.

Pay Day for City Workers.

The action of The Fair store officials was one of two important developments in the city financial situation during the day. The other was the announcement that all city employés will get a half month's pay today and that at the same time funds will be turned over to the school board to make a similar pay day possible for its employés. The announcement was made by City Controller Szymczak.

The pay days were made possible by the purchases of $4,500,000 worth of 1930 corporate fund tax warrants, held by the city in its own aggregate of funds, by loop banks. The banks which bought the warrants are the Continental Illinois, First National, Central Republic, Harris Trust and Savings, and Northern Trust.

Hope for Further Sales.

Mr. Szymczak said that city officials are continuing their negotiations with the bankers, and hope shortly to effect another tax warrant sale which will make possible distribution of another half month's pay to city and school employés.

The 20,000 employés of the city, including the library and municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, will get their checks for the last half of January today. Their pay rolls are approximately $1,800,000.

Checks for the last half of November have already been prepared, Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the school board, said, and will be mailed tonight, following the transfer of funds from the city to the school system. They will be distributed tomorrow to teachers. The school pay roll aggregates $2,300,000.

The city pay day will leave city workers with six weeks' pay due them. School employés have received only two and one-half months' pay in cash since last April.

Easter Lilies 35 to 40 Per Cent Lower This Year

New York, March 22.—(AP)—Easter lilies are going for a song. Prices at wholesale are 35 to 40 per cent lower than last year, dealers report.

WAUKEGAN HIGH SCHOOL TRIMS TEACHERS' PAY

The Waukegan High school board cut salaries approximately 20 per cent yesterday in employing teachers for the 1932-'33 school term which opens in September. The cuts range from 5 per cent for salaries under $1,500 to 28 per cent for Supt. John W. Thalman, whose pay was reduced from $9,000 to $6,500 a year.

The reductions will save $52,575 on next year's budget. The teachers' salaries this year total $267,100. The Waukegan Taxpayers' association had recommended that "nonessential" courses, such as music, domestic science and manual training, be eliminated from the high school curriculum, but the board ignored the recommendation, hiring the teachers in those branches for the new term.

PETITION FILED TO FORCE COUNTY TO PAY SALARIES

A petition for a mandamus compelling payment of full salaries to county employés was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by Attorney Victor Frohlich, representing Mario Pollastrini, a deputy sheriff.

The bill charges that the action of the county board in forcing county employés to take a two weeks' payless vacation last September and in making a retroactive 15 per cent cut in salaries from Dec. 1 to March 5 in adopting the 1932 budget, was contrary to law. The petitioner asks that the county treasurer be ordered to pay him the sums deducted from his pay.

County Attorney Hayden N. Bell asserted that Pollastrini had taken the wrong legal path in seeking payment of his claim.

Insists Allegiance Pledge Must Be Abolished.

lobbies of the house of commons buzzed with excitement. Authoritative political circles declared tonight that there is no possibility that the British government will acquiesce to the decisions taken by the De Valera government.

The matter will be considered by the cabinet tomorrow. According to present arrangements, Thomas will make a statement of the government's policy tomorrow afternoon. It is believed that he will make it plain that the government regards the treaty as a binding instrument and that he will clearly indicate the consequences of any breach of it.

Thomas declared in the house today that Great Britain stood by the treaty.

Deny "Prevarication" Statement.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, David Lloyd George, and Winston Churchill, who were parties to the Irish treaty negotiations in London in 1921, tonight repudiated the statement reported to have been made by President de Valera that the oath was drafted by the late Lord Birkenhead, who also was one of the negotiators, and that when it was completed Birkenhead remarked: "The oath is the greatest prevarication in history."

"We all regarded the oath of allegiance as a matter of cardinal importance, having been regarded in position to the crown as a link to the empire," Lloyd George said. "No one took this view more strongly than Lord Birkenhead. I am confident that no such statement as that which is now attributed to him represented his views."

Debate Land Annuities.

The question of the Irish land annuities, which is another point in dispute between the Free State and Britain, came up in the commons today when Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, said that the total amount advanced to Ireland by the British government was £89,500,000 [$447,500,000 in gold] and that about £76,000,000 [$380,000,000 in gold] is now outstanding. President de Valera has announced that these annuities, which amount to about $10,150,000, will no longer be turned over to the British government.

These land annuities consist of money advanced by the British government to enable Irish farmers to buy holdings from landlords on a 60 year purchase scheme. Under an agreement made by former President Cosgrave, the Irish government collects these payments and turns them over to the British government.

President De Valera's contention is that these annuities are part of the public debt of the United Kingdom of which Ireland was relieved by the treaty of 1921 and that Cosgrave's settlement was illegal. De Valera's program is to cease payment, inviting Great Britain to sue in any competent court, such as the world court at The Hague, and both sides would agree to abide by the result. If Ireland should win, she would have claim to a refund of about £30,000,000 [$150,000,000 in gold] already paid.

De Valera Stands Pat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, March 22.—President de Valera in a statement to the Free State senate today reiterated his determination to abolish the oath to the British king and to withhold the payment of the land annuities, "no matter what happened." Great importance was attached by his hearers to this last phrase.

De Valera declared that fulfillment of his policy would call for sacrifices by the people. He said there would be difficulties to face which would make necessary conditions amounting to a revolution. The attitude of the government to Great Britain, he said, would be friendly, but the welfare of Ireland must come first.

Fear Trouble Easte Sunday.

DUBLIN, March 22.—(AP)—Army chiefs of the Irish Free State looked forward today with considerable tepidation to Easter Sunday, when the Irish Republican army proposes to march in military array in honor of the dead in the Easter week uprising of 1916.

If, as proposed at present, the ceremoney includes the firing of volleys over the graves of the executed men, rifles will necessarily form a part of the equipment carried.

There was some doubt as to how the new government would act in the situation. President De Valera has emphatically declared that he stands for one army, but on Easter Sunday he is likely to have two.

The unofficial one, which is the Irish Republican army, led by the men he has just released from prison, has refused to dissolve itself.

Ulster Bars Demonstrations.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 22.—(AP)—Home Minister Sir Dawson Bates announced in parliament today that the government had placed a ban on Republican demonstrations in northern Ireland during the Easter holidays. The home minister said such demonstrations were likely to create a breach of the peace.

HERE'S THE WORDING OF OATH TO THE KING WHICH IRELAND FIGHTS

The present dispute between the new Irish Free State government of President de Valera and the British government is over the interpretation of article 4 of the Irish Free State treaty of 1921, by which Britain granted the Free State the status of equality with all the other members of the British commonwealth of nations. Article 4 of the treaty provides for an oath of allegiance to the king, to which President de Valera objects. De Valera contends that the wording of the article does not make it compulsory to take the oath. Great Britain insists it must be taken. Here is the wording of article 4:

"The oath to be taken by the members of the parliament of the Irish Free State shall be in the following form:

"I do solemnly swear true faith and allegiance to the constitution of the Irish Free State as by law established, and that I will be faithful to his majesty King George V. and his heirs and successors by law, in virtue of the common citizenship of Ireland with Great Britain and her adherence to and membership of the group of nations forming the British commonwealth of nations."

MORE TROUBLE IN INDIA

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LAHORE, March 22.—The all-India Moslem conference, speaking for the mass of India's 70,000,000 Mohammedans, tonight decided it was no longer possible to continue to cooperate with the round table conference seeking a formula for granting India independence or dominion status, or its committees, "because the Moslem demands have not been conceded and the results of our cooperation have not been satisfactory." The resolution said that if the British government fails to settle the communal problem before the end of June the executive board of the Moslem conference will launch a program of "direct action."

MYSTERY PARTY RISES TO CRUSH AUSTRALIA 'REDS'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, March 22.—The spectacular stunts which the New Guard staged Saturday in connection with the ceremonies opening Sydney's $29,000,000 harbor bridge has suddenly awakened New South Wales to the strength and determination of this secret organization which has been formed to rescue the state from the grip of Premier John T. Lang and his ultra radical branch of the Labor party.

Just as Premier Lang was about to declare the bridge open a member of the New Guard dashed forth and severed the ribbon with his sword before the premier could do so. Thus the New Guard carried out its threat that Lang would not open the bridge, and set the city and the state to wondering just how strong this organization has become.

Society's Strength Unknown.

The organizers of the New Guard have been open in avowing their purposes, but have succeeded in keeping knowledge of the society's strength from officials and the public.

The New Guard's program is designed to crush Lang and the firm hold which his socialistic and labor union followers have obtained in New South Wales. The leaders of the movement look to the new government of Australia, headed by Premier Lyons, to remove much of the "Red" control in the other states of the commonwealth.

Economists point out that the refusal of Premier Lang of the "bad boy" state to reduce government expenditures is the stumbling block to the commonwealth's entire rehabilitation plan.

Want Parliament Dissolved.

The Labor government in New South Wales has two more years in office. The New Guards have joined in an appeal to Sir Phillip Game, British governor, to dissolve the state parliament and compel the election of a new government. But Premier Lang is determined to cling to power at all costs.

Denied further financial aid by the federal government which has brought suit to recover defaulted notes, New South Wales is expected to put even a greater tax on capital and industry. The state now has the reputation of having the highest taxation in the world, approximately $100 a year per capital, which does not include federal taxation.

The success of Australia's recovery rests upon whether or not the commonwealth can compel New South Wales to reduce its annual dole bill of $30,000,000, its high average basis wage of $20, and to repeal other radical reforms.

Three Determining Factors.

Practically bankrupt and overhead in debt, the nation has been brought face to face with these determining factors:

1. The federal and state governments must balance their budgets by the end of the premiers' three year plan on June 30, 1933.

2. New South Wales must be brought into line of other states by reducing government expenditures still more to meet the general 20 per cent reduction in costs agreed upon by all state members of the federal loan council.

3. Australia must increase her exports.

As night follows the day, so were socialistic reforms bound to follow in the wake of unionism's control of political life in Australia. Where labor is more of a social and economic force in America, it is the greatest vital force in Australian politics. The very fabric of the Labor party forces is made up of 374 separate labor unions, including 2,154 branches. Every state, as well as the federal government, is fettered with legislation effecting wages, hours of work, industrial disputes, strikes, and arbitration.

Secretaries of labor unions are the "powers behind the throne" when Labor governments are in office. They are the prime movers in any appeal for more legislation for shorter hours or more pay. If any union employé is dismissed without sufficient cause and he places his grievance before his union executives they in turn can call a strike unless the employé is reinstated.

Dismissal Causes Strike.

A discharged employé also has recourse to the courts to sue his employer for "wrongful dismissal." The dismissal of a single fireman from an interstate ship only last October caused a nation-wide shipping strike. It was in this strike that the New Guard first showed its hand by threatening to use its full strength to protect strikebreakers.

	1925.	1931.
Separate unions	382	374
Branches	2,250	2,154
Members	855,757	795,722

Unions Lose Members.

The labor unions have lost 60,000 members in the last six years. The total number of workers throughout Australia in 1929 was 1,987,000, including male and female juniors under 20 years of age. The unemployed at present are estimated at 420,000.

With the government in business it is a notable fact that one out of every seven men in the commonwealth is on the government pay roll.

Aviation Notes

During 1931 Century Air Lines was in operation only nine months, but carried 56,000 passengers and flew more than 2,000,000 miles, officials announced yesterday. The first anniversary of the lines will be observed today. Of the total number of passengers carried, 20,313, or 36 per cent, either started or terminated flights in Chicago. Plane arrivals and departures at Chicago airport totaled 7,300, or one every hour during the business day.

Three outstanding aviation organizations will meet during the National Aircraft Show to be held at the Detroit airport April 2 to 10. They are the Society of Automotive Engineers, National Association of State Aviation Officials and the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, Inc.

BOY, 12, PLEADS FOR AID FROM CHARITY GROUP

Speaks at Meeting in the Covenant Club.

Danny Carlin, 12 years old, of 3441 West 12th place, laid down the law to the Young Men's Jewish Charities at the Covenant club last night, in behalf of the two off the street clubs for boys operated by the charities.

Danny slipped away from the American Boys' Commonwealth, the new Robert E. Franks memorial at 3415 West 13th place, where he is secretary to Frank Annunzio, mayor of the commonwealth, to be the principal speaker at the opening of the membership drive of the charities.

"If you fellows don't get your 2,000 extra members," Danny declared, "the boys I represent are going to be tossed out into the street. We are depending on you to keep our clubs going, both the Commonwealth with its 1,400 members, and the Deborah club with 500.

"We do lots of things in our clubs. The boys receive the type of training that develops a good citizen and a real man. We have a mayor elected by all the boys, assisted by the council of aldermen. We have a judicial system with a judge and attorneys and even willing defendants."

Danny ended with the assurance that the boys' clubs are back of the membership drive.

The Young Men's Jewish Charities of which Philip A. Lieber is president, hopes to double its present membership. It is especially necessary during these times of unemployment, it was pointed out, to continue the recreational and educational work of the clubs. In addition during the summer more than 1,200 boys receive a two weeks vacation at the Y. M. J. C. camp at Lake Wooster.

WISCONSIN LAWS SHIFT OUTPUT OF PLANT TO CANADA

Parker Explains Cut in Janesville Factory.

Janesville, Wis., March 22.—[Special.]—This city of 21,500 will be deprived of a substantial part of the wages paid out by one of its principal manufacturers as a result of legislation fostered by the La Follette administration in recent months.

George S. Parker, president of the Parker Pen company, which was founded here in 1892, revealed today that the export product of his company, amounting to approximately one-sixth the total output of the Janesville plant, was being transferred to a branch plant at Toronto, Ont.

The transfer, Mr. Parker said, is now under way and will be completed within a few months. The business entailed amounts to approximately $1,000,000 in a normal year, substantial percentage being represented by wages.

Simply a Business Move.

"This is not a revolt against conditions in Wisconsin nor a threat against those in power at Madison," said Mr. Parker. "It is simply a business move. I find the legislative situation to be such that I can manufacture more economically and with more certainty of the future in another place."

The company does not contemplate a shut-down of the parent plant, but the transfer of export operations will necessitate a considerable reduction of the Janesville working force, with resultant benefit to Toronto, according to Mr. Parker.

"It would not be economical to move the plant," he explained. "Reduced operations will continue in Janesville. But if I were starting out anew I would not select Wisconsin for an industrial venture. I say this even though I was born here, have grown up here, and number my best friends among the people of Janesville.

"Political uncertainties and the ever increasing penalties imposed upon industry by the state government would weigh against choosing Wisconsin. Where other states welcome new industries the trend here has been to penalize them. Of late it is running even to the stirring up of class hatred."

More Curtailment Possible.

Further curtailment of Janesville operations may become necessary in 1933 if Mr. Parker's interpretation of the new Wisconsin unemployment insurance law is correct, the manufacturer disclosed. As he understands it, the new law will compel employers to pay ten weeks' extra wages to every worker laid off, regardless of the circumstances.

"Our operations require a large increase in the working force for two or three months every year to provide for the Christmas rush," he explained. "Practically all these extra workers are women, former employés who quit their jobs when they got married, and who return for a couple of months each year to earn Christmas money.

"If the state insists that in addition to furnishing this emergency work I must pay ten weeks' wages to each worker beyond the period of employment, then we shall have to turn out the Christmas orders elsewhere. It would be impossible to compete in the open market under that handicap."

Wisconsin Loses Plant.

A friend from another state, inspecting factory sites with a view to locating in Wisconsin, asked Mr. Parker's counsel on political conditions in the state, Parker said.

"I could not conscientiously advise him to establish his plant here," said Mr. Parker. "He consulted others also and, after acquainting himself with conditions, decided to locate elsewhere."

GIVE IMMIGRANT PACIFISTS VOTE, URGES J. W. DAVIS

Should Face No Stiffer Test Than U. S. Born.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Should the United States subject the alien "conscientious objector" seeking naturalization to a sharper scrutiny than it gives the native born "conscientious objector?"

JOHN W. DAVIS.

John W. Davis, former Democratic candidate for the Presidency, believes the two tests should be identical, and made that belief the basis of his argument today before the senate immigration subcommittee on behalf of the Cutting bill to admit alien pacifists to citizenship. Mr. Davis pointed out that American conscientious objectors were never compelled to shoulder the musket if they asserted their religious convictions conflicted.

"Yes, but there are two different issues involved," interrupted Senator Reed, member of the subcommittee. "One involves the American; one involves the newcomer. A native born American doesn't lose his citizenship because he has a loathsome disease, but we don't allow an alien to enter with a loathsome disease.

Later in the hearing, when Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches, was urging the bill, Senator Reed asked:

"What of a healthy, 20 year old man who admits he might have to be sent to jail before he'd go to war? What would you do with him if he asked naturalization?"

Insurance Men Urged to Fight Paternalism.

Political panaceas and paternalistic governmental schemes are in a large part responsible for retarding business in its battle to get out of the depression.

This charge was made yesterday by Henry Swift Ives, special counsel for the Association of Casualty and Surety Executives, in an address at the annual meeting of the Insurance Federation of Illinois at the Hotel La Salle.

Mr. Ives suggested that the large insurance organizations should be militant associations for the protection of all business against the inoculation of "individual initiative with the palsy of politics."

Raps "Wildcat Government."

"Bear in mind," he said, "that it is just as essential that the insuring public be protected against wildcat government as it is that this same public be protected against the investment of insurance reserves in wildcat enterprises.

"If left alone, business can engineer its own recovery. But when the panaceas of the demagogues, the paternalistic schemes of the socialists and the pillaging ideas of the communists are used as restoratives, the cure is bound to be delayed, or perhaps the illness rendered chronic.

"Owners of capital see danger in high and often confiscatory taxes, sometimes levied for the purpose of granting political subsidies to favored classes.

"They see a continuing financial menace in the demands for enormous bond issues; the laying of mortgages on future earnings to pay the deficits of socialistic schemes and enterprises.

Cites Governmental Waste.

"They realize belatedly the tragic waste of governments, local, state and federal, in nearly every field of their activities.

"They are aware of the steady encroachment of these governments into the field of legitimate private enterprise and they know the heavy toll always exacted by government ownership ventures in the shape of deficits, inefficient management and bureaucratic sauciness.

"They can clearly vision the increasing tendency of public authority to stick its nose into not only the business affairs, but also into the more personal affairs of the people for the purpose of standardizing conduct, morals and our manner of living and working."

A CONGRESSMAN FROM DIXIE 'AGIN' ANY SALARY CUT

Washington, D. C., March 22.—(AP)—There is one member of congress opposed to salary cuts because he's "a $10,000 man."

That's what Representative Charles L. Abernethy of North Carolina, told the house today and added that his Democratic leaders should halt their economy committee.

"I'm a $10,000 man," Abernethy said. "Before I came to congress I made $20,000 a year practicing law.

"I say to those who want to cut salaries: They may be $1,000 men in their districts, but I'm a $20,000 man in mine. And I'm going to be renominated without opposition."

PROBE 11TH HOUR WITHDRAWALS BY BANKS' OFFICERS

Prosecutor's Office May Ask Indictments.

Last minute withdrawals from the Brookfield State bank before it closed on Oct. 27, 1931, were revealed yesterday in the court testimony of the receiver. As in the case of the closed Second Northwestern State bank, officials, employés, and their relatives were the beneficiaries of these withdrawals.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers revealed that the state's attorney has been investigating these withdrawals from both banks for several weeks. If proof can be obtained that the withdrawals were made when the officials knew the bank was insolvent indictments will be sought, Mr. Ayers said.

Receiver Tells of Withdrawals.

George C. Hoskin, receiver for the Brookfield State bank, testified in Judge Michael Feinberg's court that the bank on the final day of business continued to accept deposits until the regular 2 o'clock closing hour. And while deposits were being received the officers and employés were withdrawing their own accounts intact, he declared.

Many of the withdrawal slips were made out by A. H. Hein, former cashier, who removed his $419 savings before the bank closed. His brother, Harry C. Hein, a director, also withdrew his entire account of $4,500 between Sept. 16 and Oct. 27, it was shown.

Other Withdrawals Listed.

Pearl Graham, daughter of the president, Ernest C. Graham, withdrew $11. Other withdrawals were as follows, according to Hoskins:

John S. Grover, son, $210.
Robert L. Grover, son, $58.
Donald J. Grover, son, $25.
H. M. Liscom, slip filled out by Hein, $515.
Robert A. Porter, slip filled out by Hein, $100.
William Hopenrath, director, $415.
Clarence Hopenrath, his son, $100.
A. H. Hein, cashier, $75.
Fred C. Schultz, a director, $105.
A. G. Anderson, director, $68.
Charles Bossert, director, $70.
A. H. Hein, cashier [checking account], $419.

Act for New Waukegan Bank.

Two hundred and fifty depositors of the closed Waukegan National bank met last night and expressed approval of the plan for reorganizing the bank and the closed Waukegan State bank into a new institution to be known as the Citizens Bank and Trust company of Waukegan. A committee was appointed to ask all the depositors of the national bank to approve the plan. A committee representing the depositors of the Waukegan State bank has already given its approval.

The plan involves an agreement that the depositors of the national bank will not demand a payment by the receiver of $600,000 now on hand in cash, provided the new bank is opened on or before April 25. W. F. Kirkham, chairman of the national bank's reorganization committee, said a 35 per cent payment would be made to depositors on the day the new bank is opened.

IOWA DELEGATES GIVEN ORDERS TO SUPPORT HOOVER

Des Moines, Ia., March 22.—(AP)—Working in nearly perfect harmony the state Republican convention today elected 25 Hoover delegates to the national convention and pledged the support of Iowa Republicanism to the reëlection of its native son as President.

It assured a delegation pledged to Hoover in three ways, first by voting to instruct its seven delegates at large; next, through the instruction of delegates by district caucuses, and, finally, by adopting a resolution pledging the entire delegation.

The resolutions also commended officials taking the lead in reducing governmental expenditures and advocated further reduction "until a fair relationship is established between expenditures and income."

The convention also went on record as indorsing the united relief program sponsored by the three national farm organizations and urged its speedy adoption by congress.

It also advocated changes in the tariff "as may be necessary to permit the exchange of our agricultural surplus for the products of other nations on a reciprocal basis." No mention was made of prohibition.

City's Fees to Experts Cut 84 Pct. in January

Payments out of the city treasury to experts—legal, engineering, building and real estate valuators—decreased 84 per cent in January this year as compared to January, 1931, under the old city hall administration, according to a report sent by City Controller Szymczak to the city council yesterday. The payments to the experts in January, 1931, were $31,115 as compared to $4,926 in January of this year. Attorney Harry P. Beam drew $2,000 in payment for services in 1931, and Dr. Miller McClintock, $1,000 for traffic studies.

USES NAPHTHA, LIGHTS CANDLES; HOME TAKES FIRE

Mrs. Frank White, 928 Wisconsin avenue, Oak Park, started her spring house cleaning yesterday. First she cleaned a pair of dresses in naphtha and hung them on a chandelier to dry. Then she lit a couple of sulphur candles to drive out some moths which had been troubling her recently. While the candles were burning she took her dog and went for a walk.

When she returned, an hour later, the moths were gone, but the Oak Park fire department had moved in. Her two dresses, the rugs, and a considerable part of the furnishings in the apartment were also burned. The firemen were using an extinguisher on the grand piano.

Fire Chief William Watters informed Mrs. White that the naphtha fumes from the drying dresses had been ignited by the sulphur candles. He estimated the loss at $2,000.

COAL OPERATORS SUGGEST 50 PCT. WAGE REDUCTION

The Illinois coal operators yesterday made their first wage scale proposal since the joint wage conference with the miners' delegates opened at the Majestic hotel three weeks ago. The proposal is not definite, but is a "basis from which negotiations will continue."

The operators proposed the union scale recently adopted in northern West Virginia. That scale is less than 50 per cent of the existing Illinois coal field scale under the contract which expires March 31.

This scale provides a basic wage of $5.90 a day, with commensurate scales for other types of work. The West Virginia scale provides a base of $2.70. When the scale conference opened the miners demanded a 33 1-3 per cent average increase.

"The proposal is not essentially a wage offer," Joseph Zook, president of the operators' association, said. "It is merely to be used as a basis for negotiations."

ROME, March 22.—Premier Mussolini congratulated his followers today on having knocked out one of Italy's hardest winters, from which the country had emerged, he said, giving the spectacle of absolute calm and perfect discipline in the face of economic discomfort and severe privation.

Il duce's message, which was issued in connection with the celebration of the 13th anniversary of the founding of the first Fascist combat squads in Milan, will be read at reunions of the party to be held throughout Italy tomorrow. Mussolini belabored "enemies outside of Italy and a few defeatists within" for having speculated on Italy's plight this winter. He declared that the Italian people had frustrated their speculations.

"Old Theories Outworn."

Using the word "we" in referring to himself, Mussolini said:

"On this day we reaffirm our will to confront and overcome every obstacle in whatever field it may present itself. We maintain faith in our old and unchanged program to 'go toward the people' in our own way, without concessions or indulgence to outworn theories, which have been superceded by those of Fascism."

Tomorrow's celebration will commemorate the day in Milan when Mussolini organized groups of his followers for armed resistance to the disorders in Italy which followed the ending of the war in 1919. The national council of the Fascist party will meet in Rome and bells will be rung in all towns and villages. All Fascists are enjoined to wear their uniforms and badges all day.

Mussolini to Speak Today.

As a special feature of the celebration this year, certificates signed by Mussolini will be awarded to all those who attended the original meeting in the Piazza Sepolcro at Milan, when the fighting squads of black shirts were formed. About 100 of these founders are still alive.

The Fascists say that tomorrow's meeting of the national council will be an event of great importance. Mussolini will preside at the meeting and will deliver a speech.

JUDGE SENTENCES GILDAY TO PRISON FOR 1 TO 14 YEARS

Daniel L. Gilday, dry agitator and gun toting head of the Englewood Law and Order league, was sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the Joliet penitentiary by Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court yesterday on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

Gilday's victim was Herman Knol, 17 years old, who was shot and seriously wounded last November when he tried to guide the reformer's tipsy steps.

When the sentence was pronounced Gilday's knees sagged, but he straightened up again and marched out of the courtroom with his attorney, William Scott Stewart. Judge Prystalski refused a motion for a new trial, but allowed Gilday to remain at liberty on his old bond of $15,000 on a stay of mittimus for sixty days. Attorney Stewart said he will appeal the case to the state Supreme court.

After Gilday was convicted by a jury several weeks ago Attorney Stewart announced that he would ask for a new trial on the basis of new evidence, but he did not mention this yesterday. A charge of carrying concealed weapons against Gilday was nol prossed. Another charge of possession of liquor—Gilday had a pint of whisky when the shooting occurred—may be nol prossed in the Municipal Jury court on March 25.

Benham Jury Still Out After Battling 24 Hours

Belvidere, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—The A. W. [50 per cent] Benham jury continued its battle today. The jury has been out more than twenty-four hours since they received Judge Fisher's instructions and took the fate of the "financier" in hand.

Then why not build one? Blueprints and instructions are easily obtainable and so are the necessary tools.

Among the most useful tools for shaping, smoothing and fitting the parts are the Nicholson Flat, Mill and Round Bastard Files in the smaller sizes. Also the X. F. Swiss Pattern File.

WE ARE THE FIRST TO PRESENT

the most exciting discovery in the world of beauty

THE ZOTOS* PERMANENT

● NO MACHINE
● NO ELECTRICITY

Science has again come to the aid of the beauty-seeker with a permanent wave so easy and so comfortable as to be almost unbelievable. The hair is wound in the usual manner, then wrapped in Zotos pads. Just these little pads measuring 4½"x5½" do the work usually done by the machine—gently steaming the hair for a few minutes. By the time the entire head has been wrapped, the first pads applied are ready to be removed... and the hair is waved!... Bleached, dyed, white, fine and resistant hair can all be waved successfully with this astounding new Zotos Method. The natural sheen and lustre of the hair is preserved—and the waves are deep and lovely... Make your appointment early—and have a pleasant, comfortable permanent wave!

● Of course we are also continuing our $5.00 machine permanent.

priced as low as $2850 at Buffalo

Where hand-craftsmanship still endures

There is no such thing as "good-enough" in the great Pierce-Arrow plants at Buffalo, N. Y. So rigid are the requirements where Pierce-Arrow crankshafts are concerned, for example, that the weight allowance in the dynamic balance must not exceed three grams.

THERE are no "grades" of quality in the new Pierce-Arrow Eights. Even if you pay as little as $2850, you get the same uncompromising workmanship that goes into the costliest Pierce-Arrow.

You get an engine so accurately built, with such fine precision, that it delivers tremendous power with watch-like quiet year in and year out... an engine in which there is more skilled hand-craftsmanship than goes into the entire construction of most cars.

You get a chassis in which every worthy engineering advancement is embodied... the finished product of the greatest amount of gauging, measuring, checking and testing employed in any American automobile factory.

You get a body that in beauty of design, durability of structure, finish, spaciousness and appointments rivals the finest ever built—even by Pierce-Arrow.

STATE TO BUILD A MILE OF DRIVE IN LINCOLN PARK

'Gas' Tax Also to Pay for Other Chicago Paving.

BY HAL FOUST.

Director Cleaveland of the state department of public works announced yesterday that $400,000 of gasoline tax revenue has been allotted for the extension northward of the Lincoln park outer drive, from Montrose avenue to Foster avenue, a distance of a mile.

This is part of the state's program to spend $2,000,000 on Chicago streets this year. It will be the first money spent on the city's pavements in return for $20,840,000 a year paid to the state by motorists of the city through the fuel excise and license fees. Other details of the program were also announced by Mr. Cleaveland.

The half mile section of the outer drive from Montrose avenue to Wilson avenue can be placed under construction as soon as the paving season opens, according to Hugh E. Young, consulting engineer for the Lincoln park board. The land has not been built for the drive north of Wilson avenue.

Land Waits on Bond Sale.

"If the board is able to sell its bonds," said Mr. Young, "the land can be made and the pavement laid for the entire distance to Foster avenue this year."

The plans call for two forty foot one way drives, so arranged that they can be widened to sixty feet and with a service drive, conforming to the layout south of Montrose. This year's program includes the completion of the grade separation at Montrose, with provisions for grade separations in the future at Lawrence and Foster avenues.

The state this year will also lay 4.8 miles of pavement to close gaps in through routes between the loop and the northwest side to serve traffic pending the ultimate construction of an elevated highway in Avondale avenue abutting the railroad embankment. The gaps are: Cicero avenue, from Talcott avenue to Avondale avenue; Avondale avenue, from Bryn Mawr avenue to Gettysburg street, and Northwest highway, from Keating avenue to Kostner avenue and from Crawford avenue to Mozart street.

Roosevelt Road Paving.

The state highway department also will repave 2.45 miles of Roosevelt road in preparation for the use of this street by motorists en route to the World's Fair. The north half of the street will receive a 10 foot strip of concrete between Austin and Central avenues and between Cicero and Kenton avenues, and a 20 foot pavement between Central and Cicero avenues. A 10 foot strip on each side of the street will be laid between Kenton and Kilbourn avenues.

Ogden avenue will be repaved with two 10 foot strips between Kenton and Crawford avenues and between Roosevelt road and Jackson boulevard. A 40 foot pavement will be laid between Western avenue and Roosevelt road.

In South State street, two 20 foot pavements will be resurfaced between Vincennes avenue and 64th street. Two 10 foot pavements will be resurfaced between 64th and 63d streets.

A 40 foot pavement will be laid in Stony Island avenue between 92d and 95th streets. This will serve traffic wanting to use the Stony Island and Torrence avenue route to the south or to the east.

Cicero Avenue to Be Widened.

Cicero avenue is to be widened 20 feet between 87th and 79th streets and between 65th and 31st streets. It will be widened 10 feet between 79th and 65th streets. Two 10 foot strips in Cicero avenue will be resurfaced between Roosevelt road and Jackson boulevard.

Another widening project will be in Ashland avenue between 115th and 119th streets. Two 10 foot pavements will be laid.

Two 20 foot strips in North avenue will be resurfaced between Western and Kedzie avenues. Resurface treatment will also be given to 22d street pavement between Kenton and Crawford avenues and between Ashland and Archer avenues.

Higgins road will be repaved, 40 feet wide, from Canfield road to Austin avenue, 2.44 miles. Three river bridges will be built in Foster avenue between Cicero and Central Park avenues.

PARISIANS DUEL WITH SWORDS AND LUNCH TOGETHER

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, March 22.—Honor was satisfied but nobody was killed in the first formal duel to be fought this year by disputing Parisians. The details of an encounter with swords which took place on the Bois de Bologne at dawn in the traditional manner became known today.

Francis Louis Dreyfus, son of the deputy from Cannes, challenged the journalist, Max Weisweiller, after the latter had written something which Dreyfus regarded as insulting to his father. Henry de Jouvenil and Col. Dannery acted as seconds for Dreyfus, while Count Degramedo and Duc de Luynes appeared on the field of honor with Weisweiller.

The adversaries were reconciled after Dreyfus inflicted a light flesh wound on the forearm of Weisweiller and they then repaired with their seconds to a famous restaurant for a sumptuous luncheon.

Frank Foster Convicted in Los Angeles for Gun Toting

Los Angeles, Cal., March 22.—[Special.]—Frank Foster, Chicago gangster, was found guilty by a Municipal court jury today of carrying a concealed weapon in his automobile. He will be sentenced March 29. Two policemen testified they stopped Foster's car, searched it, and found a loaded .45 automatic in the pocket of the car.

SPARKS, CUNARD LINE OFFICIAL, REACHES U.S.; SEES SLUMP PASSING

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Sir Ashley Sparks, director of the Cunard line in America, arrived today on the Mauretania, saying that despite the recent failure of the Cunard line to finance the building of the new superliner, officials of the company are confident that some plan by which the work on the liner may be resumed will soon be forthcoming. Sir Ashley said he found conditions in Great Britain definitely improved.

"It is naturally disappointing," Sir Ashley said, "to delay the completion of any large enterprise that has been started, but otherwise, except for the men it deprives of employment and puts back on the dole, there is not much harm done by the temporary stoppage of work on our new ship.

"One day soon the usual channels of finance will reopen, or perhaps special ones created and I am quite sure that work will recommence and that the ship will be ready not very far from the originally expected date, which was the autumn of 1933.

"I saw several signs of the passing of the slump, but in every case it is the result of deliberate and sensible action.

"We must face our mistakes if we are to improve our destinies. Great Britain has faced both her financial mistakes and her social and political untruths with the result that she has stopped going down.

"In a world that is still sliding, she appears even to have started on the long climb back."

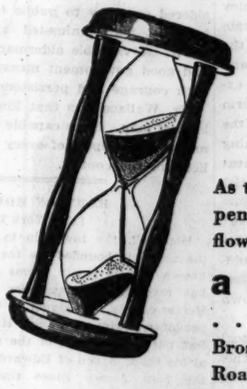
TAKE A DEEP BREATH OF THAT RICH AROMA FLOATING UP FROM A CUP OF HILLS BROS COFFEE

Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros' patented process—produces a fragrance and flavor no other coffee has

Roasting "a little at a time" ...instead of in bulk... gives absolute protection against under-roasting and over-roasting



As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . .

a little at a time

. . . so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting — the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . "a little at a time."

You simply can't keep away from a steaming, fragrant cup of Hills Bros. Coffee! You sip and drink and drain the cup —and fill it again and again.

The marvelous flavor is due to Hills Bros.' patented Controlled Roasting process. Instead of roasting in bulk, Hills Bros. roast a little at a time . . . as the coffee flows evenly, continuously, through the roasters.

Every berry in the blend comes from the roasters in perfect condition! None is underdone nor overdone. They have just the right amount of roasting required to develop the choicest flavor. And the flavor never varies. Every pound of Hills Bros. Coffee has the same delightful taste!

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans, and can't go stale. The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

You may doubt that Hills Bros. Coffee tastes so good. But no matter how critical you are, a cupful will convince you that Controlled Roasting does make a finer flavor! Order Hills Bros. Coffee today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon governmen- which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE CULT OF INCOMPETENCE.

The upward line of federal costs was traced recently by Senator Glenn in a talk to the Irish Fellowship club in Chicago. The main stem of this growth, the total of United States government expenditures, was marked at 1890 for the start of one comparison. The budget of 1890 required $291,000,000. That of 1928 needed 3,970 millions. In another comparison the per capita cost in 1890 was $4.61; in 1930 it was $33.12. The shock caused by the totals does not lose its punch when the component items of the cause are examined. Typical of these items are: The department of agriculture going from 37 to 169 millions from 1917 to 1931 and the department of commerce from 12½ millions to 60.

State and local governments whose charts will show the same up movement of taxes and costs have a partly plausible but overdone explanation in the increase of population. Local public services must increase with the increasing number of people. More children require more schools, more houses require more fire protection and more people more police. As population increases there must be more hospitals, asylums and prisons. There will be more parks and places of recreation, larger expenses for health, etc.

These causes of added costs do not apply legitimately to the federal government in anything like the same ratio. In many instances of increase they are nonexistent. It is not because there are more people in the United States that the federal government has become a danger to the national economy. It is because there has been a change in the theory of national government and the theory itself is a danger regardless of its financial consequences.

The change is from a doctrine of states united for necessary common purposes, but managing their own affairs on a theory of individual citizenship responsibility to a doctrine of federal guardianship which rests upon new theories of the irresponsibility of states and the incompetence of individuals.

When the morality of citizens and the solvency of railroads are both in the jurisdiction of Washington there is as little kinship between the character of the federal government of 1890 and that of 1931 as there is resemblance in the expenditures of 1890 and of 1931. In its new form the United States government denies that the people of the United States are fit to do anything for themselves. They are unfit to raise wheat or grapefruit, to buy their own furniture or raise their own children, to control their personal habits or get rid of their own grasshoppers, to transport goods or buy food, provide water for their table or their sprinkling cans, and it has become doubtful whether they are sufficiently adult to select what they want on the radio or say their own prayers.

The doctrine of mental, moral and physical unfitness has produced a citizenship which in this bleak month of March, 1932, is about ready to confess that it is at the end both of its wits and its money and has produced a government which looks with vacant eyes in an empty head at a deficit of four billion dollars for 1933.

A DISSENTING OPINION BY MR. JUSTICE BRANDEIS.

A federal Supreme court decision holding that the manufacture of ice was a private business not to be regulated by a state as a public utility gave Mr. Justice Brandeis an opportunity for a dissenting opinion and an excursion into what he admitted were uncharted seas of economic and social science. Mr. Justice Stone joined him.

The case came up from Oklahoma, a company there resisting the state law which the Supreme court majority has declared void. The Brandeis dissent contains a doctrine to which Justice Holmes was giving weight before his retirement. Holmes objected to the obliterating effect of the fourteenth amendment as construed to limit the power of states in their legislative freedom. Brandeis also likes the experimental privileges which the peculiar character of the American Union can give to particular regions without involving the whole country in the consequences.

Asinine legislation, of course, is not prohibited by the American constitution. It is not required of a people or their representatives that they be wise. It is not required of them that they know what they are doing. Experience is the supreme court for much of the experimenting done by state governments. There must, as yet, not be denial of certain fundamental rights, but even jurists are not agreed from generation to generation on all fundamental rights. Once a fundamental right was contained in the ownership of a slave. Later the legislatures surrendered even the fundamental right of a citizen to select a table beverage. It is still presumed that he has the right to adhere to his selected form of religious worship, to express his opinions and to engage in lawful undertakings. But here Justice Brandeis enters a speculative protest. Has a state the privilege of determining what lawful undertakings may be selected by its citizens? If Oklahoma authorities decide that the state or any region of it does not require another ice making company can it prevent a new one from engaging in that business?

The question is not the quality of the ice, which might be within ordinary police power, but the quantity of it, which is economic, and Justice Brandeis says that a state should be conceded the right to make economic experiments. If it thinks unbridled competition is disastrous it can feel its way around in the field of state control and the individual's right to engage in business becomes subject to the state's decision whether it is good for other people for him to do so. Any other article could be substituted for ice, such as wheat, newspapers, automobiles, radios, candy, or hot dogs. The economic requirements of the state must dictate the occupation of the individual when such a doctrine has been amply applied, and the end is occupational dictation by the state.

An individual, then, will become a barber because the state needs a barber and not another banker or plumber. A state thus privileged would unquestionably be trying "novel social and economic experiments" as a laboratory and the best that could be hoped would be that it was "without risk to the rest of the country." If that hope failed the United States would never again be recognizable for what it had been.

TAKING THEIR AFFAIRS IN HAND.

Aurora citizens are holding massmeetings to organize support for a citizens' tax council which proposes to coöperate with officials to reduce public expenditures. A few weeks ago Aurora stopped an uncalled for run upon solvent banks by putting up its business shutters for three or four days and having a heart to heart talk with its citizenry. Champaign-Urbana had done the same thing successfully a few days before. Both cities gave admirable examples of the efficiency of intelligent leadership and community good sense and self-control. Aurora is now going to take another step in solving its own difficulties and it will solve them. This is the essence of Americanism. It points the way out and up for the whole nation.

We have been traveling down for a long time, turning to the government for more and more help, ignoring the fact that we must all pay in the end and pay too high, ignoring the fact that we were entangling our energies in a network of official restraints, loading ourselves with public debts, building up the power of government which our forefathers wisely feared and planned as well as great men could to protect us from. A generation and more of Americans have either lost their love of liberty or forgotten that paternalism is its destruction and local responsibility and free initiative its only defense. If the example of Aurora, Champaign-Urbana, and other communities which are fighting the problems of this time in their own right and might signifies a revival of community initiative and the once proud self-reliance of the American citizen we shall win from this interruption of prosperity far more than we have lost.

Politics defiant of the country's need and up to its neck in the public till, demagogy rampant in congress, this is a dark picture. But the people are waking up to its menace and there will be an accounting with faithless representatives who repudiate the American heritage and follow the alien minded radicalism of a handful to its betrayal and destruction.

FOR WALLACE.

Thomas O. Wallace is a candidate in the Republican primary to succeed himself as clerk of the Circuit court. Mr. Wallace has been politically active for 25 years. His record is clean from start to finish. As an alderman he exposed the expert graft in the Thompson administration. As Circuit court clerk he has consistently operated his office economically and to the complete satisfaction of the bench and bar. The Municipal Voters' league has had this to say of him:

"Has pursued a straightforward course through his term, attacking vigorously measures he considered contrary to public interest. Experienced, business man, animated by energy and public spirit. A valuable alderman. Stood for economy and good government measures, supporting them with courage and persistency."

Mr. Wallace was that kind of man and is that kind of man. He is capable and incorruptible. He merits the support of every self-respecting Republican in the county.

HART OF HOPEWELL.

[New York Times.]

Hopewell, the township in New Jersey which on the south is bounded by the Delaware, but is still known for its lonely farms and primitive wildness, has revolutionary memories that are treasured by Mercer county. Its signer of the Declaration of Independence, "Honest" John Hart, farmer and dauntless patriot, was one of the most respectable figures of his time. A son of Edward Hart, who commanded the New Jersey Blues that saw service in the French-Canadian wars, he had no military ambition himself. But he felt his responsibility as a citizen, and in the provincial legislature advocated laws for the founding of schools, the administration of justice, and the improvement of roads. Yet today the state highway system does not touch Hopewell village, route 30 passing four miles to the south and route 31 missing it by eight miles on the east. The stamp act called out Hart's resistance. He was active in electing delegates to the congress that met in New York in October, 1765. He served in the congresses of 1774, 1775, and 1776, and willingly assumed the responsibility imposed by Lee's resolution of independence, setting an example to members of weaker fiber who resigned.

John Hart was chairman of the New Jersey council of safety in 1777-'78, and paid the penalty for his courage when the British invaded the state. The buildings and stock on his farm were destroyed by Hessians. Then began hiding in caves and woods, suffering hunger, seldom sleeping twice in the same place, and finding safety only in the rugged Sourland mountains. They may be seen on the map extending from East Amwell to Hillsborough. Often neighbors, at great personal risk, sent him food when he was almost at the last gasp. After the battles of Trenton and Princeton the fugitive returned to his desolated farm, restored it, and in the evening of his life was held in high esteem for his sacrifices during the revolution. It was not until 1865 that the state of New Jersey recognized his devotion to the cause of independence by erecting to his memory a monument in the Baptist churchyard of Hopewell. John Hart was illiterate in the sense that he wrote a letter with difficulty. Historians have even doubted whether the signature on the Declaration was in his handwriting. There is a portrait of Hart in the statehouse at Trenton, but its authenticity has been questioned. The Sourland mountains are as grim as ever and in their fastnesses is pointed out the "stone house," which is really a group of rocks where John Hart lay in his extremity, visited stealthily by Jack, a Negro servant, who smuggled food to him.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

LET'S HAVE THE STATISTICS ON THIS.

Hey, statisticians, you're so busy whittling away on all sorts and kinds of figures that we'd like you to get busy with this one. First, we'll tell you that every day we read where you statisticians have worked out the percentage of all sorts of motor accidents. So many per cent of the accidents were caused by drunken drivers, so many by careless drivers, so many by young smarty drivers, so many by hoodlums, and so on. But we want you to sit down and figure out what percentage of motor accidents was caused, or at least contributed to (fifty-fifty), by the "I-had-the-right-of-way" driver. We'll bet his percentage runs as high or higher than any other class.

And he was right. You may whisper that to his relatives as you carry in the flowers to put around the coffin. He was right, quite right. He had the right of way. He was sailing along a road and the rules of the traffic code, which state most explicitly that "a motor vehicle moving at a normal speed in a single traffic lane on a road carrying more traffic than an intersecting road has the right of way over vehicles making any other maneuvers whatever."

"Yessir," said the motor cop who picked up the remains, "he had the right of way all right, but that other feller came whooping along on this here intersecting road and rammed him right over into the ditch and then his machine caught fire. The other feller was wrong, because this is a main thoroughfare, and he otter have stopped, or, anyhow, slowed down, and took a look before slamming across the road the way he did. I wish we could have caught him. This feller was right, an' I'm a goin' to tell the coroner so."

The trouble with the man who has the right of way is that he doesn't take into consideration that there are a lot of drivers who don't care whether he has the right of way or not. They're going to bull along anyhow. The man who has the right of way stands still until he gets the green light. And too often he jumps right off at the green light because, having the right of way, he doesn't have to look to either the right or left for other machines. And just like as not there's a moron on the cross street who doesn't give a hang that the red light has flashed against him. He plunges right ahead and into the car of the man who did not start until he had the green light.

From next morning's newspapers: Bystanders who saw the accident said that Mr. Doozem had the right of way, but a big sedan crashed through the red light and struck him and then sped on its way without the identity of the hit and run driver being discovered. The body was taken to the morgue.

ENOUGH REWARD.

A singer's song may never reach
A single listening ear,
A poet's dream may never teach
A heart to cast out fear.

But tho the song may never ring,
And tho dreams can't come true;
God knows it's joy enough to sing,
And dream a dream or two.

OVER IN INDIANA they help us get money in our state treasury by arresting all of our loyal citizens who have neglected to put new 1932 auto license plates on their cars. That's mighty nice of Indiana, although it's possible that the motorists who get pinched don't entirely appreciate it. It's high time that we out here in Illinois wake up to the fact that this is the year 1932 before Sen. Moses classes us as one of the backward states.

AND, ANYHOW, if we had a regular stockade for those who enjoy sun baths we wouldn't be stumbling all summer long on weird shapes wearing hardly anything but their birthday clothes stretched on the sands anywhere between Evanston and South Chicago. Build a stockade and let 'em have it. And if they don't want to get in it chase 'em in.

THE HARD FROST we had yesterday was quite a surprise, accustomed as Chicago is to beautiful June-like weather all winter. However, it was found that the frost did not injure the fruit trees in the least or even nip the roses and tulips, which are now in full bloom. We had a hard frost, we admit it, but, after all, as the poet has so well said:

Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary.

Of course it wasn't rain; it was a hard frost, but it all means the same thing. But as the poet also remarks:

Cheer up, sad heart, and cease repining,
Behind the clouds the sun's still shining.

And although, since our climate has changed and made Chicago the most famous winter resort in the world, we hardly expected a hard frost in springtime, still it was a beautiful frost as frosts go and in some places so heavy that we had to get out the frost scrapers to push it to one side so that traffic could get through. Yes, it was indeed a beautiful frost and we enjoyed it very much. Ah, what a climate! What a climate! (Los Onglaize papers please copy.)

WHERE NOW THE DREAMS?

Where now the flame-filled dreams of youth,
That like torches lit the nights,
Filling the well of the heavens
With magical, lilting lights,
Spangling the future with promise,
Spilling rare scent on the air:
The eager dreams, the long, sweet dreams,
Where are they now, oh, where?
. . . Lost in the scented tangle

GROWTH OF THE BODY.

WE know much about growth, but we do not know any of the fundamentals. We have many facts as to the phenomena, but we know nothing of the whys. We know that growth starts at a certain time, proceeds at a particular speed, spurts and slows, and, finally, stops—but why, we do not know. We say that growth has a schedule that it follows.

When an engineer climbs into his locomotive cab he has before him a schedule which he is to carry out. He knows about what load he has to carry, where the curves and grades are, what are the stops and slow-downs. That much we know pretty well as to the baby starting out in life. The engineer knows the why of his schedule and, more than that, he knows that by burning so much coal, using so much water, making so much steam, using that steam in a certain way, taking advantage of grades, tangents, and speed stretches, he can make his schedule. Nobody has comparable information as to the whys of growth.

There are facts enough in hand as to the details of growth—the speed years, the slow years, the stopping time for height, and that for weight. Furthermore, we know that the organs do not grow uniformly. There is even variation in the schedule of growth of different parts of the same organ. When we know these schedules we have the answer as to why children seem to be all eyes at one age, why a baby can put his toes in his mouth, why at a certain age we have the "big head," at what age a man resembles a gorilla in his arm length, why youths have nosebleed, why girls faint, and why we are prone to blush, to turn pale, to have cold hands in youth.

In a newborn babe the length of the head, from the top of the cranium to the lower border of the chin, is one-fourth the total length. The trunk is large and long, compared with legs and arms. The length of the trunk equals that of the legs. The arms are longer than the legs.

By the fifteenth year some changes that have occurred are: The height has increased 3.1 times. The length of the head has increased 1.6 times; that of the trunk, 2.6; of the arms, 3.3; of the legs, 4.5.

The eye is the first organ to reach adult size. That is why the eyes of children four to six appear so large. The brain has acquired its complete weight by the ninth year.

The heart of a newborn baby is relatively large. The proportion decreases as adolescence approaches. The heart of a man is 12.7 times the weight of that of a newborn baby. The most rapid growth in the heart is from the fifteenth to the nineteenth year. During this period of speeding up the size of the heart about doubles. The increase in size antedates the increase in heart weight by about a year. The growth of the cavities precedes the growth of the muscle wall. The growth of the heart muscle does not proceed at the same rate as does that of the aorta and other large blood vessels. The distribution of the blood is controlled by the vasculomotor nerves. The growth of these follows a schedule slightly different from that of the heart muscles and of the blood vessels. That is why adolescents are subject to nosebleed and why they faint on slight provocation.

The human figure is neutral in type, as between male and female, until age 12. The adolescent growth spurt starts in girls at least one year earlier than in boys. Between 12 and 14 years girls are definitely better specimens physically and mentally than boys. However, even 14 year old boys have better lung capacity and stronger muscles.

HOW TO DESTROY NITS.

M. G. writes: How can I destroy nits in a child's hair?

REPLY.

Wash the hair in warm vinegar. After that the eggs can be removed by combing. Remember, any insects left in clothing, or on associates, mean another crop, just as any nits left behind mean another crop of insects.

FREQUENTLY CURED.

Mrs. E. writes:

1. Can tuberculosis of the bone ever be cured?
2. Does drinking black coffee harm the person's nerves?

REPLY.

1. Yes, and frequently is.
2. Yes, it sometimes does. The average person is not harmed by two cups daily, of ordinary size and strength.

ASSIGNMENT OF WAGES.

Chicago, March 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Having filed in bankruptcy, and having listed every creditor, can one of the listed creditors later hold the bankrupt to a wage assignment, said assignment being listed along with all other debts? J. V.

The Illinois Supreme court has held in 209 Ill. 252, and in 285 Ill. 233, at page 239, that an assignment of wages is like a real estate mortgage in the sense that while bankruptcy may bar the personal liability, it does not bar the right of the creditor to look to the pledged asset. We have seen no published decisions questioning the principles of these cases, but as a practical matter, injunctions are sometimes secured against proceeding on such assignments after the bankruptcy.

AMERICAN CONSUL DECIDES.

Chicago, March 10.—[Friend of the People.]—Please inform me as to the following: A citizen takes a trip to Poland and while there gets married. Will the husband who married the American citizen be allowed to enter the United States or not? I should like all particulars. B. R.

In answer to the inquiry as to whether a citizen of the United States who takes a trip to a foreign country and while there marries a male citizen of another country would be permitted to return to the United States with her husband, you are advised that if he was not a member of classes excluded by law from entering the United States there would appear to be no objection. However, the matter of obtaining preference visa lies solely in the hands of the American consul in the district in which the husband would be residing.

EXEMPT FROM SUCH TAX.

Chicago, March 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I believe it is a fact that federal, state, county, and city employés do not pay a federal income tax. Such being the case, is it not a fact that to tax all others with income [1] is class legislation, and [2] therefore unconstitutional? It is certainly an indisputable fact that the majority of these employés are receiving larger compensation than they could secure in any other vocation. W. A. M.

1. Yes.
2. This conclusion does not follow. We know of no constitution which absolutely prohibits class legislation. The requirement is that the classification be reasonable. In our opinion, the classification in your case is reasonable.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 26.—Later dispatches from the Yalu river show that in the battle fought yesterday between the Chinese and Japanese 3,500 Chinese troops of all arms were utterly routed.

CHEMULPO, Oct. 26.—Dispatches from Wi Ju give additional details of the battle between the Chinese and Japanese across the Yalu river. Gen. Nodzu, the Japanese chief of staff, succeeded in getting the main body of the Japanese army across the river without mishap before daylight. Then Col. Sato was sent forward at the head of a flying column and he discovered the enemy occupying a fortified position near Fushang on the right bank of the Yalu. He had no artillery, but immediately commenced an attack on the Chinese. The Chinese fought desperately, but after two hours they began to waver and eventually retired in great disorder, falling back upon Kulienchas, where it is expected that the only really determined stand by the Chinese in Manchuria will be made.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Times Yokohama correspondent says it is believed in that city that the second Japanese army, numbering 23,000 men, has landed at Shan-Ching, north of Talien bay.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 27.—The Japanese have gained a decisive victory at Kiuren over 17,000 Chinese. The enemy fled toward Antung. Dispatches confirm the reports of the battle between the Chinese and Japanese at the Yalu river, and it is added that the whole of the Japanese army afterwards advanced northward and Kiuren castle, which was held by a large force of Chinese, was attacked on all sides.

23 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 23, 1904.

LONDON. — H. J. Wigham, the Morning Post war correspondent, telegraphs from Newchang that the Russians have put new guns there and will not yield the place without a terrific battle. Japanese warships are said to have been cruising outside the port.

ST. PETERSBURG.—Another attack by the Japanese fleet on Port Arthur, beginning with operations by torpedo boats and ending with a bombardment by battleships and cruisers, took place on March 21. The attacking Japanese approached in two squadrons with a total of fifteen big ships and eight torpedo boats. The Japanese made two advances and during one of them kept up a bombardment of twenty minutes, throwing more than 200 big shells into the town. Dispatches to the emperor from Viceroy Alexieff show that the Russians sustained no great damage. Vice Admiral Makaroff claims that one of the Japanese vessels was struck by a shell.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Eugene Cary of Chicago, general manager of the German-American Insurance company of New York, fell dead of apoplexy at a banquet given by the World's Fair officials to insurance officials at the St. Louis club just as he had finished making an address. W. R. Townley of Chicago, a lifelong friend of Cary, was sitting near him when he fell and was so shocked at the occurrence that in running from the room he fell downstairs in an unconscious heap on the tile floor. For a time it was thought that he, too, was dead, but he was finally revived. Mr. Cary was 69 years old. In 1883 he was a candidate for mayor of Chicago on the Republican ticket.

MARCH 23, 1916.

COLUMBUS, N. M.—Gen Luis Herrera, until recently Carranza military governor of Chihuahua, has renounced Carranza and announced in favor of Villa, taking the field in western Chihuahua with 2,000 troops, according to reliable information received here. The sentiment of the people in that district, which lies about 70 miles directly east of the Guerrero region, in which Villa began his days as an outlaw, is in favor of the bandit chieftain.

EL PASO, Tex.—El Paso is on a hair trigger. Alarming reports pour across the Rio Grande. Gen. Bell is holding 300 soldiers in reserve for emergencies with machine guns and has assured the municipal authorities they will be ready for action in fifteen minutes if needed. It is reported that the entire Carranza garrison at Torreon has gone over to Villa. Regarding conflicting reports about the Chihuahua garrison having revolted, a wealthy mining man said tonight he had a direct message saying the city is now in the hands of the Villistas. What progress Gen. Pershing has made in his pursuit of Villa since Monday was not known at Gen. Funston's headquarters today.

PARIS.—The Germans have renewed their attack on the French front between Avocourt and Malancourt, to the west of the Meuse and northwest of Verdun. The official French statement admitted the enemy was able to gain a hold on the small hill of Haucourt, which lies to the southwest of Malancourt. East of the Meuse there continues a terrific bombardment, near Douaumont and Vaux, but with no infantry attacks.

CALIFORNIA.

Chicago, March 20.—In today's column a Californian has some criticisms to make of Chicago which few people here will resent, as we differ from Californians in that respect, being great critics of our own affairs and taking the criticism of others good naturedly. However, I want to remind the writer of that article of the fact that a visitor in California is expected to approve of everything there, from the weather [however miserable] down to the smallest cactus. To challenge any statement made in favor of his state is knocking, and to offer proof of the challenge is treason in the eyes of a Californian.

The writer has lately returned from a six months' stay out there, having been lured there by relatives who are laboring under the delusion that it is the next thing to paradise. I found the only thing coming up to the claims made for it was the scenery. The weather from November to March was worse than here, and while they called it unusual I found evidence that it was not at all uncommon.

It was my observation that a larger percentage of people were unemployed than in this part of the country. And those who are working get about half the wage paid for similar work here.

Business in general seems to be harder hit than in this area because they are largely dependent on the tourist trade, and this depression has considerably curtailed the spending of tourist money. Also a large part of California's former prosperity was based on schemes for getting sucker money, such as fake oil wells, phoney gold mines, useless desert and mountain lands set to orchards and sold at fancy prices to the eastern people. And, as every one knows, this source of income is almost completely dry. With poor land and lack of summer rainfall, they are handicapped in an agricultural way; therefore all foodstuffs with the exception of citrus fruits and a couple of winter vegetables are higher priced than here. Indeed, most of their food staples and grains are shipped from the central part of the country, as well as practically every manufactured article, which necessarily makes them higher priced than here. Even rents in Los Angeles are as high as in Chicago when the type of buildings is taken into consideration. The trouble is that Californians have an idea that an unheated flat in a flimsy frame structure is on a par with a modern steam heated apartment here.

They pay as much for a steak off a range fed steer as we pay for prime beef, and as much for chops cut from a hog fed on wild roots and acorns as we pay for corn fed pork chops. Even gasoline is higher, although they have vast oil fields and refineries. And the reason this city is dirty while Los Angeles is clean is that our factories are turning their wheels and the people are heating their homes, while California has no factories to speak of and the majority of people have no money for fuel.

As for traffic conditions, let me state that according to their own figures 2,552 people were killed through motor car accidents last year in California, and the motoring public was told by various casualty companies that this was the worst on record anywhere and unless the situation were improved during the first half of this year the standard rates would no longer be obtainable.

The peculiar thing about Californians is that they are victims of their superiority complexes and really believe most of their exaggerated claims, mistaking poor living for cheap living, calling dry sand bars rivers, speaking of a puddle of green water as a flowing spring, referring to worked out gold mines as coming bonanzas, and in numerous other ways acting like children in fairyland. They are all in cahoots to boost everything in the state regardless of its merits, and there is to them only one side to every question, California's side. In spite of all this they are generally good hearted; it is their heads that are not right, and they are themselves easy victims of quacks when they have anything to be victimized for, which they don't seem to have just now. Summed up in a few words, California is a fool's paradise. EDWARD JOHNSON.

HOW BOSTON GETS ITS MORAL TONE.

Chicago, March 17.—In answer to the crank article on sun bathing appearing in today's Voice of the People, let me point out that the writer of that article does not know what it's all about.

First, the mayor does not propose anything in this connection; he can't even vote on it in the city council.

Second, the taxpayers are not involved, as the 20,000 citizens who are in favor of sun bathing will pay all expenses, including attendants' wages.

As to morals, what city can boast of its morals more than the city of Boston, Mass.? How do they keep up this high standard of morality in Boston? It has been kept up by providing space for nude sun bathing and nude ocean swimming for more than eighteen years. The city of Boston has the best sun bathing place in the world, the "City Point," which is maintained by the city. Bostonians may be prudish, but they are not fanatics and cranks.

Chicago sun bathers belong to no nude cult. This is being worked on a scientific basis and we have many ministers and educators in our ranks. Most of us take our sun baths artificially at the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. in the winter time.

THE WAY TO BALANCE THE BUDGETS.

Chicago, Ill., March 19.—In today's issue you state that Speaker Garner again contends "that the important thing is to balance the budget and that it matters little what sort of taxes are voted to accomplish that purpose."

Speaker Garner must not only be deaf and dumb but inexcusably ignorant and disregardful of all of the interests of the common people. Not only do the people not want any more taxation but they cannot and will not stand any more. The time has come for our tax spenders to balance their budgets not by adding more taxes but by cutting the taxes in half by reducing the expenses of government. Speaker Garner and the rest of his confrères in Washington would do well, instead of talking of how to gouge more taxes from the people, to abolish the numerous boards and commissions and thereby immediately cut the budget in half.

It would be well also for local authorities to consider this situation in the same light. MAXIMILIAN F. GEORGE.

HOW INDEED.

Chicago, March 19.—On Thursday Mr. Milnor of the farm board sails for Europe and upon his denial that he purposed selling any wheat abroad the Liverpool market was reassured, and Friday closed higher in face of a decline at Chicago.

Later Friday Mr. Hyde of the department of agriculture announced that the farm board was going to sell all they could where they could, with the result that Liverpool on Saturday closed 3¼ cents lower, and the pit in Chicago was demoralized at the opening.

Poor team work, but typical of all bureaucrats.

EYESTRAIN.

Chicago, March 19.—Something should be done immediately about the antiquated, misplaced, and eye straining electric light in the H. E. Legler library at Crawford near Madison. If one reads at this library for more than a half hour he finds his eyes becoming strained and fatigued. The library as a whole is very dimly lighted. It is no wonder that most of the library attendants have to wear glasses. B. D. SOELL.

CHINESE GENERAL INSULTED; PEACE PARLEY CRASHES

Envoy Refuses to Sit with Jap of Lower Rank.

SHANGHAI, March 23 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The first formal conference in an effort to arrange a definite Sino-Japanese armistice in the Shanghai area fell through today when Gen. Chiang Kuang-Nai, the chief Chinese delegate, walked out just as the meeting was about to begin.

Gen. Chiang is credited with being commander-in-chief of the 19th Route army which defended Shanghai, although Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai appeared to control the organization when it was fighting the Japanese.

Says His Rank Is Insulted.

Gen. Chiang objected to Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda acting as the chief Japanese delegate to the formal conference, alleging that Gen. Uyeda was not his equal in rank. He insisted that Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa, the Japanese commander-in-chief, should assume leadership of the Japanese delegation.

The chief Chinese delegate withdrew unexpectedly after several participants-to-be had arrived at the British consulate for the scheduled parley at 10:30 a. m.

The group collected at the consulate included foreign neutral ministers to China and military attachés, and they fully expected to take up the final work of making definite peace by arranging a method of withdrawal of Japanese forces and solving the administration of the area around Shanghai evacuated by them.

Hope to Pick New Envoy.

All the delegates dispersed. The Japanese minister to China, Mamoru Shigemitsu, on leaving said he hoped the conference would be able to convene tomorrow morning at the same hour.

The negotiators were somewhat taken aback by the turn in events, but later in the day said they believed the parley would be able to proceed tomorrow with a new Chinese chief military delegate, probably Gen. Tai Chi, commander of the Chinese defense garrison at Shanghai.

Gen. Chiang, meanwhile, had departed for Nanking.

Manchurian Revolt Grows.

CHANGGHUN, Manchuria, March 22.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Another battle in the widespread revolt in Kirin, soviet border province of Manchuria, was reported today in which five Japanese soldiers and 42 Chinese irregulars were slain.

This was the fourth encounter reported in 24 hours in a new series of uprisings alegedly inspired by Tsing Hai, anti-Japanese war lord, and occurred at Taochiatun, a station on the south Manchuria railway 35 miles southwest of Changchun.

Japanese reports said the Chinese forces retreated after the encounter. Other engagements have occurred at Nan Hu-tou, Huang Ni-ho, and Patun, resulting in 150 or more deaths.

1,000 Cavalrymen Revolt.

A mutiny of 1,000 cavalrymen, who joined the irregulars of Tsing Hai, yesterday swelled the revolt against the new Manchurian state. The troopers formerly were under the command of Hsi Hsia, governor of Kirin province in the new régime of Henry Pu-yi.

Tsing Hai has held Fu Yu, a strategic point, since March 16. Hsi Hsia has ordered other troops stationed at Nungan, 35 miles north of Changchun, to recapture Fu Yu and has called on the Japanese for help.

Famine and pestilence in the form of smallpox, which menaces foreigners, are sweeping over the crowded camps of warfare's refugees in China today.

Foreigners are particularly susceptible to the type of smallpox prevalent here, said Dr. Wu Lien-teh, director of the Chinese maritime quarantine service. Hundreds of them have heeded warnings and undergone vaccination.

The disease was in a very virulent form, with half the cases thus far fatal, Dr. Wu said. He described the epidemic as the most widespread and taking the heaviest toll in this vicinity of any in many years.

Steamers Are Protected.

At Hongkong, Saigon, and other refugee centers 142 cases were reported last week. E. Koechlin, French consul general, was one who died of the disease.

Steamers entering and leaving Shanghai are required to take special precautions against smallpox, while Hongkong has ordered that all persons arriving there from Shanghai must be vaccinated before they may enter the port.

Famine, not a new condition in China, has driven the people again to eating the bark of trees, the chaff of threshed grain and weeds, said Sir John Hope-Simpson, British director of the China famine commission.

Diet Passes War Budget.

TOKIO, March 22.—(AP)—A supplementary budget to pay for the military and naval campaigns at Shanghai and in Manchuria was approved today by a special session of the house of representatives, which heard from Gen. Sadao Araki, minister of war, that more troops were needed in Manchuria. The budget bill was sent to the house of lords.

Gen. Araki said the present situation, from some standpoints, was even more serious than the Russo-Japanese war of 1905.

A Rengo [Japanese] news agency dispatch from Harbin today quoted Li Shao-keng, new president of the Chinese Eastern railway, as saying fifty-nine locomotives belonging to the road, which were moved to Siberia by soviet authorities, have been returned to the Chinese Eastern after he had protested to the soviets.

"Recognition" Report Fake.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

DAIREN, Manchuria, March 22.—The new Manchurian government today admitted the incorrectness and overoptimism of yesterday's announcement that France, Italy, Japan, and Estonia had recognized it. It was explained today that recognition has not been granted, but extremely courteous replies and acknowledgments have been received from the nations named answering Manchuria's formal announcement establishing independence.

MAJ. C. A. PLAMONDON SUCCEEDS NEELY IN U. S. REVENUE OFFICE

— The appointment of Maj. Charles A. Plamondon, Chicago attorney, to succeed Robert E. Neely as chief field deputy in the office of the collector of internal revenue was announced yesterday by Collector Gregory T. Van Meter. Maj. Plamondon, a bachelor, is 42 years old. He was graduated from Columbia university in 1915 and since the world war has been engaged in the practice of law here. Mr. Neely resigned from the department recently to establish private offices as an income tax expert.

KING ACTS ROLE OF GRANDPA AND ALL IS FORGIVEN

Prince Lennart and Bride Reconciled with Family.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, March 22.—A reconciliation between Sweden's runaway Prince Lennart and his family was made public today and at the same time the inside story of how Lennart's royal grandfather, King Gustav, forgot all about being a king for one afternoon and remembered only that he is a grandfather, became known.

A few days ago Gustav decided to forgive Lennart for having taken a commoner to wife and induced Lennart's irate father, Prince Wilhelm, to do the same. The result was that Mr. and Mrs. Lennart Bernadotte, as the young couple call themselves, were invited to partake of some medium fatted calf with Wilhelm Monday. But that did not settle the matter completely, for Gustave still stood on ceremony about personally receiving the errant honeymooners.

Hotel Man Intervenes.

It was a chance encounter on the street yesterday between Lennart and the manager of the hotel, where Gustav has been staying every winter for the last 27 years that cut formalities short. The hotel man had known Lennart since he was a baby so he took the liberty of saying: "Why don't you go to see your grandpa?"

"I've got to wait until I'm invited," replied the prince.

The hotel man tempted royal displeasure once more by returning to the hotel and detailing this conversation to Gustav.

"I'll see him if he wants to see me, but as grandfather, not as king," Gustav answered. "I don't have to deny what was published in the press following the wedding, but as king of Sweden I can't do otherwise."

Hint Title May Be Restored.

The king was perplexed when he learned that his grandson and his young bride were staying at a hotel within a few hundred yards of his own.

"I can't run after them," the old monarch insisted, but nonetheless he called them up at the hotel today and a personal interview took place shortly afterward.

The exact terms of reconciliation were not published, but it is understood that while Lennart still remains deprived of his title for reasons of the protocol there is a hint that there is some kind of arrangement for later on. It is also reported that the young wife made a highly favorable impression on Lennart's papa yesterday when they visited him at Eze sur-mer.

Federal Judge Appoints 2 Receivers for I. W. A. C.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday appointed George F. Getz and Mrs. Bessie Bragg Pierson, president of the Illinois Women's Athletic club, as receivers for the assets of the club, which is situated at 111 East Pearson street. A petition asking that receivers be appointed was filed recently in the United States District court by the Prudence company of New York City, holder of an unsatisfied judgment against the club.

F. H. DAY SUES UHLMANNS; ASKS $250,000 DAMAGES

Frank H. Day, former Board of Trade operator with offices at 332 South La Salle street, yesterday filed the præcipe of a $250,000 damage suit against Fred and Richard Uhlmann, heads of the Uhlmann Grain company at 141 West Jackson boulevard, and eight directors of the Board of Trade as co-defendants.

According to Attorney Edward P. Madigan of the law firm of Ettelson & Ettelson, the suit is the outgrowth of action before the grain board which expelled Day shortly after allowing the Uhlmann company a $76,000 claim against him last Feb. 25.

The declaration will charge conspiracy, according to Attorney Madigan, and will allege that both the claim and the expulsion were illegal acts.

FIRST REPORTS ON JOB DRIVE ARE FAVORABLE

First figures on the Chicago campaign for the reëmployment of men and money were received yesterday at the headquarters at 10 South La Salle street. Reports of the local campaign compare favorably with the results being obtained elsewhere in the national employment drive of the American Legion, according to local officials.

Pledges have been received for the hiring of more than 200 permanent employés, approximately 50 temporary employés, and the expenditure of $25,000 for personal purchases and reconstruction.

In a statement last night P. W. King, executive director of the local campaign, requested additional volunteer workers to aid in the block by block canvass.

"If you're not in the TRIBUNE you're not in CHICAGO"

State Street, Chicago, center of retail merchandising for the midwest

The true valuation of the Chicago Tribune as an advertising medium goes far beyond mere statistics. It is vastly more important than facts and figures, for such figures are the result of this significance rather than its cause.

During the past 85 years Chicago has had many newspapers, but only one recognized voice — the Chicago Tribune—the paper always published by Chicagoans.

It is a newspaper with all the traditions of a fighting partisan for this great midwestern metropolis it so ably serves. A newspaper published aggressively, expressing the needs, ideals and achievements of the people in and surrounding Chicago. Not a newspaper published just to carry advertising, not the shadow of another city's newspaper artificially transplanted in strange soil, not an endeavor to cash-in on skillfully presented emotional appeals—but a personality grown up with Chicago that is recognized and respected by Chicago as its own powerful voice. That is the Chicago Tribune.

Although Tribune supremacy is thoroughly demonstrated statistically, its personality cannot be portrayed in figures and charts only. Why consider it in terms of some of its parts, when the whole is so much more important? Circulation becomes of greatest value only when favorable community contact is added to it. The Tribune has both. When you have studied the statistics, and analyzed newspaper influence and newspaper contact in Chicago, it comes home to you that after all, "if you're not in the Tribune, you're not in Chicago.

These unbiased and authentic facts about the Chicago Tribune are accessible to any advertiser:

This newspaper has in excess of 815,000 circulation daily, in excess of 1,000,000 Sunday.

—159,000 more city and suburban daily circulation than any other Chicago daily newspaper, and 147,000 more Sunday city and suburban circulation than the next Sunday newspaper.

—128,000 more circulation in Chicago's better residential districts than any other Chicago newspaper.

—270,000 home-delivered circulation—more than that of all other Chicago newspapers combined!

—238,000 more circulation in the entire Chicago territory than any other newspaper.

—1,790,000 more lines of retail advertising in 1931 than any other Chicago newspaper—1,494,000 more lines of general advertising—1,779,000 more lines of want advertising—5 million more lines in all classifications!

COMBAT CAPONE PLEA FOR A NEW COURT HEARING

Hoodlums Have Bad Day with Authorities.

Included in the official activities against hoodlums aligned with the Capone organization yesterday were the following:

1. The government filed an answer to Alphonse Capone's petition for a rehearing of his appeal from his income tax fraud conviction, made to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals after that court affirmed his sentence of 11 years in prison.

2. The pictures of Sam Hunt and Murray Humphries, leaders in the Capone group, were taken at the detective bureau. They objected to being photographed, but five policemen made them sit, after Humphries had been slightly bruised in his struggles.

3. An order was issued for the arrest of Jack Guzik, Capone cashier, by the Circuit Court of Appeals. He is to be taken to Leavenworth penitentiary for five years for defrauding the government of income tax, the trip to start on Friday.

Oliver Included in Order.

The Guzik order was accompanied by one for the arrest and transportation to the same prison of Gene Oliver, former county assessor, also convicted of nonpayment of income tax. The Supreme court of the United States has refused to review the Guzik and Oliver cases.

In his answer to the Capone petition for a rehearing Assistant District Attorney Jacob I. Grossman stated that the gang leader's contentions had all been fully outlined and argued in the Appellate court and that nothing new was offered. Therefore, Mr. Grossman asserted, the rehearing should be denied.

Capone, who is still in the county jail, can appeal to the Supreme court if the Court of Appeals finally rules against him, but his lawyers have indicated that he may decide to start serving his prison sentence without awaiting the ruling of the highest court. There is a possibility that he may go to Leavenworth with his old friend, Guzik, on Friday.

Object to Pictures.

When Sam Hunt and his brother, Joseph, were arrested on Monday in front of 6331 Jeffery avenue, the former was carrying a pistol. A little later Murray Humphries, who has been regarded as Capone's chief operative in the cleaning and dyeing racket, and two other men were taken into custody in front of the New Southern hotel at 1250 South Michigan avenue.

"I won't stand for it."

"Neither will I," seconded Hunt.

Five policemen, led by Emmett Evans, chief identification inspector, forced the pair to be photographed.

At the showup last night there were no identifications of the two. Hunt was charged with carrying concealed weapons. Humphries was freed.

Mrs. McPherson-Hutton Is Ordered to Rest by Doctor

UNABLE TO EAT

End Suffering from Sour Stomach, Gas Pains, Bloating and Dizzy Spells with Wenvo

What a joy to relish every meal you eat and then experience no distressing after-effects! Yet, men and women everywhere every day suffer unnecessarily from stomach trouble, believing it is something that must be endured.

Wenvo, the New Master Medicine, has freed thousands from slavery to their stomachs, restored a healthy appetite to those who had known the tortures of indigestion for years. Stubborn cases of liver, bowel, and similar functional disorders have yielded to Wenvo. These people have regained their health, eat what they like, free from aches and pain, to enjoy the pleasures of life again!

Mrs. Bowen's condition for 2 years may be similar to yours today. Mrs. Fred Bowen, 709 West First St., Tulsa, Okla., writes: "For more than two years I have suffered terribly with spells of nervous indigestion. I could not sleep and I had pains running about my shoulder blades and in my chest. I tried several different medicines but it was not until I tried Wenvo that I experienced any benefit. This fine medicine has made a new woman of me."

Sounds too good to be true? It is easier to understand when you realize that Wenvo is compounded of 28 active ingredients, long recognized by medical and scientific authorities. Nothing to upset you, to disagree with you. A powerful agent for building up rich, red blood, cleansing the entire system and keeping out body poisons that drain away your energy. For this Master Medicine goes direct to the CAUSE!

The best way . . . the only way for you to truly know what Wenvo can do for you is to try it. Give this Master Medicine a chance to restore your health . . . do it on an Iron-Clad Money-Back Guarantee. If you don't feel and look years younger, if your aches and pains don't leave you, then return the empty bottle and your money will be refunded. Could anything be fairer? That's Wenvo!

Dynamite Bridge in Mine War

The trestle which connects Sunday Creek Coal company mine No. 6 at Millfield, O., with Chesapeake and Ohio railroad as it appeared after explosion intended to wreck it. The dynamiting was one of a number of lawless acts in connection with the Hocking Valley mine strike near Athens, O. [Acme Photo.]

SAVES GIRL FROM ATTACK; HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

An unexpected verdict was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the slaying of John H. Thompson, 31 years old, 6348 Drexel avenue, who was shot and killed while attempting to attack Miss Joyce Munroe, 22 years old, in her apartment in the New Drake hotel, 6342 Maryland avenue. Despite the testimony of witnesses that Louis Deaky, manager of the hotel, who went to the rescue of Miss Munroe, fired the fatal shot only after he had been badly beaten by Thompson, the jury ordered Deaky held to the grand jury on a manslaughter charge.

The witnesses were Miss Munroe, Deaky's wife, Elizabeth, and his nephew, Charles Pomathy, 5937 Princeton avenue. They testified that Miss Munroe had called for help and Deaky responded. Deaky, who is 58 years old and of a slighter build than his victim, suffered a broken shoulder blade when he grappled with Thompson.

The jury was impaneled by Deputy Coroner Ray Conerty. Police locked up Deaky and he will be arraigned in the Felony court today.

STRIKING MINERS AGAIN DYNAMITE RAILROAD TO PIT

Athens, O., March 22.—[Special.]—Rioting miners once more dynamited a section of a spur railroad track leading to the Sunday Creek mine No. 5 at Millfield early today in spite of the ultimatum threatening martial law. The ultimatum was issued by Gov. George White.

Because of the heavy rains which drenched the valley, the explosion did little real damage, ripping away only a small section of the rails and some ties.

Unions Pledge Peace.

The first dynamiting took place Sunday when a trestle on the spur track was rendered useless by a charge of explosives. The mine is practically isolated until the spur is rebuilt.

Observers were apprehensive lest conditions get out of control despite the assurance given Gov. White by mine union officials at a conference that coöperation would be given authorities in ending strike violence in the Hocking Valley. More than 7,000 miners are on a strike protesting reduced wages.

The courts were called upon late today to intervene on behalf of miners who wish to return to work.

The Sunday Creek Coal company went into the Athens county Common Pleas court and asked for an injunction restraining the United Mine Workers of America from picketing the company's mines, trespassing on its property and intimidating miners.

The petition names striking miners and international and local officers of the union as defendants and asks for a temporary restraining order. No date for the hearing has been set.

Pennsylvania Strike Weakens.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 22.—[Special.]—Seizure of aliens accused by police of inciting violence in the insurgent strike in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania was begun today. Angelo Nunes, an immigrant from Spain six weeks ago, was arrested and turned over to immigration authorities for immediate deportation when radical literature was found in his room. Mrs. Katherine Menidkowski of Wilkesbarre also was held for distributing communistic literature.

Meanwhile the strike in both the upper and lower Pennsylvania regions appeared to be weakening. The only outbreak took place at Jessup, where eleven pickets were sentenced to ten days in jail for stoning miners.

Thomas J. Maloney, leader of the insurgents at Wilkesbarre, said 48,000 miners are out, but other agencies reported not more than 9,000 to 10,000 men were striking today, a decrease of 2,500 from yesterday. Several colliers previously prevented from working resumed today.

Gov. Pinchot entered the picture today when he said he had given instructions to the state police that peaceful picketing was to be permitted, but "violent interference with men who want to go to work will not be allowed."

Martin F. Brenna, Shamokin, president of the district of the United Mine Workers, denounced the strike and appealed to the men to return to work.

ORDER EXTENSION OF DIVERSEY AVE. TROLLEY BUS LINE

An order was entered yesterday by the Illinois commerce commission requiring the street car company to extend its trackless trolley bus service in Diversey avenue from Narragansett avenue to Harlem avenue. Frank M. Kalteux, Republican committeeman of the 38th ward, and Raymond J. Peacock and Frank J. Reilly, representing business and improvement organizations in that district, appeared before the commission urging the action which the company opposed on the grounds that no money is available.

The commission directed that the necessary funds be taken from the special equipment fund of the car company. The company was directed to apply to the federal court, which appointed a receiver for the Surface Lines, for permission to make the extension.

The Woman Hater

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Faire Chapelle is the stepdaughter of "Ma" Chapelle, who owns Flaxen's Casino, a café of ill repute, near the water front of Port Bai. Faire and Aya, "Ma's" daughter by her first husband of dubious color, have been trained to assist in Flaxen's. The Chapelles are looked upon as outcasts by respectable island residents and Faire feels their attitude keenly because her father was of unimpeachable antecedents. He had brought her as a little girl into these unsavory surroundings and left her there at his death. She has kept aloof from all that Flaxen's represents.

Sir Philip Persian is governor and commander in chief of the Tama islands, Bai and St. Rosario. His young secretary and ward, Robert Grand, is involved in an affair with Mira Worcester, a faded beauty. Her husband has become suspicious. Sir Philip is anxious to save the boy from a scandal. Malise Bookes, the governor's aid-de-camp, asks Faire, as a favor to the governor, to clear Mira by proving it was she who'd been meeting young Grand secretly, threatening to close Flaxen's and have the Chapelles deported unless she consents. Sir Philip is furious with Bookes when he learns that Faire was forced to accept Mira's guilt. He sends for Faire to try to make amends. He arranges to have her return to her father's people in England. Mira Worcester sails on the same boat with Faire. In London Faire is met by her older widowed sister, Sheba, now Lady Rosewood, who owns a famous beauty salon. Sheba takes Faire into the business. Malise Bookes is sent home to London. He has lunch with Mira.

"What about Mary Chevronne?" Bookes echoed.

"You know Chevronne is dead?"

"I'd heard it," Bookes assented.

"At last he's dead. Poor old Mary has thought of nothing but Philip Persian, they say, all this time."

"I had an idea, you know, Mira, that she was coming out to the Tamas."

"I'm told every one here thought so. As soon as Chevronne died every one said: 'I suppose she'll go out there and marry Philip.' But equally, every one said, so I'm told: 'But how could she!'"

"How's she looking?"

"But, my dear, a hag! She spends all her time in beauty parlors—Sheba's, so they say. That's why, when every one thought she was coming out to Bai, she stayed here. She couldn't face it. She said, now Chevronne was dead, she'd wait and pull herself together and get her looks back."

Bookes sat leaning back, twiddling his wineglass, thinking. And he smiled a little to himself. So Faire Chapelle was not for Philip Persian. . . .

"You must have known my young sister in Port Bai."

For Philip Persian the ashes of an old love to which honor held him. Honor! And turning to Mira he said idly: "A man's a fool to destroy himself for honor. We can surely manage differently these days."

"What will he do about this Chapelle girl?"

"My dear," Bookes smiled, "I should think that's obvious. A young man with an old wife . . ."

"Mary Chevronne, they say, is as crazy about him as when she first left Chevronne for him years ago, and Chevronne wouldn't divorce her, though they lived apart. And their friends and the lawyers hushed it up. You remember?"

"I've heard it."

Mira had a little pang thinking: "Of course, Malise is younger than I. He must have been at his university then."

"It throws light on Persian's feeling about young Bobby, Mira," he was about to add, when he realized in time that this was brutal. And yet—given a few more years—if Persian had not stepped in, how like the pictures were! Hot, idealistic boy; ageing, lovely woman; in each background the husband at his most, fiendishly vengeful.

Bookes devoted himself assiduously to Mira, trying to send the image of Sheba Rosewood out of his head. For there she dwelt—no use denying it. During all the ordinary amours of a sensual single man he could not forget the aloof and unattainable Sheba. Even ten years ago her clear, cool judgment had known him too well.

When he took Mira home later he left her at the door of her flat. He might not have done so—with her husband thousands of miles away—if he had not still been thinking of Sheba Rosewood. But he thought: "I might call there tomorrow."

Aware that Sheba directed her salons herself and would not be home in all probability till 5 o'clock, Malise Bookes presented himself at the tall gray Westminster house at cocktail hour. He hoped to find no other callers there and, ushered into the water lily drawing room and seeing her beside a belated tea table, he said to himself, "My luck's in."

And the heated, cramped, overindulgent life of tropical islands seemed to slough off him.

He wanted to postpone the inevitable meeting with Faire and would have given years of life to have undone the mean cruelty committed in the pinch-beck glamour of a tawdry desire. But he knew that no man can buy himself off from his more crass mistakes.

As he took Sheba's hand he said: "You are just the same," with the look in his eyes which had been there for no other woman.

"And you," said Sheba in the soft rich voice he remembered, "you are just the same, too. Sit down. Why are you back? I thought you were somewhere in the West Indies. Tell me your news."

He sat down and let her understand, lightly, that private affairs pressing, the governor of the Tamas had released him from his duties, "only six months ahead of schedule, anyway, you know."

The butler came in with sherry and served him.

He sat sipping it, a pale dry wine of wonderful delicacy and flavor, thinking it was like Sheba to have no cocktails. He asked, "Can I pour you some?"

"No, thanks." He met her look and knew that she was going to talk to him about her sister. In fact, it dawned on him with a shock that Mira Worcester might have been already talking, a little poisoned hint here and there, a shrug, an innuendo . . . For she had to make good her footing again in the homes of women who did not like her, and a bit of amusing scandal would pay the footing as well as any other coin. And he thought: "It is of no use forcing Mira to promise silence. She'll tell something—facts or not. And," he thought further, very swiftly, "she's got the drop on Faire all along the line; Grand has to keep quiet, and I must, and Persian will."

"Has it been a good season, Sheba?"

"O, yes. Rather a good one. I don't do much, you know. I prefer work."

"Jove, interesting work like yours! Or isn't it? Don't you minister to a lot of raddled old women mostly?"

"O, largely. You wouldn't expect the beauties, would you? But it is fascinating."

"You were always very tolerant and kind."

"My sister," said Sheba, her clear eyes on him, "has had all her illusions about beauty salons shattered, of course."

"Your sister?" repeated Bookes colorlessly.

"Port Bai," Malise repeated, again colorlessly.

Lady Rosewood's eyes hardened; her mouth smiled.

"You must have known my young sister in Port Bai."

"Dear Sheba, one could not have helped knowing, or knowing of, every one on the island——"

"Faire, my sister Faire."

"Your sister was awfully retiring, you know. Under the circumstances one couldn't wonder. I wished afterwards that I had known she was your sister, and I could have done more for her."

"Afterwards? After what?"

"God, she knows something! But how much?" Malise thought, heart-sick. "I mean," he said, "after I did know, which was not until she was leaving."

"The name Chapelle meant nothing to you?"

"It didn't really. You were Lady Rosewood when I first knew you and we met very few times, all of which stayed in my memory," he said slowly. "And Rosewood took you off round the world, and I hardly thought of you ever by your unmarried name. If I had connected your sister with it I should just have thought . . . some very distant branch of the family at most. If you'd seen that crew, Sheba!"

"My father's second wife and her daughter?"

"'M. Girl was a half caste."

Sheba lay back in her chair, watching him.

"I daresay, Sheba, your sister has told you all about her life in Port Bai."

"She has told me all that doesn't matter."

"Well, that spells subtlety," said Malise lightly.

Movie Series on Columnists Is Under Way

Studios Busy on Stories of Paragraph Men.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 22.—With three studios working on the tragic and laughable experiences supposed to be undergone by newspaper columnists, it may behoove Dick Little and Harvey Woodruff to watch out for spies. Douglas Fairbanks Jr. is part way through his starring vehicle, "Love Is a Racket, in which young Doug plays a sometimes likable and sometimes detestable writer of saucy paragraphs that some New York papers publish.

At Columbia they are frank about their columnist story. They title it "Dirt." Radio is shaping up the third such film for rapid filming. It is called "Is My Face Red?"

Frankie Darro, child actor, whose guardians caused longer and more numerous court battles than any other child's in movie history, reached the age of 14 years last week and appeared before Superior Judge Guy Bush to ask a guardian appointed according to his own liking. He requested his father, Frank Johnson, also known as Frank Darro, to be appointed and the court acceded.

You don't hear so much of Anita Loos during her present trip to Hollywood as you did her former ones. The author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" has reconsidered her utterances about going back to live in Europe. Instead, Anita is now hard at work on assignments for film stories here.

Snapshot of economy in Hollywood: Richard Arlen drove his last automobile 87,000 miles before he traded it in on a new one.

Billie Dove, just returned from New York, Palm Beach, and Washington, D. C., where she chatted with President Hoover, issued a denial "about reports that there is a romance between James Cromwell and me." Cromwell is a wealthy New Yorker. Billie says "we are merely good friends."

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight")

In yesterday's play-a-problem we have a bid of a small slam and yet the hands have less than 6 high card tricks between them. Most systems will tell you that in order to bid a small slam you should try to ascertain that there are between six and seven high tricks between your hand and your partner's. The nearer to seven the safer the bid. This is merely a guide post. It can, of course, cover but the average situation and once a little familiar with the cards and bidding and enabled to read your partner's hand accordingly it should not be necessary for you to follow any such cut and dried theory.

SOUTH.
♠—K,10
♥—Q,9,7,6
♦—A,5,3,2
♣—K,10,7

East dealt and bid two hearts. South passed. West took out with two spades [a bit of a stretcher except for the six spades] and North passed. East showed his second suit with a bid of three diamonds. South passed and West now bid four diamonds. North passed, East bid five diamonds and South passed. West must now decide whether to pass or bid for the little slam. All West need do if he has confidence in his partner's bidding is to use common sense. He can take the first trick in spades. He knows his partner must have the top hearts and the top diamonds and must suppose that with the strong bidding done by East that there should be an ace or K-Q in the club suit. Of course, if it is the K-Q the contract may be set one. With the ace, the contract is pretty sure. On the other hand, West can balance the chance of it being the K-Q in place of the A by hoping that East holds the ♦ A. Taking the three or four possible combinations to justify East's bidding, West can decide [or should decide] that the odds are all in favor of a small slam. He, therefore, bid six diamonds and all passed.

South opened the ♦ 2, dummy played the 6, North the ♣ 2, and declarer the 4. Dummy then led the ♠ A on which East discarded the ♣ 6. To the third trick dummy led the ♥ 4 which East took with the ♥ K. East now led the ♥ 2, which dummy trumped with the ♦ 8. Dummy led back the ♣ 5 which East took with the A. East then led the ♥ A and then the ♥ 3 which dummy trumped with the ♦ 10. Dummy then led the ♦ Q, declarer played the ♦ K and South took the trick with the ♦ A. South to the ninth trick led the ♣ K which declarer trumped with the ♦ 7. Declarer then proceeded to take the tenth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth tricks with the ♦ J, the ♦ 9, the ♥ J, and the ♥ 8 for six odd—the little slam bid and made. Here is tomorrow's play-a-problem:

Changes Job to Tide Herself Over Bad Times

Teacher Willing to Take on Housework.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Suppose you were a woman nearing 30. You had taught school, but because of the oversupply of teachers you found yourself jobless for months on end. You were convinced that you would never marry. And you knew how to cook and manage a home.

A job is offered you as a cook. Would you feel that you could not afford to bury yourself in a kitchen? Would you feel that by accepting such a job you would cut yourself off from your former associates? Would you take the gamble, anyway?

It's a problem confronting a correspondent. It's a problem that probably is confronting hundreds of women, jobless and with little prospect in their trained vocational line.

Let's go back a few years, when wages were higher in domestic circles, to present an example of a woman who took a chance on cooking, at a certain crisis in her life. It was about '26 when she made her decision. She was an excellent cook. She did the housework for a middle aged couple and their only daughter. She was lucky in the type of employer she drew. They were exacting, but just.

The woman managed to save in that period close to five thousand dollars, which she has today. Some of the friends who snubbed her for her domestic work association have approached her for loans in the last year. She's smart, though, and holds to her earnings.

Now, her financial advantages do not represent an isolated case. There are many duplicates today of the domestic worker who has a feeling of security not enjoyed by her former employers.

However, the question as it applies to the individual is whether financial advantages mean more than other things, such as position, freedom of hours, and so on. It will be argued that domestic wages are lower today. But so are living expenses. Then, all employers of domestic help are not just. Some are heartless in their attitude toward servants. But there are decent employers and if one is lucky enough to draw one of this kind, gambling on the domestic job might turn out to be a most agreeable adventure.

Anyway, it can be used as a period to save and later the person might break away again into the preferred channel.

when "COLDS CATCH YOUR CHILDREN"

. . . a cleansing dose of Castoria!

The first step to take when your child catches cold, doctors agree, is to cleanse the body of all accumulated waste and infection-breeding material.

To carry off this poisonous matter, nothing is better than Castoria. It acts gently and mildly enough for children's delicate requirements, and yet it does the work unfailingly.

Castoria, you know, is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for babies and children. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics of any kind. It is so mild you can safely give it to relieve a colicky baby. Yet, in larger doses, it is an effective regulator for older children. And another help for mothers—children like its taste!

When you find a cold, a little fever, or a digestive upset starting, call in Castoria's kindly help. Your doctor will commend you for wise, prompt action. Don't forget—the genuine Castoria always has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package. Be sure you get genuine Castoria.

Veil Remains Fixed Fashion of All Brides

Modern Girls Cherish Old Custom.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

SOFT strains of Lohengrin, a flower-banked altar, billows of lovely tulle sweeping down the aisle—the picture never grows old! For independent as the modern young woman is in the choice of a husband, she is quite as old fashioned as grandmother when it comes to making wedding plans.

And of all the time honored customs that present themselves to the modern bride, she is least ready to discard the bridal veil. Worn once and then laid away for future generations. But it is the way she has pictured herself since the days of pigtails and hair-bows and it is the way the world thinks of the bride.

This was the first thing pretty Frances Bosworth mentioned the other day when she spoke of her trousseau and her wedding plans. One of society's first spring brides, she will exchange vows with that noted Englishman, Dr. Trevor D. Stamp, son of Sir Josiah and Lady Stamp, a week from Tuesday afternoon in the drawing room of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bosworth of 225 Hamilton street, Evanston.

Veil of Tulle and Old Lace.

Miss Bosworth is to wear a particularly lovely veil of tulle and old Limerick lace over her Vionnet gown of white satin. The cap, a Dutch bonnet held in place with the beautiful lace—then a panel of it bordered by three layers of tulle sweeping out behind.

"The rest of my trousseau, no diffent from any other, I guess," said Miss Bosworth, "even though I am going to live in London. Styles change so quickly these days I am not taking many extra things across though I do think American fashions the grandest in all the world. But there are shops in London now where it is very easy to obtain dresses from New York or Paris."

The thought of weddings, and trousseaux, and bridal veils, in particular, reminds one of a crush not so long ago outside the canopy that was stretched at St. Chrysostom's for one of the city's fashionable weddings. One "bepistoled" giant sternly shoved back a woman and her ten or eleven year old daughter who were trying to jam their way closer to the center of things with scant regard for others. "Shame on you," he thundered.

"Boloney!" retorted the child. "Come on, ma, come on. She's goin' in the church with all her gauze!"

About Origin of Custom.

Whither this custom of wearing a veil altarward? This is the question. For some writers tell us it grew out of the ancient practice of covering the bride to show her submission. Others claim the exact opposite to be true—that the veil was an emblem of freedom succeeding the custom of wearing the hair flying free at marriage.

It was the Anglo-Saxon bride who went to her wedding her hair hanging loose, but departed with it bound tightly to her head. There is more historic reference, however, to support the theory of submission. In ancient Egypt, for instance, the groom, who was never permitted to see the face of his bride until the wedding day, went through the solemn ceremony of uncovering her face. The same sort of custom prevailed among the Arabs, the Hindus, and various other Asiatic peoples.

At Druse the bride was hidden in a long red veil on her marriage day; among the Bedouins she was completely concealed under a canopy carried by several girls; and among the Chinese a sacred umbrella was held over her head to prevent evil descending upon her. Again it is possible the custom of the veil originated with the Hebrews and their practice of erecting a square vestment with pendants about it over the heads of the bride and groom. In this case, as with the sacred umbrella of the Chinese, a religious significance might be attached to the veil since these canopies symbolized fear of a higher power.

Few Exceptions to White Veils.

But, however this may be, veils of a yellow stuff, possibly linen, followed immediately upon the canopy form of protection, at least among the Romans and the Hebrews. Worn at the marriage ceremony, they were placed away, and taken out again only for use as burial shrouds. Among the sentimental European peasantry, it is still the custom to use bridal finery at death.

Although there are startling exceptions recorded, white has been the accepted color for the bridal veil since the time the ancients adopted it as the emblem of purity and joy. Lucrezia Borzia wearing green gauze embroidered in pearls and gold on her wedding day was one of the exceptions.

Modern fashion authorities have suggested the delicate pinks and blues and greens, but today's bride—fortunately we say—is still old fashioned enough to prefer the ancient white.

Artist Exhibits His Work in Wall Street to Interest Bankers

New York, March 22.—(AP)—Fred Harriman Wright, whose father was an associate of Fred Harriman and Cyrus Field, broke family traditions as a young man and left Wall street to become an artist.

Today he went back to it, silver-haired, with an exhibit of his paintings, and had them hung in a financial district restaurant which has been a brokers' haunt for three generations.

"Bankers won't come up town to see paintings in times like these," said his promoters, "so we decided to take them where they would."

The exhibit, which will continue until April 4, opened with a tea and musical among the restaurant tables this afternoon.

Buttons Parade on Ensemble in Paris Fashions for Spring

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Buttons are in style for sports, practical daytime, and travel clothes this spring. Every detail of the ensemble for sports is apt to be buttoned up somewhere. Blouses button, so do coats, jackets, and skirts. This isn't all, either. In supplement to the working, utilitarian button, Paris adds buttons for decorative purposes only, out of extra good measure. Noon, however, appears to be the deadline for buttons. Afternoon and evening clothes don't have any, but up to the meridian of the day you can sport as many as you like, provided they're gracefully distributed.

The Worth sports and travel ensemble explains the Parisian use of button trimming and button fastening. In addition to this style feature, the color scheme is new and exciting. The ensemble, as you can see by consulting the accompanying sketch, consists of a suit, a blouse, and a topcoat.

All four pieces are trimmed with buttons. The long coat is made of gray flannel. It is straight line and buttons right up the front. The patch pockets are buttoned and so are the lower sleeves. The gray flannel scarf collar is banded with orange—gray with orange being a chic color scheme and brand new.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., March 22.—Mrs. John Scott, Canada's leading feminist, today entered her 78th year with ardor undimmed in the fight for women's rights in Canada. Her main objective for the immediate future, inscribed at a time when most women at her age would be reclining on arm chairs at home, is to obtain suffrage for the women of Quebec.

For years the Quebec legislature has declined to extend the vote to the women of this province, but of late there has been some progress in support of the movement.

Mrs. Scott hopes to live to achieve success in this fight. Among birthday greetings was a message of congratulations from Premier Bennett.

There's Model for Every Type of Face.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

ARE you restless, discontented and completely satiated with the stage effects of winter; do you dream of soft, spring, blue skies, pale, fragile windflowers and the first yellow-green leaves that rakishly crown all trees and bushes, or are you earth bound and daily plan spring menus when passing the green grocer shops where succulent stalks of asparagus, rosy red strawberries and tender new green vegetables are arrayed to taunt and tempt all languishing appetites.

Have you been seized with a gnawing nostalgia to wander down country lanes, beside crystal, clear running brooks and fishing streams, to listen to new spring song hits by the birds instead of the radio? Well, the only comforting part of all this mental turmoil is the knowledge that you only have the usual seasonal spring temperature, and the one sure and most satisfying cure is—new spring clothes with emphasis on new hats.

What a new hat can do for a lady in the clutches of the blues is traditional. Even the disastrous slashes of a sadly broken heart mend magically under the flattering brim of a newly purchased hat. Smart and knowing girls have spent the last sou of their week's allowance on a new hat in order to successfully wangle a raise or to cinch a new job. With a new hat tilted naughtily but nicely over her eye, the modern woman can conquer anything!

Climax for Every Costume.

This spring hats are the final and finished climax for every costume—the peak of every perfect and well planned ensemble. There's a hat for each type of dress, suit and coat, and you're just being plain stupid and unfeminine when you refuse to use your head for anything but hats that express you and the mood and manner of your dressing.

You can saunter sailor fashion down the avenue with a perfect replica of the tiny gob hats—hang them impertinently listed toward the right side of your coiffure, and with a true marine bravado dare any wind of chance to blow them off. These gob models are made in straw, silk and felt—and some that go on dress parade change their skylines with a provocative mesh veil that halts below the eyes.

Dashing Spanish sailors with short brims and a bit of net edging to correctly allure can be worn for daytime as well as evening. Felt, also straw and silk, fashion these becoming hats that can be twisted and dipped and swirled, perhaps better than any other model, to frame each individual face of the many who will wear them.

Wide Brims to Appear Soon.

And wide brims will appear very soon, some fascinating new and different models are made with felt brims and have crowns of crocheted yarn or chenille. These, of course, will be more wearable and popular when the days turn warmer. Shiny, rough straws also are made with these large open meshed crowns and it doesn't take much imagination to realize how picturesque these hats will be with flowered chiffons and sheer cottons this spring and summer.

Velvet ribbons, silk bows and bands, a few feathers and quills are still found on the best of hats. But flowers are the spring signs that bloom everywhere, especially on the most feminine creations of the year. Tiny turbans are almost covered with flowers. French models use them with fine Gallic selection and discretion.

Don't let these dull, gray days dye your mind the same shade. The thing to do is to buy a hat, the smartest, snappiest, most startling one you can find—wear it immediately and the world is yours for the taking!

That Dozy Feeling at 3 P. M. Is Usually Caused by Stale Air

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Here's a young office worker who asks why I never take up the subject of the "dozy" feeling that overcomes her and her co-workers along about 3 p. m. Also, it is likely to attack a victim in church or in a lecture hall, as "Miss R." reports from personal experience.

Air heaviness we might set down as our first suspicion. Poor ventilation with the consequent staleness of air can devitalize the most energetic.

I understand that in certain of our organizations the practise of throwing wide the windows for a few minutes reparation work is popular. In some of these, a brief exercise spell is added. And it is resented by some workers as quite outside the "rights" of the management. It shouldn't be resented, however. On the contrary, it's a grand little pick-me-up for the worker, even though the management may be thinking in terms of efficiency for its own benefit.

The great trouble with offices in the closed window seasons is the crank element infesting them. Every office has one or more persons who dread a blast of fresh, cold air. And, curiously enough, they manage, somehow, to be the pampered ones therein. The fresh air is kept out for their sakes. Any room in which a half dozen or more people are working in close proximity should be aired at least once in the morning and afternoon.

Then, too, the sort of luncheon one eats affects this problem of the listless 3 p. m. worker. A heavy meal at noon time invariably brings on an attack about midafternoon. A luncheon of soup, salad and a light dessert will not do it. But one in which a heavy starch dosage, such as sandwich and pie, say, tends to create the afternoon work blues.

The general oxygen starvation subscribed to by living in close, overheated apartments, in suffocating street car travel downtown, in hurried luncheons in stuffy restaurants all help to weaken resistance. If possible, every worker should get in a good fifteen minutes' walk at noon time to help see her through the afternoon brightly.

Benefit Card Party Raises $56 for Fund for School Lunches

A check for $56 was delivered in person to the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday by Mrs. Charles Fink, 5550 Kenmore avenue, in the name of The Renaissance. Mrs. Fink, social chairman of the organization, with Mrs. B. A. Corcoran of the Edgewater Beach hotel, as co-chairman, gave a bridge party last Friday at Mrs. Fink's home. The net proceeds were turned over to THE TRIBUNE fund. This brought yesterday's gifts to a total of $82, acknowledged as follows:

$10—A friend.
$1—Anonymous.

Total	$ 82.00
Previously acknowledged	40,512.09
Grand Total	$40,594.09

Early Lessons Often Cost a Child Dearly

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

In yesterday's article do you remember this statement made by our correspondent? "My friends have had some success in teaching their children not to touch things, but it seems to me that the child suffers."

That is an observation that expresses one of the great truths in child knowledge and guidance. A child can be taught to do almost anything, but if he is taught too early or in the wrong way he will pay too great a price nervously or physically for the lesson learned.

When a child's normal impulse is to do a thing and he is forced to block the expression of it time and again, the effect is bad. For example, in relation to the sense of touch. Little children and babies learn their world through their fingers. Deny the sense of touch and you have harmed the child.

Here's another example. A child's growth and development demand almost constant motion. Force a child to sit still, to keep quiet for long periods of time, and you are harming his nerves and delaying the development of his whole being. So much for control by blocking a natural activity.

We have another sort of control that is harmful, one which has to do with forcing activity, not blocking it. Expecting too much of a child in muscular or functional control makes him pay a price in other ways. Very little children can be made to dress themselves and button all their buttons, lace every hole in their shoes and so forth, because some one thinks it makes them independent. But frequently children are seen to be nervous or to cry easily or to be cross after the strain of these delicate coordinations of small muscles, for which they may not be quite ready naturally. Also, what one child does with ease another may do with strain. Such facts as these bear thinking about and observing.

Engaged Girls Are Busy with Wedding Plans

Set Dates and Arrange for Attendants.

WITH Lent almost over the engaged girls who are to be married this spring are busy setting the important dates and getting together their bridal parties and trousseaux, and those who aren't to walk to the altar until fall are looking a bit wistful and wishing they, too, were in the throes of making such happy and immediate plans.

Pretty Garrigue Gallagher, whose engagement to Charles Alexieff Butland of Shanghai was announced last week, has decided to become the bride of the attractive young Englishman—I suppose he would be called that, for although he was born in China his father is an ex-British naval officer—on Saturday, May 21.

Where the wedding is to take place and most of the details have not been arranged yet, but Miss Gallagher has asked Myra Little to be her maid of honor, and David Gallagher will serve his future brother-in-law as best man. David, by the way, returns from Dartmouth on Saturday of this week just in time to say "hello" and "good-by" to Mr. Butland before he departs for New York to sail on the Mauretania on Monday for a three weeks' stay in England.

Mr. Butland has been the guest of his fiancée and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael F. Gallagher of Deere Park, Highland Park, for the last ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Little and Miss Myra Little gave a dinner Monday night at their Evanston residence for Miss Gallagher, Miss Polly Hart, and Miss Ann Ashcraft and the dinner party developed into a house party, for those of the guests who lived very far away weren't able to get home because of the storm.

Miss Hart's engagement to Harold Byron Smith was announced on Feb. 29 and although her mother, Mrs. H. Stillson Hart of Barrington, tells me no definite date has been set, I understand that Polly will be a June bride.

More Plans for Weddings.

Miss Ashcraft and Raymond Otis Mitchell of Chicago, whose engagement was announced a week ago Monday, aren't planning to be married until fall. Miss Gallagher, Miss Hart, and Miss Little were debutantes of the past winter and Miss Ashcraft came out the year before.

Rue Winterbotham is planning to be married late in May or early in June to Alfred P. Shaw and Helen Stanley is another who will be married in May or June. She is engaged to Victor Elting Jr.

"Nick" Galitzine is planning to leave Friday for Pasadena, where his marriage to Miss Josephine Dennehy is to take place on Saturday, April 2, at the winter residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy.

The wedding is to be a small one, in the late afternoon, with the bride's sister, Eleanor, as maid of honor, and the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Prince Rotislav, as best man.

Princess Rotislav is undecided about whether she will be ab' to leave her business long enough to make the trip to California to see her brother wed, but they all are hoping that she will be able to, needless to say. William C. Madlener is going west with Prince Galitzine for the wedding and its attendant festivities. The Galitzines will be at home in Chicago after May 1, although the bridegroom-to-be tells me they have not decided where they will live.

Friends of Opera Fund Campaign.

Mrs. William A. Yager will be hostess today at her residence, 1430 Lake Shore drive, to the members of the Friends of Opera guarantee fund committee when they meet to report upon what they have accomplished in the last week.

The American Friends of China are having a meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Newberry library at which Berthold Laufer will speak on "Paper and Printing in Ancient China." The meeting will be held in the exhibition room on the second floor where a selection from the Chinese books belonging to the library will be shown.

The following young women, directed by Mrs. George S. Parker and her daughter, Mrs. Leonard Bridges, will act as ushers at the Maurice Hindus lecture to be given at the New Trier High school auditorium this evening under the auspices of the Winnetka Woman's club—the Misses Margot and Adelaide Atkin, Louise Conway, Louise Fentress, Louise and Antoinette Lackner, Lucie Jacobs, Evelyn Bouscaren, Marcelle Vennema, Joyce Whitman, and Lois Truesdale.

Woman's Club to Hear Dawes

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes will be luncheon guests of the Chicago Woman's club next Wednesday preceding a talk by Mr. Dawes at the club president's program.

The Lake Shore League of Women Voters will hold a luncheon meeting on Thursday, March 31, at 12:30 o'clock at the Fort[illegible]tly to discuss "Why Are the Primaries Important?" Miss Paula Wilms is in charge of reservations.

Young Leonore Cudahy, the 8 year old daughter of the Edward I. Cudahys, and Robert Cudahy, her 11 year old brother, are entering their saddle horses in the Illinois spring horse show to be given April 1, 2, and 3, in the International amphitheater for the benefit of the Joint Emergency Relief fund.

The horse show committee reports that every mail is bringing in more entries and inquiries for boxes and that all signs point to a very successful show. Teams from the Riding club, the 124th Field Artillery, Fort Sheridan, and Milwaukee are to play polo at each performance. W. P. Saunders, O. W. Lehmann, Carleton L. Elmes, Raymond T. Smith, John R. Thompson Jr., A. H. Pendleton, F. J.

Powys Reaches Romance Goal in New Novel

"A Glastonbury Romance," by John Cowper Powys. [Simon & Schuster.] Published tomorrow.

ON the publication of his fourth novel, "Wolf Solent," in 1929 John Cowper Powys was acclaimed a genius both here and abroad. His talents were compared with Shakespeare's, Proust's and Hardy's. "A Glastonbury Romance" follows in the tradition artistically and philosophically of "Wolf Solent."

JOHN COWPER POWYS.

Five years ago John Cowper Powys wrote this department in the form of a letter of confession about the book he would rather have written than any other. "I would willingly sign my name to any book that had a sardonic philosophy, fantastic, mellow, whimsical characters, and large imaginative effects of nature. For these things I would be ready to sacrifice style, to endure chaotic confusion and to put up with enormous ramblings and digressions. In fact, I want something sufficiently like life not to be obviously false; but sufficiently unlike life to have that quality at which nature herself seems always blindly aiming, the quality, in plain words, of being more real than reality." In "A Glastonbury Romance" Powys has actually attained that ideal.

As a background Powys has selected Glastonbury, which is so intimately connected with the mysterious legend of the Holy Grail. Despite the presentation of innumerable characters, the vivid description of events and the continuous and ever increasing emotional and psychic floods between the participants in this titanic drama, the spirit of Glastonbury itself seems always to hover over the story.

The town and the countryside touched with Powys' magic realism and fantasy become a person, the Glastonbury heroine, who has human attributes of feeling and thinking and acting. Over Glastonbury and her soul evil and good clash, the ideal and the material struggle. She is buffeted by fate and chance but she maintains a strange aloofness and an inner strength and integrity because she has been chosen by some mysterious force to preserve and cherish the symbol of the Holy Grail.

This book is a great panorama of life, a cross section of humanity. It would be impossible to give an adequate impression of the richness and complexity of this canvas. There are hundreds of characters who enter, sometimes upset the apple cart, and disappear from the stage of life. There is John Crow, a wanderer, with a perverse skepticism that is the other side of intense mystical intuition, a vicious and a kind person, a fascinating reality. There is Geard, a strange demon or god who holds the fate of Glastonbury in his hands, repulsive and compelling, sensual and psychic, who seeks eagerly his weird doom. Sam, who has seen a vision of the Grail, and who purifies himself only to realize too late that his sort of purification is not the answer to the message of the Grail. Philip Crow, the warring spirit of Glastonbury, a symbol of the industrial and materialistic, who is selfish and egotistic.

Owen Evans, the husband of the love-starved Cordelia, labors under the pressure of his horrible and unspeakable vice. And there are Tossie, Tom Barter, Mad Bet, Nell Zoyland, and her swashbuckling, evil husband, Persephone, who has never learned the secret of loneliness; Mat Dekker, the priest; David Spear, Tilly and Red Robinson. They all represent some aspect of human conduct and fit into the elaborate symbolism of the novel. There are storms and floods, murders and suicides, deaths and births, hatreds and rivalries, loves and lusts, illusions and disillusionments, everything, in fact, that goes to make up the cruel, perverse, impassioned, and intense thing we call living.

Strain of Beauty Runs Through Book.

Running through this dark symphony there is a beautiful and ecstatic strain of beauty, hope, mysticism, faith that is the hidden and the revealed counterpoint. Some readers, pyschically inclined, will discover significant truths in every chapter; others searching for the symbolism of the Grail will find a solution to their personal riddle.

"A Glastonbury Romance," despite its length, 1,174 pages, not each of which sustains the interest of the reader, with its stupendous full blooded romanticism, its incredibly rich and real substance, its marvelous creation of characters that live in the mind and the imagination of the reader, its thrilling transposition of the moods and essences of nature, its magnificent style that sweeps and soars, screams and moans, sighs and weeps like the voice of life itself, will be, if not the greatest, at least one of the most memorable books of the year.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

Here is another of those attractive morning dresses. The deep open V with the vest of contrasting color narrows the bodice breadth becomingly. The bias skirt lines help diminish the hip width, while the short sleeves with cuffs of a contrasting color are both comfortable and good looking.

The pattern, 2611, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ of a yard of 35 inch contrasting and 3½ yards of binding.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Mrs. Walter P. Chrysler, Walter P. Chrysler Jr., John F. Chrysler, and Miss Betty Schuster sailed today on the Monarch of Bermuda for Bermuda. They will return in three weeks.

Mrs. Amos Tuck French of Tuxedo Park has joined Mrs. Louis A. Frothingham of Boston at the Hotel Pierre.

Miss Madeline Randall Blackburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Blackburn, will be married to George Clymer Brooke, son of Mrs. Trenchard Newbold of Philadelphia and the late George C. Brooke, in the Grace church on March 30.

Mrs. Clarence Dillon and Miss Dorothy A. Dillon, who went to California by way of the Panama canal on the California, are at Coronado Beach, where they will remain sometime before motoring up the coast to San Francisco.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover was the guest of honor at luncheon today of Mrs. Adams, wife of the secretary of the navy, whose other guests included Mrs. Stimson, who returned from New York this morning with the secretary; Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Wilbur, Mrs. Hyde, Mrs. Lamont, Mrs. Doak, and Miss Alice Lovering, sister of the hostess. After the luncheon Mrs. Hoover and the others in the company accompanied Mrs. Hyde, wife of the secretary of agriculture, to the amaryllis show which that department is holding in the hothouses on the Mall.

The Swiss minister and Mme. Peter were hosts to a company of 18 at dinner tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning Jr., the latter formerly Miss Margo Couzens, daughter of Senator and Mrs. James Couzens of Michigan, have purchased a country home near Mount Vernon. The place is on the Potomac river, and is said to be a portion of the original Mount Vernon estate. They will name the place Little Wabeek, Wabeek being Indian for "best place," and the name of Senator and Mrs. Couzens' home at Grosse Point, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Chewning will go in for breeding and training horses for hunting and racing, and will occupy the house as a summer home. Their start is three 2 year old thoroughbreds, Sir Catalan, Margo C., and Westacon, registered with the Jockey Club of America.

Miss Ethel Barrymore Colt is spending the week with Miss Peggy Walsh in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Walsh, in Chevy Chase. Miss Walsh was hostess at luncheon for Miss Colt today.

Sale to Royal Family Means British Success

English Rush to Follow Styles of Queen.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 22.—Mythological magic which enabled King Midas to change each object he touched to gold can become modern fact.

Behind the bare announcement that either King George or Queen Mary has bought a certain article there come in successive waves widespread demand for the same product, a deluge of orders, increased production at factories, employment for additional workers, and more business all around for everybody.

The shopping centers of London are filled with carvings of the royal arms over doorways, with beneath in small gold lettering, "By Appointment to H. M. The King" or the Queen, as the case may be. Appointment to supply the Prince of Wales is coveted almost as much. Even Princess Elizabeth, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York who will be six next month is closely watched, for she sets styles for other youngsters of her age.

Queen Mary is the most active shopper in the royal family, and exhibitors at the recent British Industries Fair say her touch is truly golden. The fair is held yearly in London and Birmingham to advertise British products and display them to foreign buyers. The queen visited the fair almost every day, and each time she bought something. The effect was miraculous, and almost instantaneous.

A Lancashire textile firm had evolved a special fabric for the fair which it was turning out at the rate of about $1,500 worth an hour. The queen noticed the material as she passed the concern's booth, stopped to examine it and purchased a small quantity. Within three days the factory was working at twice its previous rate of production, with orders coming from all directions.

Color fashions for the summer have been revolutionized by the queen. Designers had intended the predominating colors to be green, emrald and ruby red. A "run" on emeralds and burgundies was expected. In her visits to the fair exhibits the queen showed a preference for blues, pinks and beiges. These will now be the fashionable colors.

One firm immediately received orders for 70,000 pieces of casement cloth after the queen had admired it.

Beyond grants of royal warrants allowing merchants to advertise that they are purveyors to the ruling family by appointment, no publicity whatever is given to the preference of the king, the queen or any other member of royalty. But word quickly spreads through the trade, and every one else who can soon follows.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Lacks Clothes to Seek Job.

"I have been out of work for a long time and we are simply destitute. My family all need clothing and we have no way of getting it unless you can help us. I want an overcoat, size 40, and shirts, size 15½, and we all need shoes. My three children are boys, aged 8, 11, and 19 years. O. J."

To have to hunt for work each day when one hasn't sufficient clothing to ward off the cold is no enviable situation. Can't you relieve this man's suffering by giving warm garments to him and his family?

Offers Clock That Strikes.

"I have a striking clock which I should like to give to the woman who asked for one recently in your column. If she has already been supplied, perhaps some one else would like to have it. MRS. M. W."

The elderly woman to whom this clock is offered has received one from another generous reader. Is there some one else with the same need? We'll be glad to hear from you if you want a clock which strikes the hours.

"CLEAN those Lips...or... we DON'T GO!"

"JUST think—Jack breaking out like that and the Briggs waiting right there! I nearly died of shame . . . but when I looked in the glass—my lips did look painted."

That painted look is one thing men simply cannot stand! You don't notice it—but others do. Colors you have grown used to look cheap and tawdry to your friends.

End painted lips! Forget your present lipstick. When you make up, Tangee your lips.

Tangee can't make you look painted. It isn't paint. It's a new discovery that changes on your lips to the color that looks best on you!

Tangee is permanent. Its cold cream base sinks into the pores. It won't cake or chap.

Get Tangee at your druggist or cosmetic counter. For Miracle Make Up Set, containing purse-size samples of Tangee Lipstick and Rouge send 10c to Geo. W. Luft Co., Dept. T212, 417 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y.

Cheeks Mustn't Look Painted!
Tangee Rouge changes on the cheeks—just the way Tangee changes on your lips. It gives the color most becoming to you. Tangee Rouge keeps your cheeks from looking painted. When you get Tangee Lipstick, ask for Tangee Rouge.

If you are one who relishes sea food, you will want to take advantage of the short period left for us to serve oysters. Oysters are agreeable edibles, but about the latter part of April they huff their shoulders and walk out on us until next September. Canned oysters are, however, with us the year round, and if you can't have the fresh ones the canned are a tasty substitute.

For the entrée on tomorrow's dinner we have an oyster noodle loaf which will serve six people. In the event that you have a smaller family it can be served for luncheon the following day. You will need one four ounce package of noodles, one-half pint of oysters, three eggs, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, and three-fourths of a cup of milk.

Cook the noodles in boiling salted water for fifteen minutes and then drain. Combine them with the beaten eggs, milk, and oysters. Season. Butter a pan and sift fine bread crumbs over the bottom or dust it with flour. Pour in the noodle mixture. Set the pan in another pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for about forty-five minutes. Unmold on a hot platter and slice. On each slice place a hard-cooked egg cut in halves, lengthwise, and mask the whole with a rich white sauce. Garnish with parsley or cress and flecks of paprika.

It's the fashion this year to serve fish with fish sauces or fish stuffings. Yesterday we suggested a baked haddock with a crabmeat stuffing which we feel sure you will want for your files.

Buy a medium-sized haddock and clean it thoroughly. Rub it, inside and out, with salt, and set aside. Make a stuffing, using the following recipe:

HADDOCK STUFFING.

1 cup of crabmeat
1 tbsp. of minced onion
2 tbsps. of minced green pepper
1 cup of finely chopped celery
1 egg, beaten
1 tsp. of salt
¼ tsp. of pepper
1 tbsp. of melted butter
½ cup of bread crumbs

Combine the ingredients thoroughly in the order given. Fill the haddock with the stuffing and either sew it together or fasten the fish with toothpicks. Roll the fish in flour and place it in a buttered pan. Bake for one hour in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.]. Serve with roasted brown potatoes and brown sauce if preferred.

While we are on the subject of fish we have another salmon loaf to offer you. Hope you like this as well as the last one, and may we say many thanks for your comments?

SALMON LOAF WITH CRACKERS

3 cups of flaked salmon
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tbsp. of chopped parsley
1 tbsp. of minced onion
2 tbsps. of lemon juice
1 tsp. of prepared mustard
14 large soda crackers [crushed]
1 cup of milk
Salt and pepper seasoning
2 tbsps. of melted butter

Flake the salmon with a fork and remove all skin and large bones. Add the other ingredients in the order named. Put into a greased bread pan and bake in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.] for thirty to forty minutes. Serve with an egg sauce made with one cup of medium white sauce and one chopped hard-cooked egg. [This is a large loaf and will serve seven to eight people.]

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetables compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They help bring about the natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Original Eastern Star Lodge to Hold Anniversary Fete

Coldwater, Mich., March 22.—[Special.]—The oldest Eastern Star chapter in the world, Coldwater chapter, No. 1, will observe it's 65th anniversary Friday.

A preliminary meeting to organize an Eastern Star lodge of the American Adoptive Rites was called at the Masonic temple here April 18, 1867, by David Bovee, then master of Tyre lodge, No. 18, F. & A. M.

With the chapter granted the actual being of O. E. S., No. 1, came about when the organization held its first official meeting and elected officers.

In connection with the aniversary program honor will be paid Mrs. Ella N. Culver, who became a member Feb. 25, 1870, and who served in the capacity of secretary for 17 years and who missed only three meetings during that period.

PARIS VISITORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 22.—Annie Dunlop, Miss Simpson Dunlop, and Emily J. Riddeford of Oak Park; Miss Zairah J. Roe, Mrs. E. H. Williams of Los Angeles; Mrs. G. R. Watt, and Miss Jean Wat of Hinsdale, Ill.; Mrs. Ida K. Farber of Chicago, and C. H. Adams of Oberlin, O., registered today at the Paris office of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Lady Patricia Wellesley Arrives for Visit in U. S.

New York, March 22.—(AP)—Lady Patricia Wellesley, 14, descendant of one of the duke of Wellington's brothers, arrived with her mother, the Countess Cowley, on the Mauretania today, on her first visit to America. They will visit friends in Richmond, Va. The countess before her marriage in New York, 18 years ago, was the former Mae Pickard of the Virginia city.

Mrs. Valentine Is Improving.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine's family and friends are delighted with the daily reports from Passavant hospital about her improving health. She is convalescing most satisfactorily, but it will be some time before her physicians permit her to return to her Lake Shore drive residence.

Miss Mildred Wetten, who went to Chandler, Ariz., several weeks ago with Mrs. Bennet Harvey, returned on Sunday. Mrs. Harvey is still in the southwest.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings and her daughter, Miss Edith Cummings, left yesterday for a three weeks' visit with the Albert B. Dicks aboard the Chieftain in Florida waters.

Mrs. John A. Spoor is leaving Friday for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Thornhill Broome and her family, at Pass Christian, Miss.

The Charles W. Dempsters will be at home in about a fortnight from Phoenix where they went about a month ago.

News Notes From Miami.

From Miami come these bits about Chicagoans who are missing our "spring" weather—Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Poor entertained fifty guests at a sunset tea Sunday at the Indian Creek club for their house guest, Mrs. Frank G. Mason of Chicago. This club, by the way, must be the last word in elegance and grandeur from all I've heard and read about it. The Sheldon Clarks are stopping at the Flamingo hotel; Mr. and Mrs. Philip B. Hosmer and Mrs. Hosmer's sister, Mrs. James Simpson, are at the Pancoast.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Mills are cruising in their yacht Monoco on the coast of Florida for several weeks while their new apartment at 219 Lake Shore drive is being made ready for occupancy. They formerly resided at the Ambassador East.

Plan to Observe Total Eclipse of Sun on August 31

Delaware, O., March 22.—(AP)—The total eclipse of the sun on Aug. 31, which will be the last one visible in the United States until 1979, will be observed by a joint expedition from the Perkins observatory of Ohio Wesleyan university and the Warner and Swasey observatory of the Case School of Applied Science, it was announced today.

The August eclipse, during which the moon will shadow the sun completely, will last less than 60 seconds. Partial phases, however, will last for about two hours, starting at 2:30 eastern standard time.

World Pays Homage to Goethe at Ceremony Held at Tomb

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WEIMAR, Germany, March 22.—Pylons flamed and smoked against the murky sky as statesmen, diplomats, princes, politicians, men of science and letters assembled at Weimar this morning to commemorate the centenary of Goethe's death.

At the hour at which a hundred years ago Wolfgang von Goethe began to close his eyes to the world, church bells of all Weimar and the whole of Germany began tolling. Outside the vault of the princes of Saxe-Weimar emissaries from all parts of the world congregated. Weimar schoolboys in their bright caps helped the officials carry wreaths, and laurels, and palm branches decorated with the colors of all nations while the sun suddenly breaking through added to the splendor of the scene.

At the door of the vault where Goethe and Fredrich von Schiller rest in simple oak coffins stood the Grandduchess Feodora, the widow of a descendant of the old prince who was the friend and protector of Goethe. Beside her stood Heinrich Bruening, chancellor of the German republic which dethroned her family. In a low but clear voice, which seemed accustomed to command, the widow of the late grand duke of Saxe-Weimar spoke the words "Open the vault." With the chancellor she stepped to Goethe's bust inside the vault and deposited a wreath for her family, then descended from the crypt.

President Paul von Hindenburg's wreath was placed next. The Russian ambassador and the French ambassador followed. They held precedence today because their predecessors had been at Goethe's funeral a hundred years ago.

In the background were the ex-crown prince, the ex-crown princess, and a score of other princes.

To commemorate the celebration the German government had made 55 silver medals which Von Hindenburg presented not only to artists and Goethe scholars but also to two members of his own cabinet, Herr Bruening and Price Dictator Dr. Goerdler. Foreigners who received the medal included Carl Schreiber, Yale university; E. Litchtenberger of Paris, John G. Robertson of London, and Prof. Farinelli of Rome.

Milstein Plays with Stock; Proves Self Superviolinist

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Apart from being the victim in a tale of burglary, not a great deal was known about Nathan Milstein before 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the time that he walked upon the stage of Orchestra hall to be the soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. About thirty-five minutes later he was a valued acquaintance. A few more trips of the sort and he will be a famous character.

He is something of a superviolinist. In this age where it is next to impossible to find a bad violinist on the concert platform he occupies a foremost position in the front rank. His tone is charming beyond all telling, his technique is not a glitter but a flame, and he uses both tone and technique to project an interpretation that has all the high spirits in the world.

It was Carl Goldmark's Concerto in A minor with which he chose to introduce himself, a piece so seldom played that there was some alarm in the statement of the program that the last movement would take thirty minutes to play. This would seem to be a typographical error, but if it had been correct Mr. Milstein would have been the chosen one to play a movement of that length without inducing boredom. He has, as they say in the best of musical circles, everything which means that all future interpreters of the Goldmark concerto will have a high target at which to aim.

It is hardly necessary to add that the audience approved him enthusiastically and at length. There was so much applause at the end of the first section that he had time to tune his violin between bows and for Mr. Stock to step into the ranks of the orchestra and give some directions to the men. At the end of the work the audience simply declined to get up and leave, and Mr. Milstein played two encores. Mr. Milstein is one of those astounding young men upon whom will rest the responsibility for interest in music in future seasons.

There was another glory on the program. It was Mr. Stock's performance of Brahms' Third symphony. If Schumann's "Manfred" overture, with which the program began, was less glorious, it was because Schumann wrote music less glorious than Brahms. The symphony, however, was ideal, something to give all the Brahmins of all ages reason for their devotion. Incidentally, there will be another Brahms symphony, the Second, on the concerts of Thursday and Friday.

Germans Place Wreath at Goethe Memorial

The hundredth anniversary of the death of Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, German poet, was observed yesterday by the Schwabenverein, a German-American society. Directors of the society laid a wreath at the foot of the Goethe memorial in Lincoln park and conducted a brief ceremonial service.

"SHE visited my sister, and I wished then I could give her a hint. She wears her underthings two or three days without a change! Everybody perspires a little—imagine thinking she can get by!"

IN SO MANY OFFICES there are clever girls who do not realize that one thing alone holds them back. Offices are warm, we all perspire, and underthings absorb these perspiration acids and odors. Others notice this offense before you do yourself.

That's why it is vital to put on fresh lingerie each day. More necessary than the daily bath!

And it is so easy! For Lux is made to remove perspiration acids and odors completely, yet it saves colors and fabrics. And it takes only 4 minutes, or less. Play safe—Lux underthings and stockings after every wearing. This protects daintiness—and it actually keeps them new far longer.

Avoid Offending

1 Wash this 4-minute way: one tablespoon of Lux does one day's undies . . . stockings, too! Use lukewarm water—Lux dissolves instantly in it. Squeeze suds through garment, rinse twice.
2 Wash after each wearing, for perspiration acids left in silk fade colors and rot threads.

Pardon Us While We Cut Ourselves a Piece of Cake

Just one year ago today we opened this new section. We had a hunch that the "younger set" would rather have lots of shoes and pay less for them than a few pairs of higher priced shoes.

We had the right hunch, because the "younger set" have been teeming into our Moderately Priced Shoe Section from the very first day.

So We're Celebrating Our First Birthday with an

Easter Shoe Hunt

"Younger Set"

Ready for Easter

But this hunt is really paradoxical, because without hunting at all the "younger set" find just the shoes they've been looking for, to add the last word in chic to their new Easter costumes.

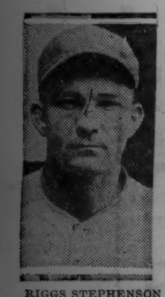
BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., March 22.—The brisk, chilly winds that make things uncomfortable hereabouts were not enough to handicap Charley Root today in his first nine inning stretch of the preseason campaign. The winds whistled, the dust flew, and a few hundred spectators kept their head spulled down beneath their overcoat collars, but Root pitched without apparent annoyance, the Cubs whipping the Seals by the respectable score of 3 to 1.



RIGGS STEPHENSON

The Seals, made up of a collection of funny names, some of which may be palmed off later on unsuspecting major league owners, nicked Root's fast balling for half a dozen hits. About half of them were not exactly robust. For the first five innings the star of the Cub pitching staff conducted the party so well in his own behalf that the enemy collected only one single. Then, either because he felt his lead was sufficient or because he tired slightly, he was dented for five hits in three successive innings. One of these was by a pinch batter, who assisted in getting across the Seals' lone run.

Extra Base Hits Help.

The Cubs themselves weren't any knockouts as hitters against a pair of one time big league pitchers, but they did bunch them and also hit for extra bases. In this particular old man Riggs Stephenson was a team in himself. He hit two doubles while Claude Willoughby was pitching the first six innings and produced another of the same length during the limited reign of Elmer Jacobs. Two of Stevie's two baggers were promoted into runs. The other tally was the work of the kid infielders, Stanley Hack and Billy Herman.

Except for a single to right by Hack, the Cubs caused Willoughby, an ex-Philly, no concern in the first inning. In the second they were a bit more strenuous in their attack, one run resulting. Stephenson crashed a double down the right field foul line and dived to third on English's infield out and home on a single straight over second by H. Taylor.

Another Cub slipped over the plate in the third. Hack made three bases on a drive to the right field barrier and Herman scored him with a single over the infield.

After the third the Cubs ran into some decidedly lean innings. Nobody could solve Willoughby for a hit in the fourth. It was the same in the fifth. But the sixth was a bit better. With one out Stephenson doubled to left center. He dashed to third on English's out. The fourth ball to H. Taylor was a wild pitch, and while the catcher was back at the stand retrieving the loose ball Stephenson sneaked home. A line drive by Hemsley to the shortstop concluded the inning.

Finally Score on Root.

Root had a big time for himself during the first five sessions. In the fourth Frazier singled and in the fifth Galan walked. These were the only players to reach base. The sixth was more profitable for the Seals. Donovan, batting for Willoughby, looped a single into short center. Root fanned Garibaldi, but walked Frazier. Sulik then punched a hit through short to score Donovan. Root promptly called a halt to the gayety by inducing the next two batters to pop out.

Root had another little job on his hands in the seventh, but he handled it flawlessly. Galan opened with a slow single to Herman. Chamberlain was set down on strikes, but Ward aimed a one base wallop over third. Jacobs resorted to safety first by sacrificing, and Root then ended the inning by getting Garibaldi on strikes.

THE GUMPS—SUCH A BUSINESS

POOR MILLIE— NO WONDER HER NERVES WERE SHAKEN— YESTERDAY SHE TOLD COHERENTLY THE STORY OF HER ESCAPE FROM A WATERY GRAVE—
IT SENT THE BLOOD CURDLING THROUGH THEIR VEINS AS HER MOTHER AND BIM LISTENED TO HER ACCOUNT OF HOW SHE FELT HERSELF SINKING WHEN A PAIR OF STRONG ARMS GRABBED HER—
SHE WAS DRAGGED INTO A BOAT THAT TURNED OUT TO BE A TRAMP STEAMER WITH A VERY ROUGH CAPTAIN WHOM SHE FEARED— SHE FINALLY MADE HER ESCAPE BY JUMPING OVERBOARD STRAPPED TO TWO LIFE PRESERVERS—

IT'S FABER'S TURN TO PITCH AS SOX END CAMP STAY

After Game Today Squad Starts North.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 22.—Game No. 4 of the Chicago White Sox series of spring buildups is to be played tomorrow against the San Antonio Indians—the last contest to be fought at the Chicagoans' 1932 training base.

The plan is to give Red Faber his first pitching assignment of the season. When Red takes his position tomorrow he will have launched his 25th season in organized baseball and his 19th season with the White Sox. This, of course, will be a pretty big event and is expected to hurt the attendance at the Alamo, where history bugs congregate daily. The Alamo fans are putting up a game fight, however, claiming their attraction is even older than Red.

Faber Is a Wise Fellow.

It is not likely that Red will exert himself unduly tomorrow and he may even decide not to work at all. Faber has proved for years that he knows more about conditioning than 99 per cent of the men in baseball, and Manager Fonseca is not a man who would insist upon a debut unless Red felt ready to go.

Last year Faber's stuff was adjudged hotter than it had been for nine years, a claim on which the Cubs can give testimony inasmuch as the old boy gave them two severe lickings in the city series. Red's improvement last year was said to have resulted from the fact that it was necessary for him to work oftener than had been his wont for several years. For many seasons the veteran had been pampered with rests much longer than he needed.

In 1931 Faber worked in 44 ball games, more than he has worked in any season since he participated in 50 in 1915, his second year with the White Sox.

In 1921, when he won 25 victories, he appeared in 43 contests and the following year, when he won 21 games, he again was in 43 contests. In 1927 Red participated in only 18 games. In 1931 he was in 15 more battles than in 1930.

Lyons May Start Out, Too.

So this spring Mr. Faber has been preparing himself with even more caution than usual, with a view of again shortening the layoffs between mound appearances.

Ted Lyons also may get his first call tomorrow. Ted's injury in an exhibition game against the Giants last spring caused him to drop from a record of 22 victories in 1930 to four wins last year and, while he showed evidence of complete recovery last season and has felt no recurrence of his shoulder trouble this spring, Manager Fonseca has insisted upon a deliberate training program for the ultra active young Louisianan. Incidentally Lyons' injury while bearing down against the Giants is given as one of the principal reasons for the pushover exhibition schedule arranged for the White Sox this year.

The Sox will spend Thursday packing their satchels for the breaking up of camp and on Friday and Saturday will battle Fort Worth. Easter and the day after—Dallas.

Manager Fonseca today brandished his ax for the first time. Clyde Bower, former House of David infielder, was sent to Knoxville and John Rosette was given car fare to his home in Toledo.

Bissonette Operated On for Torn Tendon in Leg

New York, March 22.—(AP)—Del Bissonette, first baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers and the champion "hard luck man" of baseball, went on the operating table again today. Bissonette's trouble this time was a torn tendon in his left leg. In the last few years he also has been operated on for sinus trouble, mastoid trouble and a shoulder injury. He may not be ready to play ball for eight weeks.

HITCH-HIKER PUTS HITCH IN TURF FRAUD

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 22.—One of the most charming stories of skullduggery on the race track in recent years is related by Evander Phocian Howard, the editor and proprietor of the only trade paper in the United States frankly devoted to the preservation and uplift of the faro, craps and allied industries.

Mr. Howard, an extraordinary character, who wears suits of purple plaid, white hats and red shirts, and collars and ties with ruby studs, has had an interview with one Paddy Barrie, a Scotchman, which fills in all the blanks in the routine news stories out of Florida when the equine faker, Aknahton, dyed to a false color, ran as a horse called Gallmont and broke down, losing the race.

It may be remembered that Aknahton was then impounded, identified as a ringer and ruled off the turf forever along with his owners and five other steeds belonging to them. Last fall, in Maryland, Aknahton ran as a horse named Shem and won his race. Naturally, then, there was some curiosity as to whether and how many times Aknahton had been run as other horses and where.

Mr. Howard Is Thorough.

Mr. Howard rounds up the piece very nicely, where my colleagues, the regular Florida correspondents, only hit it a faint lick and let it alone. The interview, the first detailed story of a series of exploits fit to be made into literature, is published in Mr. Howard's New York Press, an intimate little journal read by all faro, crap and roulette dealers and handbook men, who prefer to call it The Family Journal or The Fireside Companion.

"The master mind behind the ringing, Paddie Barrie," says Mr. Howard, "is a Scotchman, an ex-jockey of the English steeplechases who has ridden in two Grand Nationals.

"He helped me punish a few bottles of that good old Dressler [a malt beverage, Ed.] in my rooms while he unfolded the story of the ringing.

"'Had I told the jockey to get off and take the track, I believe Aknahton would have opened up a big lead and, coasting out in front, might not have bowed,' he said. 'But I didn't want the horse to win too far off as we had something else in view later. So the horse was fighting for his head and he bowed. The Miami track is very hard and the horse had been there only a few days. We hadn't had an opportunity of doing much with him except in the dead of night and I noticed that he had a little knock when I put the bandages on him.'

A Hitch Hiker Squawked.

"Aknahton had been rung twice as Gallmont at Agua Caliente about five weeks before he was shipped to Miami. Barrie told me himself that Gallmont was Aknahton. Gallmont has never left the state of Maryland.

"'When we rung Aknahton as Shem at Havre de Grace last fall,' Barrie said, 'I shipped the horse back to Jamaica, then sent him to Crown Point, Ind., where Capt. Duhain and the Pinkertons located him. But I gave a certain police official there $500 and when the Pinkertons came to photograph the horse he was on his way back east. They never saw him again until Hialeah. I had Aknahton on the Pimlico track for a couple of stiff workouts after the Havre de Grace thing as we were getting ready for a spot. After the Pinkertons lost the scent, we shipped the horse west again, landing at Caliente.

"'And I wouldn't be in trouble now if I hadn't done an act of kindness. En route from Caliente, about a thousand miles out, I picked up a hiker who said he wanted to come to Miami. He hadn't been in town more than two or three days before he got pinched for sneezing a watch. He told the police he came here in a certain automobile with a horseman. Well, the Pinkertons had an old picture of me taken in England when I was sentenced for ringing a horse. So I got trapped going into the garage to get my car where this bum told the police I had it planted.

It's Soft, but Tricky.

"'It is the softest thing in the world to ring a horse,' Barrie said, tipping over another bottle of malt beverage. 'But it is a racket just like anything else and you have got to make a study of it. You must be a practical horseman and you must know the markings of the horse so the ringer can be made up accordingly. It costs about $100 to dye a horse and get him in shape for his race, but it is no business for a sap.

"'That is all rubbish about the dye sweating off a horse. Why, look here. See this spot on this $60 suit. That is dye, and I have had that suit cleaned twice. There is no chance of getting it off. Before you put the dye on the horse it is necessary to sweat him and dry him out so the dye will take. But, I repeat, it is no work for a sap.

"'I will tell you a funny one,' continued the old master. 'I was bringing a horse named Roll Call out of Chicago a few years ago, getting ready to drop him at Hagerstown. The horse was boxed off in a corner of the baggage car and there were three coffins in the car. I lay down on one of these coffins, pulled my blankets over me, bid good night to the Roll Call and went to sleep

There's No Law.

"'Next morning we got into Hagerstown and the track people asked me for papers on the horse, which is customary with a one horse stable. While I am trying to convince them of the horse's identity, I hear they needed some horses down at Wheeling, where there were some extra inducements. So I shipped on down there. Now I am not going to tell you anything more about The Roll Call.

"'There's no criminal law in America against ringing a horse. I'm not beating anybody but a lot of chiseling bookmakers and they'd ought to be beat.

"Barrie is headed for New York now and I don't believe he would be averse to making a dollar in his racket," Mr. Howard concludes. "So, while the Pinkertons may think he is a dead cock in the pit, I wouldn't be surprised to see him bob up with another ringer any day."

I wish Mr. Howard had opened one more bottle of malt beverage just at that point where Mr. Barrie was about to tell the story of The Roll Call but choked up.

If Sande Can Lose 10 Lbs., He'll Ride for Wright Stable

BY FRENCH LANE.

If Jockey Earl Sande is successful in removing some ten pounds, which will put him down to weight, he will most likely be the contract rider for Warren Wright of Chicago, who for the last year has been assembling a formidable racing stable.

EARL SANDE.

Reports from Florida, where Sande is in training, are that he most likely will make the grade and that by April 15, when the racing season opens in New York, he will be able to make 114 pounds.

Wright owns the famous Calumet farm in Kentucky, but the horses he will race during the early part of this season are at Belmont Park in New York under the care of Trainer Bill Knapp. Knapp also conditions the horses which race for Mrs. John Hertz of Chicago.

The Wright thoroughbreds for the most part are youngsters, a number of which he purchased at the dispersal sale of Harry Sinclair's Rancocas stable last fall. He also bought a number of royally bred 2 year olds at the Saratoga auctions.

Otto W. Lehmann, president of the Arlington Park Jockey club, will send his horses to the ancient Kentucky Association track in Lexington for their spring training. They will leave within the next few days and will races through the spring meetings at Lexington and Churchill Downs in Kentucky. They will then be returned to Chicago for the remainder of the season.

Trainer Pinch will take eight horses to Lexington, including the 3 year olds Orphan Prince, Chesney, and Subtlety and the 2 year olds Fate's Fancy, Her Elegante, Seamonde, May Rille, and Last Coot.

There will be a sure enough sign of spring for the race followers and the railbirds at the Aurora race course this morning.

At about 10 o'clock a train will roll in from New Orleans and some 60 horses, the first to reach the Chicago racing scene this year, will step off the cars.

SHAMROCKS' TWO GOALS IN THIRD PERIOD WIN, 2 TO 1

Five Man Attack Sweeps Duluth Series.

Duluth, Minn., March 22.—[Special.]—The Chicago Shamrocks and Duluth wound up the American Hockey league schedule tonight in one of the most thrilling games of the season, the Shamrocks winning, 2 to 1, to sweep the two game series.

There was nothing at stake, as both clubs had clinched their respective playoff positions. For two periods the Hornets dominated the play and only the spectacular goal tending of Mike Karakas prevented a larger score.

Stuart Scores First.

Duluth took an early lead, when Red Stuart, on a solo rush the length of the ice, crashed the Chicago defense, drew out Karakas, and scored in the corner of the net. The Hornets were unable to add to this lead, but drove inside the Shamrock defense repeatedly.

Early in the final period Bergl was sent off for tripping and the Shamrocks sent five men down to the attack. With five men swarming about the Duluth cage, Clayton passed out to Buswell, who slammed the puck home. Within the next two minutes Bergl came back on, but Merrill followed to the penalty box almost immediately. The Shamrocks again sent five men down and made a similar play to score, Riley taking Prelesnik's pass for the winning goal.

Police Stop Fight.

A few moments later Prelesnik drove Scott into the boards and sent him spinning over the ice. Scott rose and tore after Tony with gloved fists. They rolled to the ice and a general melee ensued, until the police intervened. Prelesnik drew a major and minor and Scott a major. Lineup:

TULSA LOSES TO KANSAS CITY IN HOCKEY FINAL, 3-0

Kansas City, Mo., March 22.—(AP)—The Kansas City Pla-Mors shut out Tulsa, 3-0, here tonight in the final American league hockey game of the season between the two teams. By blanking the Oilers, Porky Levine, Kansas City goalie, equaled a record of 17 shutouts a season claimed by Pat Byrne, former Pla-Mor net tender, who played for Tulsa tonight.

Army and Notre Dame Meet on Track May 28

West Point, N. Y., March 22.—(AP)—The Army's track team will engage in five dual meets in addition to the Penn relays this spring. The schedule: April 23, Boston college; April 30, Penn relays at Philadelphia; May 7, Holy Cross; May 14, West Virginia; May 21, Penn State; May 28, Notre Dame at South Bend.

Des Moines, Ia., Guard to Lead Drake Grid Team

In the WAKE of the NEWS

TAX SOURCES.

WE all read of the many arguments and great difficulty of balancing the federal budget. Well, the eminent statesmen at Washington, if any, have not asked our advice, but if they did we could balance it for them in two shakes, so to speak. It's simple and it's easy. Our two sources of revenue would be a tax on beer and light wines and a national lottery.

The first of these suggestions already has been offered in congress and rejected. It comes under the controversial wet and dry issue. You are familiar with those arguments. Our other suggestion likewise might rouse some prejudices. What are prejudices in times like these?

The Wake assumes we are going to be taxed more because the eminent statesmen at Washington, if any, wish to keep thousands of unnecessary employés on patronage pay rolls of useless governmental agencies. Therefore, if we are to be mulcted until we can express our opinion in votes at the next election, why not do it painlessly?

What, we ask, could be more painless than light wines and beers? To a great number, perhaps a majority of our people, echo answers "What?" Now about a national lottery. Of course, a lottery is gambling. So is race track betting, legalized in many states. So is grain, stock, and commodity speculation. So are many other things.

Once when pinchhitting for R. H. L. in The Line we advocated a national lottery. We still think it would raise revenue without demoralizing farther a nation already demoralized by sophistry in its morals. Our estimate then was that government returns from a lottery would yield 200 million to 300 million a year, according to how often the drawings were held. Of course profits would come from the people. So will any tax imposed.

Now eminent statesmen at Washington, if any, help yourself.

April.

Open the portals! Young April is coming
Light as on angels' wings, down from the sky,
Happily dancing through daffodils blooming,
Watching the larks winging merrily by.
Playing with sunlight, her golden dust hair
Gleams as she stands there with blue misty eyes,
Tossing her pearls with a whimsical air
Over the fields, when in sudden surprise
Hurt by our coldness, her tears are streaming
Down from her eyes, like a sudden wild rain,
Tinkling sweet silvery tunes. See the gleaming
Sun kisses April! She's laughing again.

At this season when sports topics, despite the advent of glorious verse impelling spring (vide current snowfall), demand more discussion it is not possible within the limited space allotted to The Wake to publish long bits of poetry. Many perfectly good brain children thus are blowing out the window. So, dear kind poets, please make 'em short and snappy.

MORENZ LEADS MONTREAL SIX INTO 1ST PLACE

Paves the Way for Deciding Goals.

New York, March 22.—(A. P.)—The National Hockey league closed its regular season tonight with the Montreal Canadiens, Toronto and Montreal Maroons in the Canadian section and New York Rangers, Chicago and Detroit of the American division qualifying for the playoffs leading to the league championship series.

Pairings for the opening playoffs will send the Rangers against the Canadiens in a best-three-out-of-five series, and Toronto against Chicago and Detroit against the Maroons in home-and-home series. The winners of the Toronto-Chicago and Detroit-Maroons contests will clash in another home-and-home series for the right to play either the Rangers or Canadiens for the championship now held by the Canadiens.

The Canadiens turned back Toronto, 4 to 2; Detroit beat the Rangers, 5 to 4, and the New York Americans whipped Boston, 8 to 6. Final standings follow:

CANADIAN SECTION.

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.	Pts.
Canadiens	25	16	7	57
Toronto	23	18	7	53
Maroons	19	22	7	45

Detroit	18	20	10	46
Boston	15	21	12	42

MONTREAL, Que., March 22.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens won first place in the Canadian section of the National Hockey league tonight by defeating Toronto 4 to 2. Toronto finished the season in second place.

HOWIE MORENZ.

Up to tonight Toronto had a chance to capture the lead. A victory would have given it a tie in points and in the won-lost-tied records but it had a greater total of goals for the season.

At first it looked as if it might turn the trick. Only 25 seconds after the game started Joe Primeau scored on Charlie Conacher's assist. But the Montreal old guard led a rush that gave the Canadiens a 3 to 1 lead before the first period ended.

Howie Morenz, Canadien ace, tied the count less than three minutes after Primeau scored and just 25 seconds later he aided Sylvio Mantha in scoring the goal that put the Canadiens ahead. Lineups:

HAWKS VS. LEAFS SUNDAY

The play off series between the Chicago Blackhawks and the Toronto Mapleleafs, who became the Hawks' opponents through their defeat at the hands of the Canadiens last night, will open at the Chicago Stadium on Sunday night. The following Tuesday the two teams will meet at Toronto. The team having the greatest total of goals for the two games will be declared the winner.

Schedules for the second series of games between the winner of these games and the victor in the Detroit-Montreal Maroons third place series have not been announced.

BRUINS WHIPPED, 8 TO 6

Boston, Mass., March 22.—(AP)—The New York Americans and Boston Bruins, tail enders in the National Hockey league, tonight closed their seasons with one of the dullest games played here in years. Neither team was willing to check or use any other aggressive defensive gestures, and the Americans finally managed to win, 8 to 6.

The game was tied up to the last 21 seconds, when Tommy Filmore broke a 6 to 6 deadlock by caging Red

Lott and Van Ryn Defeat French; U. S. Leads, 2 to 1

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—The United States took the lead in the international tennis match with France tonight when George M. Lott Jr. of Chicago and John Van Ryn of Philadelphia defeated Jean Borotra and Antoine Gentien in the doubles at the Seventh regiment armory, 15-13, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

GEORGE LOTT.

The first two singles contests having been divided last evening, the United States now leads, two matches to one, and needs only to take one of the final two singles tomorrow night to wrest the indoor cup from France.

THREE BUCKEYE TRACK STARS RULED ELIGIBLE

Columbus, O., March 22.—[Special.]—Three of Ohio State's outstanding track stars have passed scholastic requirements which removes ineligibilities held against them since the winter quarter, Buckeye athletic officials announced today.

They are John Wonsowitz, holder of the national intercholastic pole vault record; Don Bennett, former interscholastic dash star, and Lloyd Wise, one of the outstanding quarter-milers of the middle west.

Michigan Hockey Team Names Two as Captains

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 22.—[Special.]—The University of Michigan hockey squad broke tradition here tonight when it elected Keith Crossman of Royal Oak, Mich., and Emerson Reid of Ann Arbor co-captains for next year. Michigan teams always have had only one leader heretofore. Reid and Crossman have been Michigan's stars during the last two seasons, having accounted for 25 per cent of the Wolverine goals.

Battalino and Petrolle Wind Up Ring Drills

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Billy Petrolle and Bat Battalino wound up active training today for their 12 round battle in the Garden Thursday night. Dan Skilling, deputy boxing commissioner, looked them over and announced that each will be in under the specified limit of 140 pounds. Petrolle is expected to weigh around 138, with the Bat somewhere between that and 135.

BILLY PETROLLE.

The consensus still was that Petrolle, being more experienced and a better hitter and just as tough and game as the Connecticut Italian, should be favored.

YANK BATS FIND ZACHARY; BEAT BRAVES, 2 TO 0

Pennock, Pipgras Pitch Three Hit Ball.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 22.—(AP)—With Herb Pennock and George Pipgras pitching three hit ball, the New York Yankees defeated the Boston Braves, 2 to 0, today.

The Braves collected their three scattered hits off Pipgras after Pennock had held them hitless through the first five innings.

Old Tom Zachary was on the mound in the first inning, when the Yankees scored all of their runs on three of their six hits. Zachary was touched for one more hit in the fourth—a single by Gehrig—and Ray Mangrum, International league recruit, let the Yanks down with two hits—singles by Sewell and Lazzeri in the sixth and seventh innings, respectively. Score:

Batteries—Zachary, Mangrum, Mulligan and Hargrave; Pennock, Pipgras and Jorgens.

BROOKLYN WINS, 19-3.

Clearwater, Fla., March 22.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers went on a scoring rampage today, defeating the House of David, 19 to 3.

While Krider and Mattingly, rookie hurlers, were holding House of David to eight hits, the Dodgers collected 18 off a trio of opposing pitchers. One was a home run by Cohen, who replaced Hack Wilson in center field. Score:

House of David	100	020	000—3 8 2
Brooklyn	405	430	30*—19 18 1

MACKS BEAT PHILS, 15 TO 7.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 22.—(AP)—Two teams, billed as the Athletics and the Phillies, but looking unlike either, tangled in a bit of exercise here today, and the Mack club won, 15 to 7.

Connie Mack used few regulars, while Burt Shotton brought mostly substitutes from Winter Haven. The Athletics had a five run opening inning, improving on this in the seventh when they made six off Ed Fallenstein. Homers were hit by Bishop, with two on, and by George Davis and Rube Bressler for the Phils. Score:

Athletics	510	010	02*—15 22 5

PORTER IS INDIANS' LEADOFF.

New Orleans, La., March 22.—(AP)—Dick Porter today was "put on the spot" as the Indians' leadoff man when the American league baseball season opens in about three weeks.

Although ball players generally shy at the leadoff job in that it cuts their chances at slugging and batting in runs, Porter welcomed the offer, recalling that as a leadoff man with the Baltimore Orioles his batting average fell off 30 points, but that Manager Jack Dunn raised his salary the next year.

RED SOX STRESS BATTING.

Savannah, Ga., March 22.—(AP)—Manager Shano Collins today put his Boston Red Sox rookies through a long morning session and spent the afternoon drilling the veterans. Both squads stressed batting, for Collins wants his players in a slugging mood when they open their spring training schedule against the Hartford club of the Eastern league on Thursday.

Tripp Sigman, new outfielder, worked out with the regulars and made a good impression at bat. Outfielder George Stumpf, a grip victim, was reported recovering.

ROCHESTER, IND., WILL QUIT PREP SPORT LEAGUE

Rochester, Ind., March 22.—(AP)—Rochester High school will resign from the North Central Indiana conference within a few days, school officials announced today, and will ask cancellation of all home and home athletic games scheduled with other members of the conference for the next two years except those with Logansport, Kokomo and Frankfort High schools.

Other members of the conference, formed in 1927 and popularly known as the Big Ten of Indiana High school athletics, are Lebanon, Morton of Richmond, Newcastle, Muncie, Anderson, and Technical of Indianapolis. During the five years the conference has existed, the state basketball title has rested with one of its members four times.

In seeking to keep games with Kokomo, Logansport and Frankfort on the schedule, school officials pointed out that the proximity of the cities made the schools natural rivals of Rochester, adding that a radical reduction in attendance this year had worked a hardship upon the school in bringing teams from a distance at great expense.

TOBOGGAN SLIDES LURE THOUSANDS TO PALOS HILLS

The toboggan and ski slides were reopened by Emmett Whealan, president of the board of Forest Preserve commissioners, when snow fell so abundantly.

Other slides in the Forest Preserve at Deer Grove, Smolski's woods, Ryans woods and at Niles also were reopened, and children in the neighborhoods made good use of them.

Estelle Taylor Seeks $150,000 for Auto Injury

Los Angeles, March 22.—[Special.]—Estelle Taylor, former wife of Jack Dempsey, today filed a suit for $150,000 against Frank Joyce, theatrical agent, and Noel L. Scott, a chauffeur. Miss Taylor said she incurred serious injuries on last Christmas day when Joyce's automobile, in which Scott was driving her to her home, crashed into a palm tree. She said Scott was drunk.

Belle Plaine Club Picks A. A. U. Title Boxers Tomorrow

After the boxing show tomorrow night at the Belle Plaine Athletic club, 3943 Lincoln avenue, Marshall Richey, club president, will select representatives for the Olympic trials and Central A. A. U. championships at Loyola university gymnasium April 5 to 8. Tony Muscarello, featherweight runnerup in the Golden Gloves last year, will meet Mike Dragel, west side qualifier this year, and the winner will enter the Loyola tournament. The light heavyweight entrant is either Tony Sutton or Matt Dour. They meet in the semifinal bout at the Belle Plaine club.

Mique Malloy arranged five supporting bouts, three at five rounds each and two at four rounds, for the Ray Tramblie-Jack Kilbourne ten round combat at Whi e City next Monday night. Jerry Crano, west side middleweight, and Red Mendoza are matched for a five round bout. Others will have Costas Vassis vs. Les Finucane and Johnny Panek vs. Jack Phillips. The four round matches bring together Paul Dempsey and Wayne Short, and Spike Herrera and Jack Ripp.

Johnny Baima, Chicago middleweight, has left for St. Louis where he will fight Jackie Horner next week. He will return immediately after the battle to resume training for a contemplated contest with either Kid Leonard or Young Stuhley April 4.

Paul Dazzo, west side featherweight, signed last night for a return match with Young Geno of La Salle, Ill., at La Salle April 4. Dazzo scored a technical knockout over Geno in the sixth round recently. The rematch is set for 10 rounds at 129 pounds.

Harry Dublinsky, Chicago junior welterweight, left yesterday for Philadelphia to finish preparations for a fight there against Benny Bass next Monday. Bass was suspended by the Pennsylvania commission after he signed to meet the Chicago fighter. If the ban is not lifted Lew Massey will battle Dublinsky.

Charley Retzlaff, Duluth heavyweight, broke his hand when he defeated Jack McCarthy at Boston last week, it was learned yesterday. The injury will keep him out of the ring for at least six weeks. Following his welterweight contest with Bat Battalino tomorrow, Billy Petrolle, Retzlaff's stablemate, also will get a six weeks vacation.

Joe Ferry, former University of Illinois boxing instructor, has signed a contract with Paramount Publix corporation to appear in a series of movies at Hollywood, Cal., under the name of Russ Clark. Ferry won the middle Atlantic states 160 pound championship at Philadelphia more than a decade ago. He was sparring partner for George Chip, former middleweight champion; Jack Johnson, Stanley Ketchell and Harry Greb. He was at the University of Illinois as boxing instructor and assistant football and baseball coach from 1925 to 1931.

Jack Moran and Kelly Kulak, local fighters, leave tomorrow night for Daytona Beach, Fla., where they will box opponents to be selected next Thursday. The show will be headlined by Sammy Mandell, former lightweight champion, who is battling as a welterweight.

Bud Saltis, north side middleweight, returned from Terre Haute, Ind., yesterday with a bruised hand, acquired during a ten round bout with Sammy Slaughter Monday at Terre Haute. He will be unable to train for several days.

GARIBALDI SIGNS TO WRESTLE ON FRONTON CARD

Gino Garibaldi, heavyweight wrestler, has been added to the Fronton card Tuesday night, it was announced last night. One of three opponents, Kola Kwariani, Earl McCready, and Fred Grobmier, will be chosen for Garibaldi.

The main event is between Hans Kampfer and George Zaharias. Each holds a decision over the other.

Benny Friedman Signs to Coach Brooklyn Eleven

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Benny Friedman, a member of the New York Giants' professional football team for two years, today announced he has signed to play with the Brooklyn club of the National Professional Football league. In addition to playing Friedman will coach Brooklyn.

R. L. Baker Appointed Australia's Olympic Aid

Kearns Signs Fields, Walker for Ten Bouts

The prize fight manager, Mr. Jack Kearns, did everything but sign his life away at a conference he held with Nate Lewis, the Chicago Stadium matchmaker, early last night. He signed a blanket contract for ten fights for two of his battlers, and the bifers he represents are not altogether unknown.

MICKEY WALKER.

Mickey Walker is to fill five of these engagements for Mr. Kearns. Jackie Fields, the world's welterweight champion, is to fill the other five. And if all this signing on the dotted line isn't just so much waste of ink and white space Mr. Kearns is going to be the busiest fight manager any one ever knew.

Picks Tough Opponents.

The opponents he selected for Walker's five combats are Georgie Nichols, the new light heavyweight champion of the world; King Levinsky, Ernie Schaaf, Jack Sharkey, and Max Schmeling, the world's heavyweight champion. The foes he selected for Fields are Bat Battalino, Billy Petrolle, Jimmy McLarnin, Young Corbett, and Tony Canzoneri.

Laugh it off if you want to, but Mr. Kearns, after all the signing had taken place and the supply of writing ink in the Stadium offices had almost been exhausted, wheeled and strode out of the big red and white arena with the air about him of one who had accomplished a big day's work.

It might be that an urgent need of the kind of money that one can spend caused Mr. Kearns to force the printer to hurry up with a fresh order of bigger and more binding contracts. The recent divorce affairs of Mr. Kearns cost $6,000, according to the records, and another little item of $100 a week for some 60 weeks. And it is possible the depression has hit the prize fight managing industry, for a prize fight manager never signed away the services of his boxers with more abandon.

Opponents May Worry Lewis.

Mr. Lewis likewise thought he had done a pretty good day's work. But he may discover this morning that his assignment will require more energy and that he will have to take more punishment than either of Mr. Kearns' fighters. Signing Schaaf, Sharkey, and Schmeling for the fights Mr. Kearns arranged for Walker isn't a job for a man who quits work when the 6 o'clock whistle blows.

There is something definite about two of the fights. Walker will battle Nichols at the Stadium on April 29. Fields will meet Battalino or Petrolle at the Stadium on either April 15 or April 22.

As for the others, all Mr. Lewis has to do is to sign up the rest of the boys.

PHAR LAP LEAVES AGUA TO REST HIS BRUISED HOOF

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 22.—(AP)—Phar Lap, the Australian thoroughbred who won the Agua Caliente handicap, departed today for the Hamilton cotton ranch at San Clemente, Cal., for a few days' rest.

David J. Davis, owner, said Phar Lap's bruised hoof would be cured entirely within three or four days. The bruise was sustained last Sunday after the race. Davis said he did not intent to start Phar Lap in any race at Tanforan, but would take the invader to Chicago for the big stake races at Washington and Arlington Parks.

THOUSANDS OF DUCKS HALTED IN MIGRATIONS

Rock Island, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—Thousands of wild ducks, halted in their annual northward flight by winterlike weather, are feeding in corn fields, near the Mississippi and Rock rivers below Rock Island. Game wardens are investigating the reported shooting of the wild ducks in violation of the state and federal game laws. Sportsmen say they never have seen so many ducks concentrated in this area.

SCHMELING WILL START EXHIBITION TOUR AT TORONTO

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight champion, will inaugurate his exhibition tour preparatory to entering training for the defense of his title against Jack Sharkey at Toronto, Can., instead of Elizabeth, N. J., as was originally planned.

This was announced today by Joe Jacobs, manager of the titleholder, who is under contract to defend his crown here against Sharkey on June 16. At the same time Jacobs announced that arrangements are nearing completion for Schmeling to begin intensive training at Saratoga Lake, N. Y., on May 7.

The tour will continue with one night stands until April 28, and will be followed by a week's vacation for Schmeling and his advisers at French Lick Springs, Ind. The tour will carry Schmeling and his retinue through the east and to Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Peoria, Ill., and Chicago.

SENATORS TRUMP OWN LEADS, BUT BEAT TOLEDO, 6-5

Biloxi, Miss., March 22.—(AP)—A flock of errors, mental and physical, contributed to the Washington Senators' 6 to 5 victory today over Toledo.

The big leaguers' two winning runs in the ninth came after blunders on both sides. West, who had opened with a hit, made second when Cronin beat out an infield hit, but was caught napping off the base. Then Cronin, thinking Reynolds had walked, decided to stroll to second, and the Toledo second baseman, with similar erroneous ideas, let him reach base safely.

The scoring started when Kuhel's grounder to first went through Sweeney, letting Cronin count. Bluege hit to Pitcher Rhodes, who threw to first instead of home, allowing Reynolds, who had walked in the meantime, to register the winning run.

Score:

Toledo [A. A.]	300	000	020—5 8 5
Washington [A.]	102	000	102—6 9 3

TIGERS ROUT GIANTS, 11-2.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 22.—(AP)—Detroit defeated the New York Giants, 11 to 2, in an exhibition baseball game here today, getting 18 hits off Gibson and Parmalee.

Gibson was the chief victim. In six innings he was touched 13 hits and seven runs. Wyatt and Goldstein allowed six Giant hits. Score:

PIRATES BEAT OAKLAND, 5-12.

Oakland, Cal., March 22.—(AP)—Continuing their barnstorming winning streak, the Pittsburgh Pirates downed Oakland's Pacific Coast league club today, 5 to 1. Bill Swift held Oakland to seven scattered hits.

Pittsburgh [N. L.]	020	003	000—5 8 1
Oakland [P. C. L.]	000	000	001—1 7 1

Batteries—Swift and Grace; Daglia, Hurst and Read.

Mushy Callahan to Return to Ring April 1

Follow These Rules:

1. Each day for 48 consecutive days (except Sunday) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a United States Crossword Puzzle. The name of one of the 48 States in the United States will be in each puzzle. You are invited to solve the puzzle and name the State.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete sets of puzzles in accordance with these rules. Note: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 48 puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 48. Then send them to "Crosswords," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 48 has been printed.

5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department. Make your entry simple and neat. Neatness will count.

FALCONS WIN, 5 TO 4

Detroit, Mich., March 22.—(AP)—The Falcons defeated New York's league leading Rangers, 5 to 4, in the final game of the National Hockey league season tonight.

HIGH GOAL POLO TEAMS MEET IN FINAL SATURDAY

Two Chicago high goal indoor polo teams will clash in the final round of the Metropolitan Indoor league's tournament at the 124th Field Artillery armory Saturday night, for the right to participate in the world's championship matches to be held in New York in April. The teams are the Chicago Riding club and North Shore Polo and Hunt club squads.

Capt. Maxwell Corpenning, a 6 goal player, will ride for the Chicago Riding club against Herbert Lorber, a 4 goal player who leads the North Shore Polo and Hunt club's team.

The final game promises to be the most exciting of the season. Both teams are evenly rated at 11 goals by the handicapping committee of the National Indoor Polo association.

Two matches will be held in Saturday's finals. The first game will see Olympia Fields meet Culver alumni. Both are low goal teams. A team to represent the Metropolitan league in this class will be chosen from the four club members.

Henry Schmehl, Long Distance Walker, Dies

Henry Schmehl, 82 years old, 215 North Lavergne avenue, long distance walker, who frequently competed against Edward P. Weston and Daniel O'Leary years ago, died Monday night in the Jefferson Park hospital from eye trouble following an illness of ten days. He was born in Germany and in 1871 came to Chicago to live. For a long time he was in the restaurant business, but retired several years ago because of advanced age.

Murphy Leads '29 Loyola Quintet to 28-26 Win

Charles [Feed] Murphy led the 1929 Loyola university basketball team to a 28 to 26 victory in two overtime periods against the 1931-'32 Rambler squad last night at the Loyola university gymnasium. The score was tied at the end of the first extra period, 24 to 24. Murphy sank five baskets and four free throws.

Ace Hudkins' Fists Called Dangerous in $50,000 Suit

Los Angeles, Cal., March 22.—(AP)—Ace Hudkins, boxer, today was sued for $50,000. Leonard Wood charged that Hudkins, known to boxing as the "Nebraska Wildcat," severely beat him last Jan. 9 in a street altercation. The complaint described Hudkins' fists as "dangerous weapons."

Herman Elated Over Signing; Jabbers, Slugs

Tampa, Fla., March 22.—(AP)—Babe Herman beamed optimism and oratory today over his prospects of slugging the lowly Cincinnati Reds out of the National league cellar they occupied last season.

Having signed his contract for a reported $16,500, Babe joined the Reds in batting practice today, pounded long drives, and then addressed a luncheon club here.

His speech was not recorded, but Herman said afterward that he was going to show "those New York newspaper guys who never did like the Brooklyn outfit that he wasn't the goat. And all this dope about me butting a fly ball back to the diamond with my bean is looney stuff."

Badgers War Over Veenker as Grid Coach

Madison, Wis., March 22.—[Special.]—A bitter fight against the approval of George Veenker, Iowa State football coach, who was recommended by the Wisconsin athletic council as successor to Glenn Thistlethwaite, looms when the board of regents meets on Friday.

News of the recommendation of Veenker as head football coach at Wisconsin spread rapidly in Madison today. Petitions were filed with the regents by prominent alumni, members of the Wisconsin football squad and students asking that the approval of Veenker be withheld.

May Start New Search.

It is reported that President Glenn Frank and several regents are opposed to Veenker. Thus the action of the athletic council in recommending Veenker may be set aside and a new search for a Wisconsin coach begun.

The name of Dr. Clarence W. Spears appeared as a possibility today for the third time. Spears was offered the position at a salary of $9,500, but refused to accept it unless he also was given the position of director of intercollege athletics. This ended the first negotiations.

Regent Changes Stand.

A week later another attempt was made to secure Spears and when everything appeared settled, an influential member of the board of regents refused to accept Spears. The dissenting regent, it is reported, has withdrawn his objections and a final effort to secure Spears, who is the popular choice here, has begun.

Madonna Wins Over Lafayette Quintet, 19-18

A free throw by Austie Ayers with the score tied and only a few seconds to play gave Madonna a 19 to 18 victory over Lafayette and the central division championship of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league at White City last night. Madonna led at the half, 9 to 8.

St. Philip Neri won the playoff for second place in the south end division by beating San Salvador, 20 to 18. Brosseau and Scanlon led the attack which overcome a San Salvador lead.

The two games completed the playoffs of ties in the league and cleared the way for the opening of its sixteenth annual championship round at the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets Sunday. Three games will be played Sunday afternoon, Perez vs. Marquette, Aquinas vs. Lafayette and Hennepin vs. St. Philip Neri. Score:

Golden Glovers Quicken Pace as Intercity Fights Near

BY WILFRID SMITH.

One day nearer their invasion of Madison Square Garden where they will defend their intercity Golden Gloves title next Monday, Chicago's boys yesterday worked at the Illinois Athletic club with a will which assures they will be in top condition. The long grind ends with tomorrow's boxing lessons, although the squad will go on the road Friday morning before boarding a special train at noon.

BUD MARCY.

All the Glovers saw action yesterday except Adam Smith and Bud Marcy. Smith, the heavyweight champion, was excused from boxing in the afternoon, but he was busy with the punching bags, sand bags and a series of calisthenics. No member of the team has put in his time to better advantage, and the coaches decreed Adam might skip one boxing session.

Marcy Forgets to Duck.

Bud Marcy, the featherweight alternate, also was excused. He is down to weight and in addition has a set of loose teeth from failing to duck one of the padded gloves swung by a team mate.

Eight boxers from the first rank of Chicago's amateur fighters were the Golden Glovers' guests yesterday afternoon. The I. A. C. gymnasium swarmed with boxers for more than two hours. Among the guest artists were Joe Bernstein, Joe Palazolla, Tony Muscarello, Charles Leninger, Jim Cummings, Bob Groshek, Tony Sutton, and Merrill Tonn.

All gave Chicago's fighters just what they needed, plenty of high powered workouts, but the advantages of training the Golden Gloves squad has received already is apparent. The team, without exception, is rounding into form. Three rounds in the ring, preceded by six rounds on the floor, now are possible where two weeks ago none could have come through such a drill without being exhausted.

Aggressiveness Deciding Factor.

Danny Neenan and Stanley Krannenberg have been waging a battle for the runnerup position which has featured the daily boxing. Krannenberg, from Grand Rapids, Mich., is cooler under fire, but Neenan's aggressiveness has kept him in line to pair with Henry Rothier in the 135 pound division against New York.

Johnny Phagan, almost completely recovered from a severe cold, was back in form yesterday and he is determined to win the intercity welterweight championship just as he accounted for a victory in the runnerup spot in the same weight a year ago.

Little has been said about Joey Roman, the Joliet featherweight. In 1930 Roman was a member of the Chicago team which whipped New York at the Chicago Stadium, 10 bouts to 6. Last year he lost in the preliminaries to Don Gonzales of Cleveland, who continued on to win the championship, his intercity bout and international match against France.

Roman Hard Worker.

Now Roman is the 126 pound champion, and in addition to being one of the best scrappers, he has no peer when it comes to training.

Edward Sparrow of Chicago yesterday was given the alternate position in the bantamweight class when Richard Noonan, unable to get down to weight without distress, withdrew from the team and returned to his home in Crawfordsville, Ind.

KIECKHEFER WINS FOURTH BLOCK TO LEAD HALL, 200-147

Augie Kieckhefer scored his fourth straight victory over Allen Hall at Mussey's Wabash avenue room last night and took the lead, 200 to 147, in 158 innings, in their 12 block 600 point three cushion billiard match. Kieckhefer won the third block in the afternoon, 50 to 46, in 38 innings. He triumphed at night, 50 to 44, in 44 innings.

The fifth and sixth blocks will be played today at the Kieckhefer Recreation and the seventh and eighth blocks at Mussey's tomorrow.

Kieckhefer made a fast start in the afternoon game, opening with a run of 6 and leading by 16 to 8 at the end of nine innings. Hall rallied and at the end of 20 innings was in front, 32 to 28. In the next 10 innings Kieckhefer outscored Hall, 15 to 9, and in the thirty-third inning led, 48 to 43. It took five innings for the champion to score the last two points.

The champion opened with a run of 6 in the night game and rapidly drew away after piling up a lead of 17 to 3 in the first 10 innings.

Canton Draws Springfield in State Opener

Champaign, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—A record crowd for an opening session of the State High School basketball tournament is expected Thursday afternoon by the University of Illinois officials in charge of local arrangements for the state association.

This is because Springfield and Canton will meet in the opener, adding color and rivalry between coaches and cities. Mark Peterman is the coach of Springfield, but for years he coached Canton, which has been a contender in the state finals more times than any other city.

Chadd Succeeds Peterman.

Three years ago, Mark went to Springfield, being succeeded at Canton by Archie Chadd, a former star all around athlete at Butler. It was predicted that Chadd would meet disaster after the great record Peterman had established, but the former made good. Now all Canton is coming to town Thursday hopeful that the Springfield boys will be beaten.

Rantoul, the Champaign county finalist, has a hard assignment in the second game, at 4 o'clock, encountering Lawrenceville. Lawrenceville has a veteran team.

Benton to Meet Kewanee.

Thursday's evening games will present Benton and Kewanee at 7:30 and Hillsboro and Morton [Cicero] at 8:30.

Canton—Archie Chadd.
Springfield—Mark Peterman.
Morton [Cicero]—N. Z. Zeibell.
Lawrenceville—D. V. Peacock.
Benton—H. B. Tabor.
Hillsboro—Joe Fearheiley.
Kewanee—Ross Anderson.
Rantoul—Fred Adam.

Former Illini Are Coaches.

Benton's coach, Herbert Tabor, was a well known Illinois football and basketball player a decade ago. Zeibell and Peacock are other Illini products.

According to state association regulations, no teams will be permitted to practice on the playing floor and most of the contestants will not come until Thursday afternoon. Last year 17,000 saw the four sessions and while the Illini managers expect this total to be equaled, accommodations will be available for all.

Bob Zuppke and his aids will present a football discussion session Friday afternoon for visiting coaches. Saturday afternoon Coach Craig Ruby will lead a similar gathering on basketball.

POSTOFFICE TO SETTLE COURT TITLE SATURDAY

The Chicago postoffice recreational committee will observe Arnold A. Lampert night in honor of its basketball chairman as it holds the final basketball championship games Saturday at the 8th regiment armory, 35th and Giles avenue.

Wakeford M. P. and Lake View Presbyterian, Chicago girls' quintets, will meet at 7:30 o'clock in an exhibition game. City Nites and Mailing Division will follow in a game which will determine third place honors of the league. Lake View and Hyde Park, tied for the championship, will meet in the concluding game.

Georgetown Joins Newly Formed Basketball League

Washington, D. C., March 22.—(AP)—H. Gabriel Murphy, graduate manager of athletics, announced today that Georgetown university had joined the newly formed intercollegiate basketball conference. The other members are Carnegie Tech, Temple, Pittsburgh, and West Virginia. The schedule includes a home and home series for each university.

It's Springtime for Pheasants, Despite Winter

BY BCB BECKER.

Snow or no snow, time has arrived at the Yorkville, Ill., state game farm to harvest the spring crop of pheasant eggs. As a rule the adult birds are placed in special pens around March 20, according to Lloyd Johnson, manager of the farm. Thousands of eggs are produced at Yorkville each spring. Practically all of them are distributed throughout the state to residents who have the facilities to hatch them out under barnyard hens. The pheasant chicks when old enough to shift for themselves are then turned out.

The feeding schedules outlined by Walace Evans and Johnson for pheasants during the egg laying season may well be copied by farmers and estate owners who wish to produce game birds. Johnson outlines his menu as follows:

"We feed the adult birds a cooked mash in the morning and a scratch feed at night. Each pen is about 30 by 100 feet, and in them we set up a number of brush piles for cover. Besides these brush piles and the main foods which are provided, we give the birds plenty of gravel, charcoal, and fine oyster shell. A constant supply of fresh water also is supplied. Moreover, in each of the pens there is grass and clover as soon as the spring growing season can produce such a crop."

Evans, a well known breeder of game birds, also stresses the importance of green stuff for geese, ducks, pheasants, etc.

Johnson says as a rule pheasants begin laying eggs around the first of April. The nests are visited once or twice daily and the eggs removed. He agrees with other breeders that swans and geese will have better hatches of young birds if permitted to select their own mates and build their nests unmolested. During breeding seasons pheasants, swans, ducks and geese are fed about the same except more mash feeds are given to the waterfowl. This food is wet.

In recent years professional game bird breeders have made a science of handling such birds. At one time the inexperienced amateur, who wanted to raise wild geese, pheasants and similar fowl, usually was forced to take a severe loss because he had to experiment with foods and handling methods.

Today the amateur can expect a fair degree of success because the trail has been blazed by the professional breeders. Special foods have been developed both for young and adult birds, and many of these tested foods have been put on the market. Methods of hatching to secure the largest yield of chicks also have been worked out with the result that many of the hazards in raising some of the most desirable game birds have been eliminated.

AUSTRIA RESENTS DUTCH HOLDING FINANCIAL REINS

Looks to Rothschild to Take Over Interests.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, March 22.—Three Dutchmen today control the financial destinies of Austria. They are Adrianus van Hengel, the newly appointed director of the government controlled Kredit-Anstalt, central Europe's greatest bank; Prof. Bruins, the World bank's adviser to the National bank, and Dr. Rost van Tanningen, financial observer in Vienna of the league of nations. Between them they control absolutely Austria's financial structure. And the Austrians are beginning to resent it.

They began to complain when Van Hengel, before accepting his post, demanded that his salary, which was the greatest of any bank manager in Austria, be paid in gold bars. They believed this a declaration of complete lack of confidence from a quarter which might have been expected to have the most confidence.

Press Opposes Policy.

A general campaign was waged against him in the press, especially after he set forth his policy in an interview in the Neue Freie Presse, the leading Viennese newspaper, on the day he took office.

Van Heugel said that new loans from the National bank to the Kredit-Anstalt were needed. Since just this practice of overborrowing was the root of the ruinous system which caused the Kredit-Anstalt to crash and which a foreign director was expected to change, the Austrians doubted whether it was necessary to intrust a foreigner with the control of the bank. They expected the highly paid Dutch expert to offer a new solution, not the old one of continued borrowing which brought down the bank last May.

"Do we need to pay a foreigner an enormous salary for work which any bank employé can carry out?" they asked.

Look to Rothschild.

Austria's hopes for regaining control of its own finances are now staked on Louis Rothschild, the chief of the Austrian branch of the house of Rothschild. He is still president of the Kredit-Anstalt and Austria's only representative in the circle of foreigners which controls the bank now.

AUTOMATIC RADIO SENDING SET IS TESTED IN FRANCE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, March 22.—An automatic radio, simplifying the process of sending messages, was demonstrated here today by its inventor, Jacques Detruiseux, before representatives of the ministries of war, posts, and telegraphs, merchant marine, and public works.

The apparatus can be operated by any one knowing how to read, obviating the necessity of a trained wireless operator. It works by means of knobs, which are turned like the knobs on a radio receiving set. The letters of the alphabet and various signals are printed on a dial turned by a knob, messages thus being spelled out.

The apparatus is small and light enough to be carried anywhere, permitting its use on airplanes, submarines, and fishing smacks, and at meteorological stations and army posts. Provision is made in the case of submarines to carry a buoy equipped with the new apparatus, and in case of accident the buoy is released and continues to send out S O S calls for as long as 25 hours. In case of a wreck the device permits sending calls for help without the necessity of the operator sticking to his post. The ministry of public works is studying the use of the apparatus for signaling from one railway train to another.

Charles L. Bull, Explorer, Author, and Painter, Dies

Oradell, N. J., March 22.—[Special.]—Charles Livingston Bull, author, naturalist, explorer, and painter of birds and animals, died this morning of an illness which followed an injury to his back suffered at his summer camp. He was 75 years old. For many years Mr. Bull was associated with such men as Roy Chapman Andrews, William Beebe, Dr. William T. Hornaday, Carl Akeley, and James Clark in exploration and scientific research.

Pigs Is Pigs, but if One Curls a Green Tail Louis Owns It

Gibbstown, N. J., March 22.—(AP)—Pigs with bright green tails disported themselves today on the farm of Louis Evangelista. It's not that Evangelista has gone modernistic, but somebody stole a 75 pound porker from his pen last Saturday and he hasn't been able to find it. "But just let them steal another one and I'll spot it anywhere," said Evangelista, as he completed his handiwork with waterproof paint.

Ivar Kreuger Buried; Only a Few Present; No Sermon

STOCKHOLM, March 22.—(AP)—Only a handful of relatives and personal friends attended the funeral services today for Ivar Kreuger, head of the great Swedish match trust who committed suicide in Paris last week. There was a brief musical service, but, in compliance with the wishes of the family, there was no funeral sermon.

John W. Gibbons, President of Laundry Company, Dies

John W. Gibbons, 63 years old, 5232 Hyde Park boulevard, president of the Quality Wet Wash Laundry company, died yesterday at the Passavant hospital after a two weeks' illness of heart disease. He was a native of Chicago and was an active member of the South Shore Country club. He is survived by his widow and three children.

THREE HELD ON DRY CHARGES.

Patrick Simmons, saloon keeper of 514 West 39th street, was held to the federal grand jury yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker in bonds of $1,000 on a dry charge. Matthew Berger and Joseph Topak, 113 South Aberdeen street, were also held to the federal jury on bonds of $1,500 on dry charges.

SNOW TRAPPED PILGRIMS DIE AT SHRINE IN PERSIA

Hundreds Lose Lives in Severe Winter.

BY H. BASIL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Persia, March 22.—After passing through the most severe winter in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, Persia has begun to count its cost in lives and property loss.

With the resumption of communications, that have been cut off for from two weeks to two months in many parts of the country, stories of tragedies due to the heavy snows and the freezing temperatures have begun to reach Teheran.

Pilgrims Trapped and Die.

One of the most tragic was the death from exposure of several hundred pilgrims at a shrine in a lonely spot in the Elburz mountains, about ten miles from Teheran. These men and women climbed to the shrine one clear morning on the Mohammedan holy day, Friday. A heavy snowstorm raged for the next four days, and none of the trapped pilgrims had returned. Attempts to rescue them were frustrated by the snow, piled more than four feet high.

The shrine contained only mud built rooms, the roofs of which collapsed under the snow's great weight. It is believed that many of the pilgrims, sensing their danger, tried to walk down, only to perish on the mountain slope. The exact number of victims has not yet been learned.

Communication and transportation facilities were destroyed in many parts of the country, and cities, towns and villages experienced a scarcity of food supplies. The thousands of men employed by the roads ministry were practically helpless in the face of the heavy snow, which was from two to nine feet deep where the roads cross hilly and mountainous regions.

Plane Service Halted.

Airplane service was stopped as the pilots could not afford to take risks with forced landings.

In Hamadan the inhabitants kept up a sort of communication by "traffic" lanes over the flat house roofs after pushing the snow into the streets. This also served to save many of the houses from collapse.

The loss of animal life can only be conjectured. In one place several muleteers and their 120 mules were frozen to death.

Persia is a dry country and the annual precipitation generally does not exceed 12 inches.

2 NAVAL PLANES CRASH IN THE AIR; BOTH LAND SAFE

San Pedro, Cal., March 22.—(AP)—Two naval ensigns, piloting airplanes that had been partially disabled when they crashed together 2,500 feet over Los Angeles harbor, remained in the cockpits of their floundering planes today and landed safely.

A horrified crowd of watchers on the decks of warships and cruisers saw the plane piloted by Ensign Elliott W. Parish, tossed by a sudden wind, smash into the rear of the leading plane, flown by Ensign Clayton C. Marcy. Parish's propeller broke the elevator on the tail assembly of Marcy's ship.

Mrs. D. M. Compton, Wife of Business Executive, Dies

Mrs. D. M. Compton, 5490 South Shore drive, wife of the vice president of the Grigsby-Grunow company, died yesterday in the Chicago Memorial hospital, where she underwent an operation last Friday. Mrs. Compton was the former Wilda Woodruff of Elgin. She was 44 years old. She was a member of the Chicago Woman's club, the South Shore Country club, and was on the Presbyterian hospital board. In addition to her husband, she is survived by three children, Richard, Gail, and Charles. Funeral arrangements are to be announced later.

SUBJECT:
"Am I to Be Controlled by Politicians?"

BEG YOUR PARDON!

An item in THE TRIBUNE yesterday, based on a dispatch from West Palm Beach, Fla., stated that Miss Eleanor Tevander, 850 Castlewood terrace, had been married there to Samuel Taylor, 73 East Division street. The announcement was incorrect in giving Mr. Taylor's address as 73 East Division street. Dr. Samuel Gale Taylor, an interne at the county hospital resides there.

An item in the paper of March 19 telling of the arrest of John Leroy, alleged gangster, gave his address as 1055 West 79th street. M. Lawler, who lives at 1055 West 79th street, said no one named Leroy lives there or has lived there recently.

TWO SCHOOLBOYS KILLED WHILE AT PLAY BY TRAINS

Two schoolboys playing beside railroad tracks were struck and killed yesterday by trains. One was Steve Yancano, 10 years old, 1217 Washington street, Chicago Heights. On his way home from school during the noon recess yesterday he stopped with three schoolmates at the 12th street crossing of the C. & E. I. railroad in the suburb to wait for a train to pass.

The boys fell to scuffling as they waited. Steve was either pushed or jumped backward against the last coach of the speeding train. His head was struck and he died instantly.

Elmer Walberg, 9 years old, 246 East 150th street, Harvey, was killed when he ran across the right of way of the Illinois Central railroad into the path of an electric suburban train.

Eurela Parker, 14 years old, 3226 Wabash avenue, colored, was killed by a train yesterday as she was picking up coal on the Rock Island railroad tracks at 33d street.

Mrs. Catherine Wilkie, 92 years old, of Los Angeles, died in the Silver Cross hospital in Joliet of injuries received when she fell off a Santa Fé passenger train early yesterday near Kinsman, 35 miles from Joliet. Railroad employés said she apparently mistook a vestibul door for that of a washroom and fell down the steps of the car.

IDENTIFIES BODY OF HER SON, 17, SLAIN IN HOLDUP

Mrs. Julia Koskowski, 2311 North Oakley avenue, found the body of her 17 year old son, Edward, in the county morgue yesterday and a short time later the police arrested two of Edward's friends. Koskowski was killed Saturday night by Policeman Francis O'Toole when the boy and two companions tried to hold him up. The policeman was in plain clothes at the time.

William Donis, 21 years old, 2425 Colvin street, and Edward Kruewicz, 20, 2345 North Leavitt street, were Koskowski's usual companions, police learned. Policemen John Walsh, Albert Rupp and William Buck found them at Donis' home.

They confessed having been with Koskowski in the O'Toole holdup and told of others they had robbed. They were sent to the detective bureau to be viewed by victims of robberies.

DR. PARKER CLEW POINTS TO RETURN WITHIN HOURS

Not Kidnaped for Ransom, Police Predict.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—Chief of Police Thomas McCann late today declared he expects solution of the mysterious disappearance on March 14 of Dr. James W. Parker, 65 year old president of the Tax Securities corporation of Chicago, within 18 hours. He predicted the solution will disclose that the doctor was not kidnaped for ransom.

DR. JAMES M. PARKER.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

Chief McCann said information had been received from investigators of State's Attorney Henry L. Pratt that undoubtedly will lead to the doctor's return tomorrow. Both the chief and the state's attorney refused to hint as to the nature of the information.

Family Deny Knowledge.

At the Parker home, where his wife is recovering from a heart attack, the family said they know nothing of the police investigation. Mrs. Parker maintained her husband has been kidnaped and said she will continue to await a ransom demand. She said she would coöperate with the police in any investigation.

Police records reveal Dr. Parker had been assaulted five years ago in front of a building where he is said to maintain a clinic, although his name does not appear on the premises.

Kept Assault Secret.

The records disclosed that Dr. Parker had not reported the assault. Police were called by neighbors after he had been attacked. The doctor insisted he did not know his assailants. The report substantiates the theory the doctor may have been seized by enemies.

The doctor has not been seen since 7:30 p. m., March 14, when he left his home presumably for the Creve Coeur club to bowl. He did not appear at the club. The next day his car was found in a secluded district at the edge of the city.

Empty Senn High in 5 Min. After Fire Is Discovered

Under the supervision of 145 teachers, 4,600 pupils of Senn High school, 5900 Glenwood avenue, marched out into the snow yesterday when fire broke out in the chemical storeroom at the north end of the building. It took only five minutes to empty the building after the alarm was sounded. The fire was extinguished with little damage. Charles Driscoll, school engineer, said a student, whose name is withheld, had gained access to the storeroom without permission and had upset chemicals which started the blaze.

LITHUANIA FIRES MEMEL DIET AND DEFIES POWERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEMEL, March 22.—The Memel diet was dissolved today by Col. Merkys, Lithuanian governor of the "international" Memel territory, when Edward Simmat, Lithuanian president, having asked a vote of confidence, was defeated, 22 to 5. The diet in rejecting a confidence vote protested Lithuania's removal of former President Otto Boettcher, a German.

By dissolving the diet Col. Merkys openly defied England, France, and Italy, which in sharp notes to the Lithuanian government observed that dissolution of the Memel diet would be "in conflict with the recommendations of the league of nations council."

The Lithuanian cabinet is discussing the Memel question daily and Lithuania's ministers at Berlin and London have been called to Kaunas to report the attitude of those governments. Foreign Minister Zaunias has protested against the "verbal" note by signatories to the Memel pact threatening to restore martial law in Memel for the new elections, which must be held within six weeks.

BOY COASTING ON HIS SLED IS KILLED BY AUTO

Two deaths in automobile accidents, both traceable to the snow on the roads, occurred last night in Cook county and raised the toll for the year to 245.

Theodore Kubiak, 12 years old, 1220 Emerald avenue, Chicago Heights, was coasting on his sled when he was struck by an automobile driven by Arthur Bruznano of Thornton at 10th and Halsted streets, Chicago Heights. He died soon afterward in the St. James hospital in the same suburb.

The second victim was Harold Elston, 38 years old, 1820 Hood avenue. He and a neighbor, Lawrence Hoffman, 1824 Hood avenue, were using the latter's automobile to push a stalled car out of the drifts in Peterson road near Irving avenue. Elston was standing on the running board of the Hoffman car when he was knocked off by a third car driven by Branford Ule, 7420 Parkhurst avenue. His death occurred at the Edgewater hospital. Ule was held.

MRS. WARREN'S FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services for Mrs. William S. Warren, well known in musical and church circles, will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow at St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church by the Rev. Dudley Stark. Burial will be in the Lake Forest cemetery. Mrs. Warren died yesterday in her home at 312 Grant place. She was 77 years old.

She came to Chicago seventy-three years ago from her birthplace in Auburn, N. Y. Her father, Lucius V. Parsons, was once cashier of the old Third National bank. Mrs. Warren was the widow of William S. Warren, who was Chicago manager of the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance company.

She was a founder of the Amateur club, now the Musicians' club of women. She was a member of the girls' quartet, one of whom was Mrs. Theodore Thomas, wife of the former leader of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. She also was a member of the Chicago Woman's club.

Mrs. Warren is survived by a son, L. Parsons Warren of Chicago.

Their Secret • Is Fresh Yeast • Try It Yourself

D. K. YOUNG, Springfield, Mass., says: "It was the remedy I needed."

MRS. OTWAY, Chappaqua, N. Y., writes: "Doctors are right about yeast."

Copyright, 1932, Standard Brands Incorporated

They eat 3 Cakes a Day!

That's the way thousands keep gloriously well

HAPPY, healthy people. Enjoying every minute of the day . . . Don't envy them. For theirs is no magic secret. They are simply followers of the three-times-a-day fresh yeast routine!

And because it has such an amazing effect in clearing up the skin.

In short, because Fleischmann's Yeast is the one remedy ideally suited to present-day modes of living.

Talk to someone you know who eats Fleischmann's Yeast. Ask your doctor about it. Go to your grocer, or to a restaurant or soda fountain and get a supply for yourself.

Then, after eating it for, say, 60 days, notice how much better you feel . . . how much less subject you are to headaches, colds and other unpleasant ills.

Every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast, you know, is rich in 3 precious health-giving vitamins—vitamins B, G and D.

FUNERAL RITES TOMORROW FOR F. R. SHEPHERD

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Rosehill cemetery chapel for Fred Reed Shepherd, retired president of Crerar, Adams & Co., railroad supply dealers.

Mr. Shepherd, who was 64 years old, died on Monday in his home at 1457 South Sheridan road, Highland Park, after a long illness. He was connected with Crerar, Adams & Co. for 35 years, becoming president in 1922 at the death of his father, Edward S. Shepherd, who had been head of the concern for 54 years, and retiring at the end of 1925.

Mr. Shepherd was a member of the old 1st infantry, Illinois National Guard, and the funeral services will be in charge of the veterans' corps of the 131st infantry, successor to that organization.

The widow, Mrs. Marjorie Belle Shepherd, and two daughters, Miss Josephine Morris Shepherd and Mrs. Julia Shepherd Cuneo, survive.

No More Piles

You Can End Your Awful Misery Quick Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile suffered to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

GEN. ELECTRIC REPORT SHOWS AID TO WORKERS

Net Income for 1931 Is $40,956,996.

BY O. A. MATHER.

While two years of depression have forced American industry to reduce wages and curtail employment, it may be truthfully said that the big corporations, as rule, have sought to temper the winds of adversity for their employés. The General Electric company, leader in its field, is a case in point. Its annual report, issued last night by Owen D. Young, chairman, and Gerard Swope, president, devotes almost a third of its contents to employés' interests.

Last year was one of the leanest in General Electric history. Net income was $40,956,996, which was equivalent to only $1.33 a share on its common stock. This was insufficient to pay dividends totaling $1.60 a share and so $7,768,266 was taken from surplus. In addition, investments in associated companies and in securities were written down from $222,592,877 to $179,308,010, necessitating taking $43,284,867 from reserves set aside from earnings of previous years.

Net income for 1930 was $57,490,935, or $1.90 a share, and surplus after cash dividends was $8,765,758. That was added to a previous surplus of $171,200,811, making the surplus at the end of 1930 $179,966,640.

Effect on Stockholders.

These facts show the effect of depression on the stockholders. The report points out that during the company's history of 40 years cash dividends have been paid in all but the four years ended Jan. 31, 1898, and in only one previous year, that ended Jan. 31, 1909, did the company fail to earn its full cash dividend. Then the report takes up the employés' situation.

"The average number of employés, not including those of associated companies, was 65,516, compared with 78,380 during 1930," it says. "Total earnings of these employés amounted to $106,656,000 for 1931 and $140,905,000 for 1930. Average annual earnings per employé were $1,628 and $1,798, respectively, a decrease of 9.5 per cent. The cost of living, according to the index of the national industrial conference board, decreased 9.9 per cent from 1930. Compared with 1923, average annual earnings of employés for 1931 were 1.2 per cent more and the cost of living was 13.3 per cent less.

Extra Compensation Paid.

"Supplementary compensation of 5 per cent of annual earnings has been paid for 16 years to employés having five or more years of service and receiving salaries or wages of less than $4,000 a year. Payments for 1931 amounted to $3,007,263 and were made to 39,264 employés, compared with $3,408,657 to 38,452 employés in 1930. The several plans of extra compensation [or profit sharing] yielded $1,940,257 to 1,731 employés for 1931, compared with $3,971,153 to 2,335 employés for 1930.

"At the end of 1931, approximately 62,200 employés were insured for $73,000,000 under the policy paid for by the company. During 1931, also, 144 homes having a value of $1,010,000 were financed under the home ownership plan. Payments of $55,739 were made to employés who submitted suggestions for improving factory methods and products."

Aid for Jobless.

Between Dec. 1, 1930, and Dec. 31, 1931, under the General Electric unemployment emergency plan the employés and the company each contributed $1,100,000. Disbursements totaled $1,357,481. Approximately 33,900 employés at the end of 1931 owned or were paying for $4,471,870 of the company's bonds, which bear 6 per cent interest, but to which the company adds 2 per cent as long as the original purchaser remains in the company's employ and retains the bonds.

It would appear from data in the report that investors have confidence in the General Electric company despite lower earnings, reduced dividends, and the decline in the market price of its stock. The number of stockholders was 150,073 at the end of 1931, a new high record and comparing with 116,750 at the end of 1930 and 60,374 at the end of 1929.

MRS. WRIGLEY GETS HUSBAND'S PLACE ON BOARD

Mrs. Ada E. Wrigley was elected a director of the William Jr. company yesterday to succeed her husband, the late William Wrigley Jr. Two other new directors were also named at the annual meeting of stockholders. J. Allan Ross, vice president and manager of the Canadian operations of the company, was elected to succeed A. G. Cox. Andrew R. Dole was elected to the position left vacant by the death of his brother, John R. Dole. At a later meeting of the board Philip K. Wrigley was renamed president and other officers were reelected. The post of chairman of the board formerly held by William Wrigley was left vacant.

Directors declared three regular monthly dividends, 25 cents payable May 2, 50 cent. payable June 1, and 25 cents payable July, to stock of record on the twentieth of each preceding month.

Corn Products Refining Sales Run Behind Last Year

New York, March 22.—(AP)—Sales of the Corn Products Refining company so far in the first quarter have been running about 10 per cent under the first quarter last year, officials of the company told stockholders at the annual meeting. William T. Ticknor and George V. Coe were elected directors to fill vacancies.

Farm Board Rumors Break Wheat Prices

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets went into a nose dive yesterday. That followed announcement that the federal farm board advisory committee had recommended that the government owned wheat be sold as soon as possible to foreign countries that usually do not buy that American grain.

The trade was already in a nervous stage before the ticker started to carry the Washington news, Liverpool having dropped sharply. Broomhall and private cables attributed that decline to shaken confidence on the part of buyers.

Liquidation by eastern longs in wheat was under way from the start and the decline gathered momentum following numerous statements from Washington. Chairman Stone of the farm board again denied rumors that President George S. Milner of the Stabilization corporation was abroad to help the government dump its grain. This rumor presumably was responsible for the break in Liverpool, as it was not heard in the local market.

Wheat Nears Season's Low.

There was a noticeable lack of support under May wheat and so that dropped below 53c to a new low on the current downturn. At the inside figures prices were off 2⅛@3c from the finish of the previous day and 7⅜@8⅜c off from the close on March 12, with the May touching 52⅞c at the bottom, the lowest figure since Oct. 10.

Buying against bids and on resting orders, as well as short covering, caused a rally toward the close. The finish, however, was at net losses of 1⅞@2c. March closed at 50¾c; May, 53⅜@53⅝c; old July, 55⅛@55⅝c, and old September, 57½@57⅝c.

More attention was paid to reports from the southwest, indicating the snowstorm had furnished much needed moisture over a considerable area, and the distant deliveries led the early decline. May at the inside figure was only 4⅛c above the low for the season.

Fears Further Breaks.

What the wheat trader fears most is that demoralization will develop in other countries if the farm board tries to dispose of any material amount of wheat, especially on credit. The claim is made by those who should know that if China or the orient in general is offered large quantities on credit there would almost certain to be resales of grain already contracted with other countries, as the purchases from the latter were made on practically a cash basis.

Liverpool wheat closed at the lowest figures of the day, with net losses of 1½@1⅝c, with May at 55c, or about ⅝c over Chicago. Winnipeg, while resisting pressure, was off 1⅜@1½c, with May at 60⅜c in Canadian funds. Buenos Aires broke badly late in the day and was 2c lower at the close, with May, 45¼c, or ¾c under the same future in Kansas City, the Argentine market losing

CENT. REPUBLIC BANK REDUCES DIVIDEND BY $4

The Central Republic Bank and Trust company, Chicago's third largest bank, yesterday followed the example of the other big banks in reducing the annual dividend rate on the capital stock to $8 through the declaration of a quarterly payment of $2 a share. Heretofore the stock has been on a $12 yearly dividend basis.

The action follows closely the similar decisions made by the directors of the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company and the First National Bank of Chicago. Recently directors of the Continental reduced the annual dividend rate from $16 to $12 and the First National cut from $18 to $12 a share. The larger New York banks have also cut dividends in the last few weeks.

Directors of the Central Republic yesterday also authorized the transfer of $2,000,000 from undivided profits account to contingent reserve.

Officials explained that, while earnings so far this year have been maintained at a satisfactory rate, the reduction is in accord with the policy of the management in conserving cash assets and building up contingent reserves. The dividend voted yesterday is payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 23.

Sale of Packard Electric to G. M. C. Voted by Board

Warren, O., March 22.—(AP)—Sale of Packard Electric company, a $2,500,000 concern, to General Motors, subject to approval of Packard stockholders, has been approved by directors of the company, N. A. Wolcott, president, announced today. Stockholders will vote on the sale at a special meeting here April 6. If approved the transfer will take place between April 15 and May 1.

Packard stockholders will receive one share of General Motors common stock for three of Packard. There are 134,370 shares of no par stock outstanding. The company manufactures automobile accessories.

American Woolen Head Sees Eventual Profits

Springfield, Mass., March 22.—(AP)—Answering the query of a stockholder in the annual meeting of the American Woolen company today, President Lionel J. Noah predicted that the company would eventually return to an income producing basis. He was unable, however, to indicate when this would be. The annual report of the president said that the company is in a strong cash position, with net current assets of $40,769,244. Loss before reduction of depreciation amounted to $1,330,590, and the loss for the year, transferred to surplus account, was $2,836,826.

J. H. WARD ACTS FOR SCHWAB ON TOOL CO. BOARD

New York, March 22.—(AP)—Charles M. Schwab, largest stockholder in the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company, today passed his mantle as an active force in the direction of the company's affairs to J. H. Ward, a director. The company held its annual meeting at Jersey City, N. J. There it reelected J. H. Ward, Anthony F. Cassidy and W. H. Callan to the board of directors and named Gordon Peach, New York lawyer, as a new member. Mr. Schwab was not a candidate for reelection, following his desire to retire from active participation in the direction of all industrial enterprises, except the Bethlehem Steel corporation, which he founded.

H. W. Newell to Address 1,000 at Stover Co. Meeting

H. W. Newell, vice president, Frigidaire corporation, subsidiary of General Motors, will address 1,000 members of the Stover company organization this evening at the Knickerbocker hotel. The meeting will launch the 1932 advertising and merchandising campaign of this General Motors unit in northern Illinois and Indiana. Mr. Newell will be accompanied from Dayton by a number of key executives.

Electric Bond Wins Permit to Cut Stock

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 22.—Electric Bond and Share company stockholders at a special meeting held today removed an obstacle to the payment of regular dividends on common and preferred stocks. They approved a proposal of the directors to reduce the stated value of the common from $10 to $5 a share and to reduce the number of shares so that one share of new stock will be issued for each three now outstanding. It was not until late yesterday that the company was assured of the necessary two-thirds vote.

Holders of a total of 11,226,531 shares of preferred and common had assented to the plan by sending in their proxies to the management before the meeting started. Those proxies represented the holdings of 19,250 stockholders. The votes cast against the proposal totaled only 8,636.

Plan Discussed Three Hours.

The vote was not taken until after a three hour discussion of the plan's merits. In that Max Goldberg, a Salem, Mass., lawyer, took a leading part. He objected to the proposal on the ground that a reverse split-up was not necessary, and that the same purpose could be accomplished simply by reducing the par value of the common.

Electric Bond and Share is incorporated under the laws of New York state, which contain a provision that no corporation shall declare or pay any dividend unless the value of its assets remaining after the payment of such dividend shall be at least equal to its capital and other liabilities. The question of whether the company is earning dividends or not is not considered.

Will Permit Dividends.

The company now has outstanding 14,750,000 shares of common stock. That, at the stated value of $10, makes a book figure of $147,750,000 common stock capitalization. In accordance with the plan approved today the number of shares will be reduced to about 4,917,000. The stated capital, at $5 per share, will be about $24,585,000. This reduction of about $122,915,000 in the common stock capitalization will give the directors ample leeway for the payment of regular cash dividends on the preferred stocks and stock dividends on the common.

On the basis of market values as of the beginning of this year, the net asset value of the common stock was $10.65 per share. The directors thought it inadvisable to declare dividends with security values fluctuating as they have been, and with so small a margin of assets over capital and other liabilities.

New York, March 22.—Such matters as pending tax and banking legislation, railroad earnings, and weakening grain prices claimed the attention of the Wall street speculative community to the detriment of the stock market today. As a result the list lost about all of the gains it ran up in yesterday's so-called technical rebound.

A handful of pivotal issues, such as American Telephone, Du Pont, United States Steel comman, and General Motors, gave evidence of forced selling. Bear professionals have been growing increasingly active for the last week or so, ever since the scare over the congressional inquiry subsided, and they evidently were at it again today. Leading issues were off 1 to 3 points most of the day. Rallying tendencies developed around the middle of the afternoon and some of the earlier losses were recovered, but the close found the general list still securely below its previous closing levels.

Rails in Poor Light.

Poor February earnings statements, predictions of little if any improvements in the near future, and the disclosure of rapidly mounting figures on applications for loans from the Reconstruction Credit corporation kept the rails in an unfavorable light. Anxiety over the Northern Pacific dividend at tomorrow's meeting was also an adverse factor. Atchison, Northern Pacific, Union Pacific, and others were in a reactionary mood, but most of them finished better than they had started.

Farm implement shares dipped rather sharply in the earlier dealing on the break in wheat, but most of them braced up along in the afternoon. Case Threshing Machine recovered about a point to close unchanged from lost night. International Harvester made up some of its lost

Trust Expects to Avoid a Foreclosure.

BY AL CHASE.

Another step in the reorganization of the South Avalon Manor apartments, at 1108-18 East 82d street, was taken yesterday when Morton S. Ries, representing the Realty Investors trust, conveyed title to the Straus National Bank and Trust company, as trustee. This is a three story building containing thirty-seven apartments, six of them with four rooms and the balance three room kitchenettes. In addition there are four shops.

"Practically all the bonds have been deposited," said Clarence L. Coleman Jr., secretary and treasurer of the Realty Investors trust, "and if all are turned in we'll not have to foreclose and thus avoid considerable unnecessary expense."

Default in 1930.

The South Avalon Manor apartments were financed through a $135,000 Baer, Elsendrath & Co. 7 per cent first mortgage bond issue. Interest defaulted on Dec. 15, 1930. The building occupies a site 115x125.

Twenty-two of the twenty-four suites in the Kenmore apartments, at 5634-36 Kenmore avenue, were occupied on the first of this year, according to C. J. Olsen, secretary of the Greenebaum bondholders' protective committee. He states that the Straus National Bank and Turst company reports $668 cash on hand on Dec. 31, 1931. The gross receipts for two months ending Dec. 31, 1931 were $2,388. Operating expenses were $2,256

The original issue was for $110,000, at 6½ per cent. It has been reduced to $87,000. Foreclosure proceedings have been entered against this property, but a decree of sale has not yet been entered.

Haddon Hall Apartments.

T. E. Williams, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee for Cochran & McCluer properties, stated yesterday that the Citizens State bank, receiver for the Haddon Hall apartments at 4520-28 Malden street, reports cash on hand Dec. 31, 1931, as $1,596. The gross income from Oct. 30, 1931, to Dec. 31, 1931, was $3,953. The disbursements, including $1,722 operating expenses, were $2,356.

The original bond issue on this project was $200,000, at 6½ per cent interest. This has since been reduced to $173,000. The building contains fifty-five apartments, forty-nine of which were rented on the first of this year.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

The Kroger-Consumers company has leased the store at 1437-39 East 53d street, together with the store at 5307 Blackstone avenue, from Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell of Beverly Hills, Cal., for a term of years at a rental based on a minimum guarantee and a percentage on the gross volume of sales. Extensive alterations are now being made by the lessor and when completed the lessee will open one of its new type complete food stores which include groceries, bakery goods and a meat market. Howard M. Landau was broker for all parties.

William A. Ferguson has sold the six apartments at 6050-52 Vernon avenue to Ivar and Hilda Olson for an undisclosed price, subject to a first mortgage. As part consideration, Mr. Olson conveyed the six flat building at 451 East 42d street. Fisher & Fisher and Albert Saunders & Co. were brokers.

Jeanette Lamfrom has purchased the three one-story stores at 4715-19 Cottage Grove avenue from Mrs. Frances Fiedes Emmett for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $12,000. The lot is 50x100. Maurice A. Barancik and Frank H. Graham were attorneys.

To Vote on Reorganization Plan for Utility Company

Stockholders of the American Utilities and General corporation will vote on April 15 on a plan of reorganization involving the sale of assets and the assumption of liabilities by a new company. Holders of the preferred stock will receive shares in the new company on the basis of two new shares for each share held. Holders of the class A and B common stocks will receive warrants to purchase new stock at $4.50 a share.

RAPID TRANSIT OF PHILADELPHIA OMITS DIVIDEND

Gimbel Bros. Delay Action on Theirs.

New York, March 22.—The Philadelphia Rapid Transit company today deferred action on the semi-annual dividend of $1.75 on the cumulative preferred stock due at this time.

Discussing the action of the directors, John A. McCarthy, a director, said:

"Taking the record of gross receipts for 1931 and assuming that business would get no worse than the worst of 1931, with the economies now introduced, we believed we could get through with about $1,100,000 net for the preferred this year.

"We planned a budget on that basis which was completely knocked over by the drop in receipts in the latter part of February and the month of March. As a result, we decided to defer action on the preferred."

Gimbel Bros. Delay Action.

Gimbel Bros., Inc., deferred payment of the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock due at this time. Bernard Gimbel, president, issued the folowing statement:

"The company has not borrowed any money from the banks during the year. It has no bank loans and is in a strong cash position. Cash on hand January 31, 1932, was in excess of $6,000,000. Nevertheless, in view of present conditions, the directors considered it to the best interest of the corporation to defer payment of the May 1 dividend on the preferred stock."

E. W. Bliss company omitted the quarterly dividends on the preferred dividends due at this time. The company had been paying $1 quarterly on the first preferred, 87½ cents quarterly on its preferred A and 15 cents quarterly on the preferred B. The company also omitted quarterly payments of 2 per cent on the common payable in common. The cash dividend of 25 cents a share on the common was discontinued last year.

U. S. Cold Storage Omits Dividend.

United States Cold Storage company omitted the quarterly 50 cents on the common due at this time but voted the regular quarterly $1.75 on the preferred.

Inland Investors declared a quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share. In the preceding quarter 25 cents a share was paid and six months ago 40 cents was paid.

Food Machinery corporation deferred action on the dividend on the common stock due at this time. Three months ago a dividend of 25 cents was paid.

The Manufacturers Casualty Insurance company declared a dividend of 15 cents. This is the first dividend declared by the company since April of last year, when $1 was paid.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 6,000; hogs, 12,000; sheep, 9,000.

Following Monday's unsuccessful early rally, the hog market came back in a stronger upturn yesterday and recovered almost all of Saturday's and Monday's losses. The general average price advanced 10c to $4.45, equaling the highest since Monday of last week. The peak at $4.75, however, is still 10c under the high spot last Friday. Abbreviated supplies, better eastern call, and broader outlet on local account reversed the trend.

Receipts at Chicago totaled only 11,000, the smallest Tuesday run since March, 1929. Advance estimates place today's total at only 12,000. It appears that the storm has curtailed the movement more than the trade had expected it would. Following the release of today's estimate, smaller houses which were holding back early in hopes of duplicating Monday's purchases became aggressive at the 10@15c higher price level. Late buyers ran short on their orders and only pen holders remained unsold. Outsiders bought 4,000 head, or about 36 per cent of fresh receipts.

May Hogs at $5.00.

Contracts for hogs averaging 210@260 lbs to be delivered in May sold at $5.00 on the futures trade yesterday. All offers and bids in other months remained unchanged. July and September contracts were offered at $6.00@6.25, according to weight of the hogs. September heavy grades were bid $5.50. Light weights for today's market were offered at $4.80.

Exceptionally light cattle receipts yesterday brought all buyers on the morket for numbers and prices moved up again. Competition centered on choice grades early in the session, carrying the peak price up 40c to $8.75, within 15c of the highest sale since the middle of last month. Several carloads of 1,306@1,478 lb steers touched the top of the list, while quotations above the $8.00 line were well represented.

Butcher Stock Steady.

The bulk of all steers sold at $5.25@6.25, against $5.25@7.50 a week ago. In between classes of cattle valued at $6.00@7.00 showed the least improvement. Butcher stock ruled strong to 25c higher, top heifers at $7.00 standing highest for that class in two weeks. Most butcher heifers cashed at $4.25@5.25, and some heavy kinds reached $5.50@6.00. Prime cows went at $4.25@4.75, and bulk of beef cows at $3.25@4.25. Calves jumped 50c in value at the opening, but lost the gain.

Cattle receipts are holding light at all points. Only 4,000 arrived at Chicago yesterday, the smallest Tuesday in recent years, barring Christmas week last year. The total at the 20 leading markets for Monday and Tuesday of this week shows 11 per cent decrease compared with a week ago, and is 28 per cent lighter than a year ago.

The lamb market dragged slowly through the first half of the day, but finished strong and fully 10@15c above the general selling Monday. Offerings were exceptionally small, the total at 8,000 standing smallest for Tuesday since June, 1931. Local houses were aggressive in Colorado and Nebraska wool stock at $7.00@7.25, while outsiders paid up to $7.50.

Holland Furnace Co. Has $152,421 Deficit for 1931

Holland Furnace company reports for twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1931, a net loss of $152,421 after all charges, compared with net profit of $1,655,029, or $3.60 a share on the common stock, in the preceding twelve months. The company's fiscal year ends March 31. January results show a substantial improvement over the same month last year in spite of a reduced volume of sales, the company announces.
